SHANTUNG CONTROVERSY STILL REMAINS IN AIR.

Chinese and Jap Delegates Meet but Fail to Agree; Many Hopeful of Settlement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Washington negotiations over Shantung apparently are nearing a conclusion, but whether the outcome is to be a settlement or another deadlock is a question obscured by many elements of conflicting evidence.

There was no outward indication tonight, after the Japanese and Chinese had resumed conversations, that either side had abandoned its former position regarding the troublesome issue over the mode of payment for the Kiao-Chow-Tsinanfu railroad in the former German leasehold.

Nevertheless, the communique said, discussions would be "completed" tomorrow and there was apparent in many quarters a confidence that a final means of settlement would be found.

NO DEFINITE ACTION.

Both delegations entered into a discussion of the three alternative plans for payment for the disputed railroad, but adjourned after a two-hour session without definite action.

The Japanese were said to have reasserted their demand for payment by loans to the Chinese government through the Japanese bankers, which the Chinese declined to consider. The Chinese then announced they had not receded from their two alternative propositions:

Payment in cash or by treasury notes in installments over twelve years with an option permitting China to take up the remaining notes after three years.

There the matter rested with neither delegation willing to comment on the possibility of a satisfactory settlement ultimately being reached.

Asked by newspaper men as to what remained to work on at tomorrow's session, Dr. Wang, a Chinese delegate, replied:

WILL DECLINE LOAN.

"The Chinese delegation will formally decline a Japanese loan, and will expect a definite acceptance or refusal of either of its alternative plans for cash payment, or by treasury bonds in installments."

Arthur J. Balfour and Secretary Hughes were the indirect means of bringing the two delegations together in an effort to break the deadlock, through their observers, who had been "sitting in" during the conversations begun under their auspices, until the interruption came at the request of the Japanese two weeks ago, to ask Tokio for instructions. The first move today for resumption of the meeting came from the Japanese, however, when they notified Messrs. Balfour and Hughes that they had heard from Tokio and were ready again to meet.

INVITATION A SURPRISE.

An invitation for the meeting, sent by the State Department shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon, took the Chinese somewhat by surprise, as only yesterday the Chinese had approached Mr. Balfour and Secretary Hughes with a view to having them renew their "good offices" to effect a settlement.

Earlier reports came from two

ARMS MEET NEAR END.

Plenary Session This Week.

Balfour Promises to Speak Mind Regarding Submarine Question.

[BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON Jan. 4.—Developments today indicate that conclusion of the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments is at hand.

Secretary Hughes called a meeting of the Far Eastern Committee for tomorrow morning to consider reports of subcommittees on the questions affecting China and a meeting of the Committee on Limitation of Naval Armament to follow immediately thereafter.

If no additional obstacles to agreement materialize, there will be a plenary session Friday or Saturday to give formal approval to the proposed treaty reducing and limiting major naval armaments. It is at such plenary session that Mr. Balfour promises to speak his mind without reserve concerning the British case against the submarine and the failure of the conference to set bounds to submarine tonnage.

FAR EASTERN QUESTIONS.

It will not take longto finish the consideration of Far Eastern questions, the limits to the settlement of which are indicated by the reluctance of the Japanese to any lessening of their hold on Manchuria and by the compromises it has been necessary to make on the relief of China from foreign interference.

The naval experts finished today their chart setting forth in detail the conditions under which the powers will be permitted to replace capital ships and other technical provisions of the naval holiday. The legal experts likewise have practically completed the naval holiday treaty.

The treaty will provide for a suspension during the naval holiday of the construction of capital ships, with certain exceptions, for the retention of the big ship tonnage of the United States, Great Britain and Japan and for the following limitation of tonnage: Great Britain and United States, 525,000 each; Japan, 315,000; France and Italy, 175,000 each.

The aggregate tonnage of submarines and auxiliaries will not be limited, but the maximum size of such craft and their gun caliber will be fixed. Airplane carrier tonnage, size and gun caliber will be limited as already agreed upon.

At the meeting of the Far East Committee the Japanese delegation will state its objections to any consideration by the conference of the Chinese proposals for revision of the China-Japanese treaties growing out of Japan's twenty-one demands in 1915.

CHINESE TARIFF.

It is expected that the sub-committee on the Chinese tariff will report an agreement to raise the Chinese tariff to 5 per cent, bringing up also the land tariff to the first of the maritime tariff, it being reported this afternoon that the French delegation had finally assented to the equalization of all the tariffs, thus doing away with discrimination.

The agreement will take effect within four months and will be put in force, a British spokesman said today, by the permanent tariff commission which sits in Pekin and on which are represented the various treaty powers.

The agreement provides also for a special international commission to go to China to investigate, having in view the eventual institution of a 7 per cent tariff.

RANIER LOAN COMPLETED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.— Negotiations of the new $30,000,000 loan, made through the National City Company of New York to Denmark, was completed through signatures here today by M. C. Brun, Danish Minister, of the temporary

DE VALERA HAS PLAN.

Gives Alternative Treaty Ideas.

Would Move Them as an Amendment to Pact as Outlined.

Document Made Public is Different from One Before Dail.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUBLIN, Jan. 4.—Eamon De Valera, when the Dail Eireann rose this evening, produced for the first time publicly his alternative proposals to the Irish treaty. A fortnight ago he was asked by Arthur Griffith to publish them, and Mr. Griffith repeated his challenge today.

Mr. De Valera's original idea, as announced by himself, was to move his alternative proposals in the event of rejection of the treaty. But now he intends, if he is permitted, to move them as an amendment to the resolution approving the treaty.

APPEALS TO PEOPLE.

The document was issued to the press, accompanied by an appeal by Mr. De Valera in a manifesto addressed to the Irish people urging them not to be stampeded in the support of the treaty, which would not bring peace.

The document as issued differs, according to Mr. Griffith, from the document submitted in the private sessions of the Dail. It follows the main outline of the treaty, but implies, Mr. De Valera contends, a fundamental difference in principle. It asserts that the sole source of authority in Ireland rests with the Irish people, while by the treaty, it is argued, it is derived through the king.

Mr. De Valera's plan contains no oath of allegiance but admits recognition of his Britannic majesty as head of the association of States in the British commonwealth, with which Ireland externally associates itself.

NO CHANGE IS SEEN.

Debate today revealed at least three parties in the Dail, supporters of the treaty, supporters of Mr. De Valera and his alternative proposals, and some inactive Republicans opposed to both. Vigorous speeches were made for and against the treaty but there was no indication of any change in the sentiment of the members.

When the motion for adjournment was made tonight, Mr. De Valera's announcement that he would move tomorrow as an amendment to Mr. Griffith's motion in favor of the treaty his own alternative proposals, gave rise immediately to a heated controversy. Mr. Griffith, who, like other members, had received a copy of the proposals, said: "Are we to consider this a new document, or document No. 2?" Referring to the De Valera plan.

Mr. De Valera said, "You are quibbling."

GIRL USES PRIVILEGE OF HER SEX

Has Change of Heart at Last Minute; No Wedding Bells for Her.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Close friends of Mary Landon Baker today gave the inside story of the dramatic postponement of a wedding which the greater part of Chicago society had gathered to witness last Monday afternoon. Miss Baker, who is the daughter of Alfred L. Baker, was to have married Allister McCormick. The intimate story reveals that the wedding was postponed because the prospective bride, at the last minute, "could not go against her innermost convictions."

It was revealed that Miss Baker had a change of heart at a rehearsal for the wedding. "At the rehearsal, which was similar to the real ceremony, Mary suddenly realized the tremendous significance of what she was doing," said a close friend of the Bakers. "It was then her own indecision came to the front. She had believed she loved Mr. McCormick enough to marry him, but at the moment she knew she was uncertain. Up until the time of the ceremony she had planned to go through with it. She even got into her wedding dress. By that time she was in a condition bordering on collapse. She believed she was doing wrong in going through with the wedding feeling as she did."

It was said at the Baker home today that Miss Baker was very much improved. It was discovered yesterday that Miss Baker had been able to be up and call several friends by telephone. It had been reported that she was unable to leave her bed. Mrs. Baker said that her daughter had no plans for the immediate future.

SORRY FOR STILLMAN, SAYS WIFE.

"Only Thing Between Us is War, and War to the Last Ditch."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MONTREAL, Jan. 4.—"I am sorry for Mr. Stillman. I pity him, but it is that pity of charity for a fool, a stupid fool who would wreck his home for selfish motives.

"So far from having any kindly feeling for him, I know and am glad to say the only thing between us is war and war to the last ditch. The ignominy of his charges will prove a boomerang to himself."

In these words Mrs. Anne Urquhart Potter Stillman disposed of any idea of reconciliation between her and the husband who is suing her for divorce on charges of misconduct with the Indian guide, Fred K. Beauvais.

Mrs. Stillman left Montreal this evening for Three Rivers. She hired here Aime Geffrieon, King's counsel, who received Bud Stillman's Christmas present of $1000 sent him by his father. The $1000 served as retainer fee.

It was definitely announced today that Napoleon K. Laflamme, a member of the Canadian Parliament, would represent Mr. Stillman's forces in the legal battle starting January 11.

It was disclosed today that Fred Beauvais spoke to Mrs. Stillman, his former employer, for the first time in three years last night when he called on her at the Ritz from Grandes Piles. The brief conversation was a duplication of his offer to "give his life blood in her defense." Mrs. Stillman said. Beavais is employed at present obtaining witnesses in the valley.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL SIGNED UP FOR THREE YEARS, GOTHAM HEARS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—According to the New York World, Postmaster-General Hays has accepted the post of director-general of the National Association of the Motion-Picture Industry at a salary of $150,000 a year for a term of three years under a contract made in those terms. On December 9 it was announced that the tender of that post at the salary named had been made to Mr. Hays.

Mr. Hays on January 14, in Washington, at a conference arranged with the national leaders of the motion-picture industry will make public on his own account his decision to take the post of director-general. The National Association of the Motion-Picture Industry embraces in its membership all the motion-picture producers of the United States.

CONTRACT IS SIGNED.

The signature of Mr. Hays was written at the foot of the contract offered more than a week ago. Nothing which can develop at the conference with his prospective clients at the meeting next week is expected to change his attitude in relation to the work ahead of him.

He faces a monumental task in organization of the producers for fully co-ordinated teamwork to meet the battles he and they certainly face, especially in the arena of practical politics.

Following is, in brief, the World's version:

Democrats in Congress and in State legislatures where that party is in control will no: expect any favors from an industry whose all-powerful direction is in the hands of the man who as Chairman of the Republican National Committee was credited with naming the candidate for President in 1920 and put him in the White House by a majority of many millions.

PICKED FOR ABILITY.

Censorship is the only weapon at the disposal of politics against the motion pictures. Laws proposing to prohibit showing of any political subjects or candidatas are within the expectation of the producers. They did not pick Will H. Hays merely for his demonstrated political astuteness and masterful generalship. They will need a past master of politics, but also required for a director-general a man who knew the screen thoroughly and in every aspect. Mr. Hays is known to leaders of the industry as one of the best informed persons in the country on all factors of the screen, commercial, financial and political.

Mr. Hays did not hesitate long in accepting their offer. Washington has ceased to hold charms for him. It is common talk in the Capital that Harry M. Daugherty, the Attorney-General, is the "white-haired boy" of the White House. The Republican party leaders realized early in the Harding administration that Will H. Hays was not. When Mr. Hays was supplanted as chairman of the party's national committee, the change was credited to necessity because of the Cabinet place to which the chairman had been appointed.

GLAD TO QUIT CABINET.

The friends of Postmaster-General Hays did not see any necessity for relieving him of the party chairmanship which he had so adorned. Maybe Mr. Hays saw none. He welcomed the opportunity to leave his Cabinet post for the new one he has just accepted. That may be stated with assurance.

In the motion-picture industry Mr. Hays faces the completion and perfection of a work of organization of rival and powerful interests which began with formation of the national association. To bring into peaceful understanding all the powerful exhibitors (theater owners) calling themselves the Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association of America is another eminently important and immediate task for Director-General Hays. This organization is led by Sidney S. Cohen, Charles S. O'Reilly and Senator James J. Walker.

"HIGH UPS" ACCUSED.

Enforcement Men Are Indicted.

Politicians and Druggists in New York Named in Secret Bills.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Breaking of the seals on a secret indictment returned some weeks ago by the Federal grand jury investigating enforcement of the Volstead Act here today revealed that Harold L. Hart, attorney, who formerly served as Federal prohibition director for New York State, headed a score of defendants charged with conspiracy to defraud the government through liquor withdrawals.

Indicted with Hart were two other high enforcement officials, three politicians and a number of drug concerns and their officers. The defendants included:

THREE INDICTED.

Thomas Reddy, who served as Hart's assistant before the latter's resignation last fall.

Michael J. Lynch, a clerk in Hart's office with a key to the cabinet containing the serially numbered withdrawal permits.

William A. Orr, private secretary to Charles S. Whitman when the latter occupied the gubernatorial chair.

Owen B. Murphy, treasurer of the Bronx county Democratic committee.

Thomas F. Duffy, politician.

Several drug concerns and their officers.

DEFRAUDING CHARGED.

The indictment, returned after an investigation of several months, followed complaints of lax enforcement of the Volstead Act and frequent shifts in Federal prohibition headquarters. The defendants are charged with defrauding the government by issuing fraudulent withdrawal permits, whereby liquor exceeding vastly the amounts allowed any one defendant for the compounding of drugs had been withdrawn.

The offense, alleged to have involved wholesale quantities of liquor, ranks with a felony and, upon conviction, the defendants would face three-year prison terms.

Orr, Lynch and Duffy today entered tentative pleas of not guilty and were released in $5000 bail each. Counsel also entered

FIVE UNIONS QUIT WORK

Fight to Finish in Chicago.

Building Construction to Extent of $4,500,000 is Stopped.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Construction work was stopped on four projects by five unions today on orders from union officials. Building construction to the extent of $4,500,000 was tied up. It was the forerunner of a building trades strike in which the unions will match their strength against that of the citizens' committee which is determined to enforce the Landis wage award and to "settle for once and all the question of open or closed shop."

The unions affected are the cement finishers, painters, plumbers, steam fitters and hoisting engineers. In addition there was a strike of 2500 members of the excavating, grading and asphalt teamsters' union as the result of a wage cut. Employers asked the teamsters to take a reduction of $6 a week.

FIGHT TO LAST DITCH.

Meanwhile the citizens' committee stated that the action of the building trades constituted a declaration of war, which they will fight to the last ditch, using all of the power they possess to make the strike ineffective.

"The committee has been notified that there have been strikes on four large jobs," said an official statement of the committee. "In each case the strike was followed by the appearance of a group of business agents on the job. These are not examples of abandonment of work, such as are covered by the provisions of the Landis award where workers leave without the knowledge or sanction of their union officials.

"Instead they are sympathetic strikes—clean-cut violations of the provisions of the award carried out with the full knowledge of the union officials. Such violations are not arbitrable.

"The committee regards these strikes in the same light as other violations of the judge's working rules and wage scales. It will move immediately to operate these jobs with craftsmen who are willing to work under the terms and provisions of the Landis award."

WORK IS PROCEEDING.

Within an hour after the foregoing statement has been issued the committee reported that the

STEPHENS YIELDS POINT.

Governor to Call Special Session of Legislature to Act on Reapportionment, Sacramento Report.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4.—Yielding to the tremendous pressure generated by the Southern California drive for immediate legislative reapportionment on the basis of the 1920 census, Gov. Stephens, it became known today, has virtually made up his mind to call a special session on reapportionment before June 1, probably May 15.

In his eagerness to meet the demand of the south for reapportionment in accordance with the Constitution, it is reliably reported that the Governor would call the session at once were it not for the fact Congress has been slow in reapportioning Representatives to the several States. The Governor is said to have been advised that Congress is sure to act on reapportionment before adjournment in June and consequently he has determined to delay the call as late as possible in order to take advantage of any such action.

MUST ACT BEFORE JUNE 1.

It also developed today that Stephens will be forced to call the session before June 1, if legislative reapportionment is to be effective for the 1923 Legislature, in order to give Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan time to make necessary changes for the August primary election. Jordan today announced that June 25 is the first day on which candidates can begin circulation of nomination petitions for the August primary and in the event of reapportionment of legislative districts he states that at least twenty-five days prior to this date would be needed to fix the number of signatures that would be required to qualify nomination papers in the new districts.

If a special session were held later than June 1, Jordan would be forced to fix the number of signatures necessary to qualify nomination papers on the basis of the present districts and therefore any changes made at the special session would not become effective until the regular session in 1925.

In other words, if the session were held later than June 1 and Los Angeles were granted the additional representatives to which she is entitled under the 1920 census, these new representatives could not be seated until the 1925 session.

The importance of giving the Secretary of State time to make the changes necessary to conform with the requirements of the direct primary law in the event of reapportionment, it is declared, has been called to Stephens's attention and has been recognized by him.

This old world needs a construction gang and not a wrecking crew.

TOM HIND DIES AT HOUSTON

Espee Construction Chief and Oil Company Head Passes Away.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) Jan. 4.—Tom Hind, who had been associated with the late Col. Espes Randolph of Tucson, former president of the Southern Pacific of Mexico and the Arizona Eastern Railway, as construction engineer on several projects handled by the late railway chief, died in Houston Texas today, according to word received by F. J. Dyer, United States Consul in Nogales, Son.

Mr. Hind was superintendent of construction on new lines of the Southenr Pacific of Mexico near Tepic, Son., until a few weeks ago, when he was appointed superintendent of an oil company of which H. D. Titcomb of Tucson, now president of the Southern Pacific of Mexico, is one of the chief executives. He was on his way to Tampico to assume his new duties when he died.

Among the projects on which Hind was associated with Col. Randolph was the Imperial Valley irrigation project in Southern California. Mr. Hind was about 50 years old and is survived by his widow, who is in Santa Monica, Cal.

HILL WILL FIGHT ON IN EAST.

Children of "Empire Builder" in Court Over Mother's Estate.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. PAUL, Jan. 4.—Briefs in the contest for appointment of the administrator for the $133,000,000 estate of Mrs. James J. Hill, widow of the "empire builder," were filed in Probate Court today by two opposing factions among her nine children. Hearing was set for January 27.

One group petitions for the appointment of the Northwestern Trust Company as administrator, while Louis W. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern Railway, asks that he be appointed. Affidavits of several of the children filed with the petitions, urged that the matter be settled out of court in deference to the memory of their parents.

The controversy among the heirs over settlement of the estate hinges in part on the validity of Mrs. Hill's transfer to Louis W. Hill of the North Oaks Farm, the Hill million-dollar country establishment near here. In affidavits filed today several of the heirs charge that Louis Hill improperly influenced the mother in this transaction.

Diamond Drill Runner Drowns in River Flood.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAS VEGAS, (Nev.) Jan. 4.—J. G. Tierney of St. James, Mo., a diamond drill runner employed by the Federal government at the Boulder Canyon dam-site forty miles from here was drowned December 30 when rising waters of the Colorado River tore a government scow on which he was working from its moorings and swept it down the river.

Word of the fatality was brought here today by Walker R. Young, government engineer in charge of the preliminary work at Boulder Canyon dam site. Mr. Young said Tierney's body would probably be found many miles down the Colorado River, if it was ever recovered. Storm conditions made immediate search impossible, he said.

SICK VETERANS PROTEST.

Refuse to Be Made Goat Through Reserve Medical Officers Being Disenrolled, They Declare.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Telegrams from State and national officials of the American Legion and from disabled World War veterans in government hospitals throughout the country were received by the Treasury Department and Senators and Congressmen today protesting against a recommendation to the Treasury Department for the disenrollment of reserve medical officers in the United States Public Health Service assigned to hospitalization work among the war-disabled.

More than 500 messages condemning the proposal were delivered to the Treasury Department during the day. They charged the move would cause the replacement of the present trained medical personnel with civilian doctors inexperienced in the treatment of war cases and would place the disabled man at the mercy of physicians and surgeons appointed as a reward for political patronage.

WON'T BE MADE GOAT.

The first movement against Washington of disabled veterans who hope to defeat the proposed substitution of low paid civilian doctors for the surgeons and physicians of the reserve corps, now treating the veterans in the public health service hospitals, was begun tonight at midnight in New York.

At the close of a day marked by the rapid mobilization of veterans who say they will refuse to be made the "goat" in a plan designed to effect a saving of $750,000 yearly in salaries of medical men, there departed for the national capital a veteran with one leg and another one with one eye, hoping to gain audience with President Harding tomorrow.

They are Daniel F. Rothermel, who lost his right leg at Chateau Thierry in July, 1918, serving with the Twenty-sixth Regiment of the First Division, and Stephen R. Bender, whose right eye was shot out in Belleau Woods in June, 1918, while he was serving with the Fifth Marines of the Second Division.

MAJ. OPIE DENIES HE SHOT DOWN SOLDIERS.

Witness Declares That He Saw Officer Take Gun and Fire at Private in Ranks.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Accuser and accused faced each other today before a Senate committee investigating charges that American soldiers had been hanged without trial in France.

Near the close of the session, Maj. H. L. Opie of Staunton, Va., commander of the Third Battalion, One Hundred and Sixteenth Infantry, overseas, went on the stand to enter emphatic denial of charges of former service men that he had shot down some of his soldiers in cold blood on the battlefield. He was asked, however, to step aside until other witnesses testified against him, meanwhile being given the right through counsel to cross-examine them.

SAW OFFICER FIRE.

Grayson H. Withrow of Baltimore, still in his early twenties, testified that he saw the officer seize a gun from a private and fire at a man in his command. Shells were falling, he said, and there was tremendous excitement, but Withrow swore that from his retreat in a shell hole he saw the man fall as the major's gun barked. But he could not say whether Opie had killed him, declaring that the latter, standing out in the open, was within arm's reach of half a dozen officers when the shot was fired.

As Withrow left the stand William F. St. John of Lynchburg, Va., suffering from nervous troubles resulting from service overseas, accused the Virginian of shooting down a "runner" at the front because he failed to heed after thrice being ordered to halt. Four other men saw the killing, he declared, but he refused to give their names on the ground that he had not been able to confer with them and that it would not be just to him if they should appear and "not back up" his charges. One, he said, had "developed cold feet" and was unwilling to come.

SUBMITS NAMES.

Reminded by Chairman Brandegee that the names must be submitted, St. John complied, mentioning first the cousin of one of Maj. Opie's counsel. It was while St. John was being cross-examined by John A. Cutchins of Richmond, Va., Maj. Opie's counsel, that he lost control of his shattered nerves and shouted he was dealing with a bunch of fanatics who are "trying to prove I am nutty." Mr. Cutchins disclaimed such an intention.

Seeing that the young man was worn out by excitement, Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, whose charges of illegal executions are under investigation, declined to question him. Tomorrow Maj. Opie will testify.

INQUIRY RUNS COURSE.

Starting out with the testimony of Rufus P. Hubbard of New York, who, as an embalming assistant with the American graves registration service, declared he found a noose and black cap on the bodies of three American soldiers dug up in the little French cemetery at Bazoilles, the committee permitted the inquiry to run its course. Another witness, who assisted in a legal execution, declared that the body was buried, noose and black cap intact, in the same cemetery where Hubbard said three so marked had been found.

A farm boy from Georgia, who frankly but pathetically announced he could not read or write, cleared up his statement concerning the shooting of a soldier because he had sneaked away from his command to quench his thirst at a spring. It developed that the command was trying to conceal its position from the enemy and that all hands had been warned that the first man attempting to walk out in the open would be shot. The soldier walked fifty yards beyond the deadline, refused to halt when ordered, and they shot him in his tracks.

TELL OF HANGINGS.

There was much testimony relating to executions at Is-sur-Tille, none of the witnesses being able to say whether the victims had been tried, beyond the claim of some to the contrary as the trap was sprung. War Department records, containing the list of eleven legal hangings, listed two at Is-sur-Tille.

Quite inadvertently a member of the committee brought out during the examinations of a former soldier that since the war he had served fourteen months in the Georgia penitentiary for stealing an automobile. No attempt was made, however, to discredit his testimony. It related solely to executions conducted publicly with soldiers drawn up as witnesses, in accordance with military regulations.

The first flare of the day started when Emmet Cochran of Savannah, Ga., was called.

"What do you know about hangings?" the chairman asked.

"Nothing. I am here to answer charges by Senator Watson," he said.

"Senator Watson has made no charges," the Georgian shouted.

"I think this witness should confine himself to evidence."

Cochran testified that he had been tried by court-martial and acquitted of charges of killing a soldier.

He said the killing was in self-defense.

The hanging of two American soldiers at Is Sur Tile, France, in 1919, was described by F. B. Fitch of Lansing, Mich.

Fitch was unable to say whether the men hanged had been tried by court-martial.

"One of them, a negro," he said, "pleaded for a trial and a fair show."

Charles B. Green of Minneapolis, who said he had been in forty-five States and served four enlistments in the Army, took the stand.

At St. Nazaire, Green said, he saw the bodies of two negroes.

"I asked about it," he said, "they told me there was a bird down there known as a nigger killer who got them—that he killed some every time he went on duty."

"Know of any murders of your own knowledge?"

"None."

Green told of six or eight bodies being hauled to a hospital where he was a patient after the armistice, but said he did not know how the men were killed.

"They told me the men had been shot by military police," he said.

"Have you any feeling in this matter?" asked Senator Overman.

"Yes. I have made charges against five officers," he replied.

SAW THREE HANGED.

Merrill D. Watson of Fenton, Mich., the next witness, said he saw three men put to death at Is Sur Tile, but did not know whether the men hanged had been tried.

Col. Bethel pressed Watson as to the date of the three executions, all of which, the witness said, were conducted at different times from the same scaffold. Watson said they were in April, 1919. Col. Bethel explained to the committee that two men were hanged legally at Is Sur Tile, the dates being April 4 and 25, 1919.

Samuel M. Forebaugh of Detroit declared he saw three men hanged at Is Sur Tile in the spring of 1919. All were publicly executed, but like other witnesses, Firebaugh was unable to say if the victims had been tried.

Harry W. Segal of Dorchester, Mass., who enlisted for service overseas at Jacksonville, Fla., told of witnessing the hanging of two negroes at Grieves in January, 1919.

"The hangings—it was a lynching, I thought, was the aftermath of a riot that occurred two days before," Segal said.

He did not know whether the men were tried by court-martial.

KNEW NO WITNESSES.

Getting back to the story of the white sergeant hanged for rape, Segal declared the man was at a hotel known everywhere as a brothel and that the woman with him made exorbitant demands for money and then started a row. The gendarmes, he said, rushed in, and the soldier's conviction and hanging followed.

Segal admitted that he had been convicted twice by court-martial for contracting a disease.

Senator Ernest, Republican, Kentucky, asked if it were not strange that he could give the names of no witnesses to substantiate his statement about seeing two men dragged from their bunks and hanged.

The witness thought not, as he did not know names of other men who saw what he did.

TWO VILLAGES ARE INUNDATED.

Two Lives Lost and Heavy Property Damage in Darien Province.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PANAMA, Jan. 4.—Torrential rains have flooded the river Tuira in the province of Darien, and the villages of Pinogama and Yavisa are inundated. The authorities at Real de Santa Maria report that two lives have been lost and there is heavy property damage. They have asked for assistance.

(The river Tuira rises near the Colombian border and flows to the Gulf of St. Miguel on the Pacific side of the isthmus.)

sources that direct negotiations for a settlement of the Shantung dispute were proceeding between Peking and Tokio to a successful conclusion.

One came from the Japanese, who said information from Tokio indicated that the Peking government was ready to accept the Japanese proposal for payment by a Japanese loan and that the Chinese there had been so instructed, but were not carrying out Peking's instructions.

The other came in a message to Dr. Ma Soo, representative of the Canton South China government, now in New York, from Dr. Wu Ting Fang, Canton Foreign Minister, to the same general effect.

Both reports were characterized by Wellington Koo, a Chinese delegate, as "untrue."

Despite the seeming lack of optimism among the Chinese tonight, American and British officials were hopeful of a successful outcome now that the two delegations have been brought together again.

RAID A SUCCESS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Prohibition agents and United States deputy marshals traveling by train under sealed orders conducted a raid in Sweetwater county, Wyoming, which netted sixty-six arrests for violation of the prohibition laws, Prohibition Commissioner Haynes was advised today by the Federal prohibition director, Carl Jackson, at Cheyenne.

Similar raids by flying squads of enforcement officers, traveling on sealed orders, may take place in other sections of the country, it was said today, the Wyoming raid being viewed as a very successful test of a new method. Mr. Jackson described Rock Springs in Sweetwater country, as "the wettest spot in Wyoming."

"All the search warrants and the warrants to arrest," he said, "were prepared in my office in order to keep our destination secret. Forty-one men were sworn in as deputy sheriffs but were not informed as to their destination nor upon what character of a mission they were going. A special Pullman car was chartered and the special deputies headed by U. S. Marshal Patton and accompanied by Agent Wachtel and myself left at 12:35 on the morning of Dec. 28, 1921.

FEW INFORMED.

"The car was attached to one of the through trains on the Union Pacific system and was dispatched under orders; not a single member of the train crew or man in the car knew where we were going except the United States Marshal, the United States Attorney, myself and assistant.

"A short time before the arrival of this car in Rock Springs the men were divided in groups of two or three persons each. Each group was given a large envelope containing a Federal search warrant and the warrant for the arrest of the person connected with the place of business. On the front of the envelope was a diagram showing how the place to be searched could be reached from where the car was parked.

"In less than thirty minutes after the arrival of the train," he added, "the raid had been completed with the result of sixty-six arrests and the seizure of liquor and raisins in such quantity that it was necessary to charter a special car to remove the seized property."

When approved it will be submitted to a special plenary session of the conference for adoption.

In its present form the covenant comprises a number of sections, each treating with one aspect of the naval question as it has come before the conference. It is understood they include the following:

SCRAPPING OF SHIPS.

1. (a) Agreement for scrapping capital ships, detailing time periods within which vessels must be rendered unfit for service.

(b) Agreement for eventual limitation of capital ship fleets under 5-5-3-1.66-1.66 ratio.

(c) Agreement for limitation of individual capital ships in size and guns.

(d) Agreement on standard international unit for measurement of tonnage. Attached will be a replacement chart setting forth dates of replacement and dates of commissioning of new ships.

AIRPLANE CARRIERS.

2. (a) Agreement for limitation of individual aircraft carriers in size and guns.

(b) Agreement for limitation of individual auxiliary craft in size and guns.

3. Rules for use by aircraft of torpedo tubes.

4. Regulations fixing the status of merchant vessels in wartime and covering their possible conversion into armed cruisers.

5. Regulations covering building in private yards of signatory powers, both on their own soil and by their nationals abroad, of warships destined for other powers either of those signing the treaty, or the nonsignatory powers.

USE OF SUBMARINES.

6. Regulations for the use of submarines.

7. Regulations broadly defining conduct of signatory powers in case of future wars, and especially in cases of wars with nonsignatory powers.

8. Regulations defining the exact status of "refitting" a capital ship; whether installation of new and later guns will be permitted, for instance, or whether old guns may only be rebored.

9. Agreement as to Pacific fortifications.

Children of Californian Are Kept Out

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The British Consulate and officials of the Star Line started a campaign today to gain admittance to the United States of four Australian-born children of M. I. Boyd, Death Valley, Cal., civil engineer, who were detained by Ellis Island officials under the immigration quota law.

Mrs. Boyd, who arrived with the children, was told she could enter, as she was of English birth and the English quota had not been exceeded, but that as the Australian quota had been filled the children could not enter. She remained with the children on the steamship Finland, on which they arrived.

The father, a former major in the Australian expeditionary forces, has been in America since the war ended.

Skippers Refuse to Fly German Merchant Flag.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HAMBURG, Jan. 4.—Disinclination to fly the new black, red and gold merchant flag of Germany, which became the official flag January 1, was evident today, when a majority of the German boats showed only the customs flag. Others departing refused to fly either the old or the new emblem. One boat belonging to the Hugo Stinnes interests left displaying a Christmas tree.

Skippers who sailed scorning the republican flag declared that they would hoist the old German flag in international waters and foreign ports.

Twenty-three American ships were among the 725 arriving here during December. Twenty-six American vessels were among the 720 outgoing vessels.

LECTURE TO THUG FAILS OF OBJECT.

YOUNG LAD GRABS WOMAN'S PURSE WHILE TELLING OF PLAN TO REFORM.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Margaret Ryan, who has been studying sociology, remembered the teachings contained in her book last night when she encountered a youth who was bent on holding her up. Mrs. Ryan lectured the youth severely.

"I'm shocked at you," she declared, when the youth held a pistol in her direction. "A boy of your obvious breeding. What would your mother say if she knew you were out threatening people with a pistol. You ought to be ashamed of yourself, committing robbery and murder like that. Its such things that get a nice young fellow like you into jail."

"Can the chatter and kick in," admonished the youth. Mrs. Ryan forgot herself at this point and boxed the youth's ears. She regretted her action when the youth began to weep. As Mrs. Ryan was apologizing her hasty action, the weeping youth was talking of his plans to reform, but he grabbed her purse containing $90 and ran.

DE VALERA HAS NEW PROPOSAL.

clauses; this new document consists of seventeen. Six clauses are omitted."

Further controversy then arose regarding whether Mr. De Valera's proposals could be moved as an amendment at all, as they have been described on the agenda paper as a separate motion. One deputy urged that the new proposals embodied a policy to follow on the rejection of the treaty, and not as an amendment.

DE VALERA IN TEMPER.

Mr. De Valera said:

"I am responsible. I am going to choose my own procedure now."

Mr. Griffith replied that it was not within the competence of Mr. De Valera to do so, as the Dail was constitutional body.

"I am going to propose my own amendment in my own terms and it will be for the house to decide," retorted Mr. De Valera.

The session then adjourned until tomorrow.

The text of the most important provisions of De Valera's alternative proposal follow:

Status of Ireland: That the legislative, executive and judicial authority of Ireland shall be derived solely from the people of Ireland.

Terms of association: That for the common concern Ireland shall be associated with the states of the British commonwealth, namely the Kingdom of Great Britain, the Dominion of Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, the Dominion of New Zealand and the Union of South Africa.

That when acting as an associate, the rights, status and privileges of Ireland shall in no respect be less than those enjoyed by any other component states of the British commonwealth; that the matters on common concern shall include defense, peace, war, political treaties and all matters now treated as of common concern among states of the British commonwealth, and that in these matters there shall be between Ireland and the state of the British commonwealth such concerted action founded on consultation as the several governments may determine.

That in virtue of this association of Ireland with the states of the British commonwealth, the citizens of Ireland in any of these states shall not be subjected to any disabilities which a citizen of one of the component states of the British commonwealth would not be subject to and reciprocally for the citizens of these states in Ireland.

That for the purposes of the association, Ireland shall recognize his Britannic majesty as head of the association.

PROVIDE OWN DEFENSE.

That so far as her resources permit, Ireland shall provide for her own defense by sea, land and air, shall repel by force any attempt by a foreign power to violate the integrity of her soil or territorial waters, or use them for any purposes hostile to Great Britain and the other associated states.

The document sets forth in somewhat similar terms to the peace treaty, particulars regarding coastal defense, with a list of harbor facilities and an agreement to build no submarines except by the consent of the British commonwealth of states, make a convention for the regulation of civil communication by air, assume an arbitrated share of the British debt and war pensions, agree to endow no religion and arrange for the election of a provisional government and for ratification.

An annex names Berehaven, Queenstown, Belfast and Lough Swilly as harbors remaining in British care, with facilities for coastal defense by air.

A resolution added to the document expresses willingness to grant the northeast six counties privileges and safeguards "not less substantial than those provided for" in the documents signed at London on December 6.

OPINION IS DIVIDED.

During today's debate Desmond Fitzgerald, Minister of Propaganda, pointed out that no treaty existed for all time but only until one of the parties denounced it. The treaty was recognition of the Irish people's sovereignty. If it was signed under duress, both signed under duress, as it was forced from the British government by Irish action.

James Fitzgerald of Queenstown said the people realized that under the treaty sovereign independence was gone and they only supported the treaty because they saw no alternative.

Dr. Hayes of Limerick said the treaty was a necessary compromise.

James O'Mahoney of Farnagnah, opposing the treaty, said 90 per cent of his constituents were reported in favor of ratification, but the mandate from the country to the Dail was clear.

Women of Ireland and the young men of the army, he said, opposed the treaty, notwithstanding that some of their leaders supported it.

Dan McCarthy of Dublin said he himself knew as much about the Irish elections as anybody and the electors had voted not for a particular form of government, but for self-determination.

The people were 95 per cent in favor of the treaty, he said. To this there were cries of "no."

"Well, test it," he shouted.

CURFEW IN BELFAST.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BELFAST, Jan. 4.—Following three days of serious rioting in which six persons were killed the authorities ordered an 8 o'clock curfew, to go into effect tonight in North Belfast. Last night's sniping and fighting were exceptionally bitter, another death being added to the roll.

This morning the city was quieter after a terrifying night, when military in armored cars raked the York-street district with machine guns after a bomb had been thrown from a street car into a group standing on a street corner. Although the bomb exploded with terrific force, by an odd chance no one was hurt.

This morning the police surprised some men firing in the Garrick Hill district. After a running battle, in which several shots were fired by both sides, the police captured two rioters, one of whom carried a Mauser and the other bombs.

It is hoped through the curfew and an order against street assemblies that quiet will be restored tonight. A Coroner's jury this afternoon returned a verdict of willful murder against unknown persons in the cases of recent bombings in which there were twelve victims. The jury expressed its opinion that effective measures should have been taken by the responsible authorities for the preservation of peace.

BLIZZARD IS RAGING IN NORTHWEST

Big Drifts Hamper Trains; Stockmen Fear Heavy Loss of Cattle.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SIOUX CITY (Iowa) Jan. 4.—The worst blizzard of several years was raging over Northwest Iowa, Northwest Nebraska and Southeast South Dakota today. Eight inches of light snow fell last night and this forenoon. A high northwest wind piled it in great drifts and railroad trains experienced great trouble. Street car traffic is crippled. Stock men say there will be heavy losses of cattle if the storm continues long.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Burdened with sleet and snow and borne on a driving northwest wind, a heavy blizzard is rushing toward Chicago and may reach here in the next twenty-four hours, the Weather Bureau announced today.

Temperatures will drop to from 10 to 15 degrees above zero, it was forecast.

Late in the day weather observers reported the storm to be centering about midway between Peoria and Davenport, and headed toward Chicago at a forty-one-mile clip. The lake, it was said, will probably avert the storm's full force from being felt here.

The path of the blizzard was announced as having been thus far through Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa. Especially heavy losses were reported in Nebraska, where hundreds of cattle were frozen to death on the ranges.

From Kansas City, Mo., comes the report that storm warnings have been sent out there predicting a drop in temperature. There the storm area extended from St. Joseph to Oklahoma City, and considerable damage has been reported.

One house was twisted on its foundation at McAlester Okla., and several houses were unroofed. At Tulsa the storm damaged houses and tore away half of the electric powerhouse. The roof garden on top of the Brady Hotel was blown to the street and three persons were injured by falling windows. Many houses were damaged to a lesser degree by the winds.

Sponge, Quick Action, Save Wet Evidence.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MARYSVILLE, Jan. 4.—A sponge and considerable foresight on the part of prohibition agents of Marysville combined to place John M. Morgan and Daniel Crowley, proprietor and employee, respectively, of the Cliff house here, under arrest today.

The two are charged with violation of the liquor laws and are on bonds of $500 each.

Although four bottles of alleged illicit liquor were dashed on the floor of the establishment, one officer with the sponge and the foresight succeeded in mopping up all the evidence, officers said, that will be required to take the case to court.

Va., for whom she was acting as instructor in a flying test, attended the Polytechnic High School here in 1915, where he broke the world's interscholastic record for both the 400 and 440-yard runs. SENATE TO GET AFTER PROFITEERS

Investigation of House Furnishing Industry Ordered in Resolution.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Investigation by the Federal Trade Commission of the house furnishings goods industry was directed in a resolution adopted late today by the Senate. The resolution, sponsored by Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, provides that the inquiry shall embrace "the causes of factory, wholesale and retail price conditions" in the industry.

The debate preceding adoption was characterized by a general attack on profiteers, trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and scattering casualties on the Federal Trade Commission. The latter was defended, however, by several Senators, who contended it could never be "a popular government agency because of the nature of its work."

Half a dozen Senators, including King of Utah, Robinson of Arkansas, and Walsh of Montana, Democrats, and Norris of Nebraska, Republican, urged that the scope of the inquiry be broadened, contending it should include trusts and combinations in other commodities and in other lines of industry wherever they could be reached.

Prosecuting officers of the State governments were assailed by King and Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, who declared these officials appeared to have sat "with folded hands" and to have "made no effort to check combinations and trusts within the State which could not be reached by Federal authority."

Norris charged that these combinations were doing business "at the old stand" since the war and that little, if any, attention had been given them by either State or Federal officials. Discussing the Federal Trade Commission, he said sometimes it had not functioned up to expectations and added that "with prosecuting officers failing to prosecute and courts failing to convict, the only remedy which seems open to the people is the exertion of the pressure of public opinion."

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The third attempt to break the will of the late Amos F. Eno, once owner of the old Fifth-avenue Hotel, which disposed of an estate of $13,000,000, was started yesterday before Surrogate Foley and a jury. The will, after making substantial bequests to relatives, left the residue of the estate to several institutions, including Columbia University, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the New York Public Library.

GERMAN PRINCE AGAINST WARS.

Believes Meet Will Make Strife Less Horrible.

Does Not Expect the Ultimate from Conference.

Opposes Bombing, Use of Gas, and Blockades.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MUNICH, Jan. 4.—"I believe there is a possibility of warfare being made more humane as a result of the Washington conference," said Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, when seen in Luncheburg palace where the free state of Bavaria now permits the democratic former throne-heir to use two rooms when in town from his mountain residence.

"The Washington conference has produced little immediate result, as I expected," he continued. "I thought nothing would come of it before it started, but if I had said so at the time it would have been said, 'Ah, hark to the war-like German. There speaks the old militarist.'"

The crown prince smiled and said:

AGAINST WARS.

"So I preferred to wait till there were approximate results. Whether disarmament or even the limitation of armaments ever becomes possible, I can't answer either yes or no, though I certainly hope so. Anyone who has experienced war must feel that the fewer wars and the farther between the better. Whether human nature makes the total abolition of war possible is problematical. Disarmament and limitation of armaments depends on the possibility of reconciling and adjusting many conflicting differences. But I do believe in the possibility of future conferences resulting in making warfare more humane.

MORE HUMANE.

"Specifically I believe in the possibility of making warfare more humane in four major points:

"The abolition of bomb-dropping except over the first line."

Rupprecht mentioned the reprisal bombing of Karlsruhe, where 122 children attending a circus were killed, and also the heavy civilian casualties in French towns resulting from bombing operations.

"I believed in the possibility of the Washington conference or its successors entirely abolishing gas chemical warfare," he said.

OPPOSED TO GAS.

"I was absolutely opposed to the use of gas and expressed myself strongly to that effect. It may be argued that gas is a new form of warfare, but against this one can say that other forms of warfare were new once too, yet have been abolished. Take an old parallel case. When bows and arrows were in use a new form of warfare developed, namely, poisoning arrow tips. Poisoned arrows were, however, banned by general arrangement. The same general argument of abolishing bombing holds good for gas.

"As far as gassing and bombing lines of communication is concerned, it is impossible to distinguish between military lines and civilian population. Warfare should be confined to armies pure and simple—to the fighting lines, in my opinion.

"Thirdly, for similar reasons I believed in the possibility of abolishing long range guns.

"Fourthly, I believed in abolishing submarine warfare with one reservation, that the 'hunger blockade' be at the same time abolished. The blockade caused many civilian casualties in Germany."

La Necesidad del Capital Americano.

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, enero 4. La Camara de Comercio y las casas comerciales estan haciendo todo lo posible por que el gobierno permita la circulacion de la plata americana en Mexico, pues la escasez de moneda sencilla hace que las transacciones comerciales se dificulten muchisimo. Hay probabilidades de que el gobierno permita lo que se solicita toda vez que es en beneficio del comercio.

La Politica en la Capital de la Republica.

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, enero 4. Segun informes recibidos del interior de la republica, se sabe que la opinion publica esta en contra del partido liberal en todas partes, y que, el veinte por ciento de los miembros de este partido no sera re-electo en las proximas elecciones para Diputados el proximo mes de septiembre. Esta actitud del pueblo significa un triunfo para el Sr. Gral. Obregon, cuyos planes legislativos, han recibido la oposicion del partido constitucionalista.

El Tratado Irlandes.

DUBLIN, enero 4.—Eamonn de Valera, durante la sesion del Dail Eireann hoy, pidio en terminos bien sinceros que el tratado irlandes fuera rechazado, pues segun su entender, Irlanda estaba a punto de ser traicionada. Impresiones del Mariscal Foch Sobre Los Estados Unidos.

PARIS, enero 4.—Al ser interrogado el Mariscal Foch por un representante de "Le Matin" sobre las impresiones que traia de su viaje a los Estados Unidos, contesto que traia un recuerdo imperecedero de ese pais, mas notable todavia por lo que le esta reservado en el porvenir que por lo que es actualmente. Luego dijo: "La amistad americana es, en mi opinion, como la luz del sol, porque yo que muy dificilmente me conmuevo, lo he estado con las manifestaciones del pueblo americano, tanto el ultimo dia como en el primer momento de mi llegada."

Zola Vuelve a la Escena.

PARIS, enero 4.—"L'Assommoir" drama en cinco actos y nueve cuadros, tomado de la novela de Emilio Zola, por W. Busnach y C. Gastineau, se ha llevado a la escena del teatro "Ba-ta-clan" de esta ciudad. Esto hace recordar de la enorme oposicion que hallo en la critica, al ser estrenada en 1879. Francis Sarcey, su mas terrible critico, trajo a colacion el clasicismo para oponerlo a esta obra de caracter naturalista, mas no obstante todos sus esfuerzos, la obra fue representada 254 veces seguidas.

Zola, al referirse a los incidentes producidos y la critica que se le hacia, dijo: "Lo que no ha gustado la primera noche han sido justamente las concesiones que los autores de la version teatral han creido deber hacer al convencionalismo. La sala entera esperaba mas audacia aun, y se vio defraudada por el suavizamiento aportado a la pieza. En esa noche memorable el naturalismo ha prevalecido sobre lo convencional." Con motivo de la "reprise," no ha faltado quien diga que esta obra es mas digna, hoy, de pasar a un museo de antiguedades, que de figurar en un cartel de teatro. Pues se cree que solo pueda alcanzar exito en las salas frecuentadas por obreros.

El Caso de Burch.

Varias horas fueron empleadas ayer por los defendores en averiguar los conocimientos del Sr. Dr. Thomas J. Orbison, medico legista que ha declarado durante el juicio que se instruye por el asesinato de J. Belton Kennedy, que en su opinion, Burch es un hombre cuerdo. El interrogatorio a que fue sujetado el doctor Orbison, fue tremendo, las evidencias presentadas por la senora Grace Warren de Santa Barbara, California, fueron oidas. En ellas la senora dice que ella viajo en el mismo tren en que venia Burch de Chicago para esta ciudad, y que el, Burch, le dijo, que su viaje era con el objeto de ayudar a una mujer amiga suya que estaba en un enredo con un hombre a quien ella amaba. La Sra. Obenchain puede ser que sea llamada al banquillo de los testigos para interrogarla sobre algunos puntos que fueron mencionados por el doctor Orbison.

FIVE CHICAGO UNIONS STRIKE.

work was proceeding unhindered despite the absence of steam fitters, plumbers, hoisting engineers, painters, cement finishers. The union carpenters, who initiated the sympathetic strikers, are being replaced rapidly with carpenters who are working under the award. In addition to electricians and the bricklayers, the ornamental ironworkers and the sprinkler fitters are ready for work.

GUARDS INCREASED.

Guards in increased numbers have been sent to protect the men on the jobs from possible violence and the force will be further augmented if necessary, the committee asserts.

The committee announced today that all plasterers in the future will be paid $1.10 an hour, the figure set by Judge Landis under terms of an agreement signed prior to the judge's appointment as arbiter, which provided that the plasterers shall receive wages equal to the highest wage paid any one of the five unions. The committee also asserted that the sheet metal trade was well in hand with thirty-four of the largest sheet metal shops operating under the Landis award.

In the fight against the striking unions the committee will be aided by a new ally, the Chicago Master Steamfitters' Association, which sent notice today to the committee that the association would aid in the struggle to enforce the Landis award.

UNION AGENTS START RIOT.

Riotous scenes were enacted today when union agents invaded and defied a meeting of 300 motion-picture theater owners, who had gathered to decide what should be done to the picture operators' demands for a 15 per cent wage increase. The theater owners were summoned by a committee headed by Peter Schaefer of Jones, Linick & Schaefer. There was considerable tension as one after another arose and denounced the operators as "hogs." They said the motion-picture theaters were feeling "hard times" and that an increase of 15 per cent would put many of them out of business. Some said that the operators' wages should be cut instead of increased and that rather than grant the increase they would shut their theaters.

Suddenly there was a commotion at the door and brushing aside the protesting guard in marched five uninvited guests led by Thomas Reynolds, business agent of the motion-picture machine operators' union. The union chief walked down the aisle under the escort of his four huskies and mounted the platform.

UNION ULTIMATUM.

"We need the money and we're going to get it," Reynolds announced, and informed his audience that the union would not talk of a compromise.

"I heard you fellows say you would have to close your theaters," the business agent said. "Go ahead and close 'em. The operators don't care. Close 'em and keep 'em closed for four weeks. We can stand it."

After delivering his ultimatum Reynolds and his bodyguard departed amid a buzzing of excited comment.

Again the owners argued. The theaters were closed and opened matinees done away with and a dozen other propositions advanced and rejected in the next half hour. Finally the entire matter was placed in the hands of a committee with full power to close the theaters, advance wages or make any agreement deemed necessary.

ENGRAVERS ARE OUT.

Twenty-nine commercial engraving houses are closed and several hundred engravers are out of work employers and employees declared today.

"Our men were locked out," said Rudolph Clemens, secretary of the Chicago Photo-Engravers' Union, Local No. 5.

"The men struck when we proposed either to reduce wages or lengthen the workday," said Louis Flader, commissioner of the American Photo-Engravers' Association.

The dispute, which both sides will seek to arbitrate, it is said, arose over wage reductions. The engravers, receiving an average of $56 a week, were offered a $5 a week reduction or the substitution of a forty-eight-hour week for the present schedule of forty-four hours.

JANITORS MAY STRIKE.

Chicago came a step nearer a strike of its 10,000 apartment-house janitors today when James J. Carroll, representing the Chicago Real Estate Board, and William Quesse, president of the janitors' union, announced they could not agree on an arbiter.

FARM WOMEN ARE WROTH.

"Overworked, Downtrodden" Myth Exploded.

National Organization Now Being Planned.

Don't Care to be Patronized; Ask for Change.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 4. — Protests by farm women against being called overworked and downtrodden have followed steps taken by the American Farm Bureau Federation for a national organization of women on the farm.

"Farm women in numbers are beginning to realize the harmful effect of this old-fashioned publicity," declares Mrs. Izetta Brown of Kingwood, W. Va., a leader in this movement.

"The farm women who have awakened to their own possibilities say quite frankly that they want to start a campaign of optimism about country life. They don't want to be pitied nor patronized, just understood—and if possible, a little idealized! They would appreciate it for a change."

MOVEMENT GENERAL.

For the first time the movement is general all over the United States for women to join the farm clubs of various sorts, Mrs. Brown reports.

"By working in clubs in various communities the farm women have learned the value of organized effort in improving country life conditions," she said.

"I know of one little community of about seventy-five families in West Virginia where the schoolteacher and others had talked for years about piping running water into the schoolhouse from a spring just up the hill. The first year after the farm women organized into a club they saw to it that the spring water was piped into the school.

STEPS LEAD UPWARD.

"There is something easy to be done in each community that will improve living and social conditions, and each little success is leading the enterprising farm women on to higher ideals.

"They are realizing their power in bringing about better school conditions for others' children, and each time anything is done to make the boys and girls happier and more contented, the mothers know they are increasing the chances of holding the children on the farm.

"I think that is the keynote of the rebellion against the 'downtrodden and overwoked' publicity. The mothers realize that only too often the children get the city folks' point of view when it is expressed as depreciating farm life."

EX-FOLLIES GIRL SUES CLUBMAN.

Gordon Thorne of Chicago Charged With Breach of Promise by Actress.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Gordon C. Thorne was sued for $100,000 for breach of promise by Miss Mary Lygo, former "Follies" beauty, who declares he jilted her.

Miss Lygo, who has recovered from a recent attempt at suicide, also instituted a $100,000 suit against Mrs. William C. Camp, his mother, charging slander.

Miss Lygo, her attorney says, is aroused over what she believes was "shabby treatment" accorded by her asserted sweetheart and his mother, who, she asserts, was responsible for wrecking the romance.

Other suits may follow, according to her counsel, who defended the breach of promise action against Thorne, despite the fact that the club man was only divorced a few months ago from Mrs. Virginia Milner Thorne, society beauty.

Mrs. Camp, who recently divorced Billy Camp, club man, has expressed opposition to the marriage.

The suits filed today mark the beginning of the end, or perhaps the real beginning of a romance that has held the attention of Chicago for some time.

The affair became known to the public after Miss Lygo's first attempt at suicide some months ago.

BUSINESS FAILURES SHOW BIG INCREASE.

ALL SECTIONS FELT DEPRESSION LAST YEAR, ACCORDING TO STATISTICS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Business failures in the United States during 1921 numbered 19,652, with an indebtedness of $627,401,883, as compared with 8881 defaults in 1920, involving $295,121,805, according to a report made public today by R. G. Dun & Company. Failures last year ranked next to the 1915 total of 22,000 and the indebtedness was the heaviest on record. Banking suspensions and personal bankruptcies were not included.

The business mortality increase was felt in all sections—worse in the South Central States with nearly 200 per cent increase over 1920 and least on the Pacific Coast, where failures were fifty per cent greater.

Each business group shared the growth of insolvencies. Manufacturing had 4495, compared with 2636 the previous year, trading 13,999 as against 5532 in 1920, while the class embracing agents, brokers and the like suffered 1158, in comparison with 714 the year before.

The year's defaults were 92.3 per cent larger in number in New England than those of 1920; 81.9 per cent greater in the middle Atlantic states; 186.3 per cent more numerous in the south Atlantic group; 195.5 per cent heavier in the south central division and 143.6 per cent larger in the central east, while increases of 160.3; 126.7 and 50.3 per cent respectively were reported by the central western, western and Pacific States.

FINE TIMBER STAND OFFERED FOR SALE.

FOREST SERVICE ESTIMATES TREES "ON THE STUMP" WORTH $3,350,000.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—A timber stand comprising 994,000,000 feet, board measure, of yellow, Jeffrey, sugar and Lodgepole pine, white and red fir and incense cedar in the Lassen National Forest in the vicinity of Eagle Lake, Lassen county, was placed on the market today by the United States Forest Service. According to the service it is the largest single stand ever to be advertised for sale in the United States by the service.

The stand "on the stump" is given a valuation of $3,350,000. The purchaser must cut in a manner that will conserve the young timber and that will allow of a reforestation of the entire area by the government.

The bidding period will close April 1, but may be extended for thirty days to allow the prospective purchaser to visit the land.

VON TIRPITZ TELLS WHY HE RESIGNED.

SLIGHTED BY KAISER, DISASTER FEARED WHEN U-BOAT WARFARE WAS STOPPED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—Admiral Von Tirpitz, German Minister of Navy during the World War, in an article in the periodical, Die Grenzboten, characterizes the reasons for his resignation as outlined in the late Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg's book as a "fairy story." Von Tirpitz declares the real explanation lay in the intrigue which shut him out of the Kaiser's councils and caused the monarch to slight him.

While Von Tirpitz was urging continuance of the submarine warfare, the decision was reached to abandon it, without consulting him. Embarrassed by the action which he considered presaged disaster, he said he decided to resign.

GERMAN GIRL'S WAR ROMANCE SHATTERED.

FINDS AMERICAN SOLDIER SHE CAME HERE TO WED HAS WIFE ALREADY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. — Word came to Ellis Island yesterday from the Secretary of Labor at Washington that pretty Sophie Herber, who came here to marry Adonis L. Camlin, a soldier of the United States Army, must go back to her native Germany. Her romance was shattered by the disclosure that Camlin has a wife and two children "somewhere in Arizona." Sophie will be deported on the first Army transport leaving New York for a German port. If none should be leaving soon, the United States Army transport service must pay for her ticket on some other steamer.

The unhappy Fraulein Herber was the only one of the sixty-seven German girls who came to the United States on the transport Cantigny a month ago to fail into the immigration net. Camlin admitted in his testimony before a board of special inquiry that he has a wife from whom he had not been divorced. He asked that Miss Herber be released in the custody of his parents to remain with them until he could get a divorce. This was such an unusual proposal that the immigration officials balked at the proposition. They were not sure the soldier's parents would be willing to lodge his war-time sweetheart while he took his claims for freedom from his wife into the courts.

PRICE TABULATION PROCEEDS SLOWLY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Tabulation of retail price schedules gathered by the Department of Justice in its antiprofiteering investigation probably will require several weeks before they can be made public, says Atty.-Gen. Daugherty. Meanwhile, he added, the Department's investigation is continuing.

Requests have come from many retail associations, Mr. Daugherty said, that they be heard in connection with the price investigation and, he declared, representatives of several of them probably will be granted a hearing.

"Nobody should be excited over the department's investigation," Mr. Daugherty said, "if they are not guilty of any unjustifiable profiteering!"

BANKER DEFENDANT IN ALIENATION SUIT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. — George W. Beckel, Brooklyn, an officer of the Lawyers Trust Company, and a prominent member of the Crescent Athletic and other Brooklyn clubs, has been named defendant in a $100,000 suit for alleged alienation of affections. The plaintiff is John E. Norton, a bookkeeper of Portland, Me. Norton alleges Beckel stole the love of his wife, Laura Wilson Norton, when Norton left her temporarily in New York after their return from Nevada on a honeymoon trip while he went to Portland to establish a home for her.

Get from your druggist a sixty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no gas or heartburn, no fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, no nausea, headache or intestinal griping. Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this food fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or indigestion.—[Advertisement.

ROUT CRIMINALS WITH TEAR GAS.

Gotham Police Commissioner Talks on Crime.

Declares Situation in His City is Bad.

Says Desperate Crooks Now Roam Streets.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. — A new type of desperate thug, so quick on the trigger that sometimes he fires before his victim has a chance to show resistance, is now working the streets of New York, Police Commissioner Enright said today.

New police plans have been formulated to guard citizens while an intensive campaign is being carried out to rid the metropolis of hold-up men of all descriptions. The police are now armed with a new type of tear bomb, which will enable them to rout out denizens of any place under suspicion without leaving themselves open to attack.

SITUATION BAD.

Commissioner Enright admitted the crime situation was bad but asserted it was chiefly due to the fact that while novices at crimes were in jail awaiting trial old timers kept themselves supplied with a reserve fund with which to bail themselves out and continue their campaign of lawlessness.

Chief Inspector Leahy contributed this observation:

"A man had been arrested three times this year and three times had his bail ready. All three cases were awaiting trial against him. A few weeks ago we again caught him redhanded in a holdup. I asked him what he was up to and his answer was that he needed the money to pay his bail bonds and his lawyers."

TIMES HAVE CHANGED.

Commissioner Enright drew this distinction between the criminal of other days and the modern bandit:

"In the old days a thief or burglar was clever, for he gained admission, grabbed his booty and disappeared without thought of using a weapon. Today it is different.

"The hold-up man or burglar does not care for a life. He often pulls the trigger even before the owner has had a chance to show fight."

The commissioner was asked if he could account for the desperate demeanor of the modern crook.

"Well," he said, "the fact is that most of the desperate criminals today are of military age. The fact is that we have been through a world war in which the young men were taught not to think much of life. There never has been a war in which the aftermath did not include an era of banditry and lawlessness.

"Naturally, I do not want to cast any aspersion on the valor and character of millions of young men who fought for this country and are real heroes."

The commissioner maintained that outlawry was less prevalent here than in other cities.

Inspector Bapri, enlarging on the business methods of the modern bandit of experience, asserted he always had "fall money" ready for bail.

"Fall money," he said, is the "boodle" every clever crook always has stowed away to provide his bail bond when it is needed. The old-timer would no more think of touching that money than of flying even were he starving. That money, or possibly the amount may be in jewels, is often deposited long before a 'trick is pulled.' Then if the crook 'falls' as they call it, he has his bail instantly at hand.

CAVE CREEK FLOOD DANGER IS PASSED.

ARIZONA CAPITAL NOT IN DANGER; SMALL HOMES ARE UNDER WATER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Jan. 4.—Though water still is flowing down to the Salt River Valley Canal west of Phoenix, the Cave Creek flood has almost entirely subsided and work has been commenced on repair of breaks in the banks of the Arizona and other upper canals. Less damage was done than in August, the flow being much less rapid and more widely spread over the farming section northwest of the city. At no time did the water come nearer than sixty feet of the Capitol, flooding only the western side of the grounds.

Nine-tenths of Phoenix was not in danger, damage here being confined mainly to the residential district from Six Points southward, west of the Capitol and east of the Santa Fe tracks. About 100 small homes were flooded and slight damage was done to haystacks and crops to the northward. It is believed the damage to growing crops will be slight.

Heavy rains on the Salt River watershed have raised the level of the Roosevelt reservoir, assuring ample water for irrigation for more than a year to come.

From this refinery will be supplied the company's four selling-agencies, at Phoenix, Globe, Tucson and Prescott.

INDUSTRIAL STATES LEAD IN BUILDING.

CALIFORNIA LEADS STATES IN PROBABLE CONSTRUCTION FOR PRESENT YEAR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The greatest building activity in this country this year will be in the industrial States, according to a forecast of the building outlook made today by the Committee on Statistics and Standards of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

It is pointed out by the committee that there will be a good many business buildings and a large number of them will be in the shape of alterations and enlargements. On the other hand, it says, it is unfortunate that not a great many farm buildings, such as dwelling houses, barns, cribs and the like are contemplated.

According to the committee, California leads the States with respect to probable construction, while good likelihoods of construction lie in the Central West and in the East.

ROBBERY STORY IS DOUBTED BY POLICE.

CHICAGO THEATER TREASURER SAYS BANDITS ROBBED SAFE OF $2000.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—While thousands were passing within easy call, two bandits are said to have invaded the treasurer's office of the Columbia Theater, 11 North Clark street, yesterday and held up Claude L. Boyd, the treasurer, getting $2000. Boyd says the bandits forced him to open the safe and then bound and locked him in his office while they escaped.

Lieut. Grady of the detective bureau, after questioning Boyd, took him and Vernon Pate, assistant treasurer, and G. D. Hartwell, a colored assistant to headquarters for additional questioning.

Boyd had a large diamond in his shirt-front, an expensive watch and chain in his vest, and $92 in cash. The detectives are curious to know how the robbers overlooked these items. Another point which Boyd was unable to explain to the satisfaction of the detectives was how he "wriggled" himself loose from the arm-bands, when the rope shows it had been cut.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Growth of the Alaskan system of roads and trails from a bare dozen miles in 1905 to the present aggregate mileage of 3290 is described in the annual report of the Alaska Road Commission, published today by Col. James G. Steese, president of the commission.

Opening of the just completed railroad scheduled for the coming spring is expected to bring a record influx of tourists, Col. Steese said. President Harding has been invited to attend the ceremonies in connection with the trip which Alaskan officials say he is contemplating to the northern territory.

An itinerary already has been prepared for the Presidential party, the route being through the famous "inside passage" from Seattle to Juneau. From the capital, the party would cross the Gulf of Alaska to Seward and then over the line of the railroad to Fairbanks and back to the coast at Cordova, a side trip being provided for viewing Childs Glacier on the Copper River.

SENATE DENIED AERIAL REPORT.

Harding Refuses to Publish Mitchell's Paper.

Borah Resolution Called for Bombing Data.

Idaho Senator Intimates He Smells Mouse.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—President Harding today declined to furnish the Senate with a copy of the report of Brig.-Gen. Mitchell on the aerial bombing tests off the Virginia Capes last summer.

The Senate made a formal request by resolution sponsored by Senator Borah for the report. Secretary of War Weeks informed the Senate that the President had directed him to withhold the report on the ground that its publication would be incompatible with the public interest.

Senator Borah served notice that he did not consider it incompatible with the public interest to make the report known, and said he would make it known when the discussion of the naval appropriation bill came up.

Senator Borah called attention to the fact that one report was given out concerning the bombing test.

"That report, as I understand, was altogether favorable to one theory of the experiments. Another report was filed which was quite in conflict with that theory, filed by Brig.-Gen. Mitchell. If it should be found to be true that Brig.-Gen. Mitchell's report is the correct one—that is to say if his theory is the correct theory, and the facts which he gives support his theory—the first report which was put out was wholly misleading."

The Senator declared that if the publication of the first report was in the public interest, then the report in contravention of it is entitled to be weighed by the public at the same time.

"I know the report of Brig.-Gen. Mitchell would be very interesting," continued Senator Borah. "It might materially affect some of the reputations of those who have been passing upon the efficiency of modern battleships, but it would be very interesting to the taxpayers, and I do not see how it would be incompatible with the public interest for it to be known.

"I think I know practically what is in the report and when the naval appropriation bill is considered, I will state what it is and if incorrect I shall rely on the Secretary of War to make correct statements."

FREAK HAIRCUTS BANNED.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Jan. 4.—Freak haircuts were banned by Army officers at Camp Travis yesterday. An order was issued putting novelty patterns for scalp adornments on the shelf. HERMAN KURTZTISCH, Milwaukee, Wis.

"When it comes to eating, working and sleeping I'm like a different man from what I was a short time ago," said Herman Kurtztisch, 406½ Norris Place, Milwaukee, with the Northwestern Life Insurance Co., in relating his experience with Tanlac.

"My whole system was about to give away as a result of two years' constant suffering from stomach trouble and I was so run down and worn out I was hardly able to work. I actually dreaded to eat, as after every meal I suffered so terribly from heartburn, and I was so nervous I got little rest day or night.

"If it hadn't been for Tanlac I'm firmly convinced I would have had to resign my place. It came to my aid in the nick of time and I am strong for it. Tanlac was worth at least fifty times what it cost me."

Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles by The Owl Drug Co., and by leading druggists everywhere.—[Advertisement.

BRITISH LAUD ARMS MEETING.

Spokesman Indicates End Near for Conference.

Declares Four-Power Pact is Crowning Achievement.

Discusses Franco-Jap Position Regarding Siberia.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—An official spokesman for the British delegation to the Arms Conference reviewed the work of the conference in an extended statement tonight, paying high tribute to President Harding and to Secretary of State Hughes and indicating that the conference was practically over.

Concerning the four-power treaty, he said:

ANGLO-JAP ALLIANCE.

"There was a very great deal of misapprehension and misunderstanding about the Anglo-Japanese alliance. That alliance, with the hearty good will of all the parties concerned, Great Britain and Japan primarily, the United States and France second, has been put in training to vanish when the four-power treaty comes into being. I have very little doubt that the ratification will follow in all the countries concerned.

"In that achievement it has removed what has been a stumbling block, the Anglo-Japanese alliance, though, I think, through a complete misunderstanding, between Great Britain and America as one pair and America and Japan as another pair, a stumbling block to good understanding and good relations. The conference has done that, and if it had done nothing else, that alone would have been worth meeting for."

JAPS IN SIBERIA.

The British government, it was stated authoritatively today, has never raised any question in regard to the occupation by Japanese troops of Siberian territory, and under the terms of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, the British government accepts the word of Japan in respect of the reasons impelling the Japanese government to maintain its forces in Siberia.

It is the British view that it would not have been an abnormal thing if the French, having large interests in Siberia, such as investments in the trans-Siberian railway, which was financed by France and in the Chinese Eastern Railway, a Russian property also financed by French interests, had actually carried on conversations with Japan in relation to Siberian questions. Any nation, the British spokesman declared, would have done the same thing.

DIES IN EFFORT TO SAVE MOTHER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LINCOLN, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Sarah Hogan died here early today as the result of burns received in an attempt to save her aged mother, Mrs. Ursula Ahart, who was burned to death yesterday morning when her clothing became ignited from the flames of a heating stove as she opened the door to put in fuel.

WASHINGTON NEWS IN BRIEF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Conference developments indicate that the conclusion of the Arms Conference is at hand with committees on the Far East and naval limitation both called to meet tomorrow and the prospect of a plenary session late this week or early next week to ratify the naval limitation agreement.

Chinese and Japanese delegations resumed consideration of the Shantung dispute, at the conclusion of which they appeared farther apart than ever and with little prospect of agreement.

A spokesman for the British delegation tonight, in enumerating the achievements of the conference, said that it had accomplished more for the peace of the world than any other international assemblage and had effected an enormous improvement in the international atmosphere.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, Senator Borah of Idaho and other progressives will gain in power and influence through operation of the Senate minority rule as a result of the death of Senator Penrose.

The treasury appropriation bill reported today provides $9,250,000 for prohibition enforcement, nearly $2,000,000 in excess of the amount expended last year for that purpose.

Representative Mondell, majority leader, predicted today the passage of a soldier-bonus bill at this session of Congress.

Representative Britten introduced a resolution urging the President to propose to the powers in the Arms Conference that they withdraw troops from Germany in order to aid Germany in paying her reparations.

Secretary Wallace has called the national agricultural conference for January 23.

SEEKS TO RESTORE FEDERAL PUBLICATIONS

HOUSE BILL WOULD GIVE LIFE AGAIN TO SEVERAL SUSPENDED PAPERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A bill to restore certain government publications suspended last December by a blanket Congressional order was introduced today by Representative Johnson.

Among publications which would be restored are the Journal of Agricultural Research; the Experiment Station Record and the Monthly Labor Review, while the Crop Reporter, the Market Reporter, and the National Weather and Crop Bulletin publications will be consolidated.

The weekly commerce reports, not affected by the suspension order, will be limited under the bill to forty-eight pages a week and to a circulation of 7,000.

Army and Navy publications would be placed under the control of the joint committee on printing. Each government department also would be authorized to publish an organ for circulation among its employees.

The bill would prohibit publication in government pamphlets of articles of a political or partisan nature or praise or censure of any department or government official.

AGRICULTURAL MEET STARTS THIS MONTH.

CONFERENCE SUGGESTED BY HARDING OPENS IN WASHINGTON JANUARY 23.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The national agricultural conference, suggested by President Harding has been called by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to begin in Washington Monday, January 23.

"It is expected that the President will open the conference," Secretary Wallace said today. "Invitations to attend it are going out daily and acceptances are being received. The list of those who will attend will not be completed for several days.

"In accordance with the President's wishes, the delegates will represent not only the agricultural interests of the nation but also the various interests which are intimately associated with agriculture in the transportation, marketing and distribution of farm products.

"In addition to the representatives of these allied industries it is expected that a small number of men, who will be generally accepted as representing the public will be invited."

DIVIDENDS PASSED BY GENERAL MOTORS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Directors of the General Motors Corporation late today voted to omit the quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock due at this time.

The directors authorized the regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 on preferred stock, $1.50 on 6 per cent debenture bonds and $1.75 on 7 per cent debenture bonds, payable February 1 to stockholders of record January 14.

Today's dividend omission saved the company more than $5,000,000 and if the omission were continued a year, more than $20,000,000 would accrue.

Wall street apparently expected the passing, for General Motors was offered in single lots up to 10,000 shares at a low record of 8¾. The stock, however, rallied with the general list at the close.

Pierre Du Pont, president of the corporation, in a statement asserted action on cash dividends had been taken not only to strengthen the corporation's position, but also to maintain the investment character of its debenture and preferred stock.

SEA TRAGEDY YET MYSTERY.

At Least Two Lives Lost in Wreck.

May Have Been Four Men in Launch Crew.

Small Boat Had Cargo of Whisky Aboard.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HOQUIAM (Wash.) Jan. 4.—Considerable mystery continue to hover over the wreck of the sixty-foot gasoline launch Milkmaid, which went ashore on Westport Beach Monday, causing the loss of at least two lives.

Coast guards and county officers at the scene of the wreck today discovered clothing on the boat to indicate there were four members of the crew.

The other possible members, it is believed, were either drowned and covered with sand and wreckage, or succeeded in escaping when the boat hit the shore, and disappeared so that their connection with the Milkmaid, carrying 300 cases of whisky, might not be discovered. The wreck was discovered yesterday.

Jacob Hjalmar Bjorkholm remains the only identified body in the wreck. He was 41 years old, unmarried, a native of Finland, a resident of San Francisco, and was naturalized in Tacoma in 1913. He was the owner and captain of the Milkmaid, and an authorized pilot in all Pacific Coast harbors. A memorandum in his pocket indicates Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Burchisle, 2225 Pine street, San Francisco, are his closest relatives.

WAS IN VANCOUVER.

Papers on the Milkmaid show she was at the Ferry-street dock in San Francisco nearly all of November and part of December. She was outfitted there with a thirty-five-horsepower engine. She was in Vancouver, B. C., later in December, and left that port, presumably for San Francisco, December 29, with her cargo of assorted whisky, worth about $30,000 at illicit sale prices.

There was no storm at the time of the wreck, and it is believed the men on board the boat lost their bearings and ran headlong into the shore. Bruises on the bodies of the two victims indicate the cargo shifted and that the cases of whisky fell on them while they sat in the engine room.

Two men could have operated the boat, and it is not certain she carried more than the two victims already found.

LIVED IN BAY CITY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—Jacob Hjalmar Bjorkholm, believed to be one of the two men whose bodies were found in the stranded and liquor-laden gasoline launch Milkmaid four miles south of Westport, Wash., yesterday, lived, up to a few weeks ago, at a lodging-house here near the water front, it was learned today. The address was found on the body, which had been partially identified as that of Bjorkholm.

FORMERLY CARRIED MILK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4.—The Milkmaid formerly was owned by Marty Brothers of Yolo county and was used to carry milk from their ranch to Sacramento, this use being abandoned with the advent of the automobile truck, according to local authorities.

The launch had not been used around Sacramento for something like eight years, City Harbor Master Albert Greilich said." It was built in 1909.

The firemen's fund register for 1921 shows that the boat then was owned by DeWitt C. Mason and that its home port was San Francisco. It was eight tons net register.

PLAN TO DECLARE INDIA REPUBLIC.

ISSUE OF DECLARATION LEFT TO GANDHI, LEADER OF NON-CO-OPERATIONISTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Decision to declare a republic in India was reached by the all-Indian congress at its meeting last week at Ahmedabad, but issuance of the formal declaration was left to the discretion of M. K. Gandhi, leader of the non-co-operationist faction, S. N. Ghose, director of the American commission to promote self-government in India, declared in a statement tonight.

The actual declaration of independence, he added, at present lacks the support of Gandhi and "a small minority" which favors a dominion status for India.

PREMIER OF CANADA IS CHICAGO VISITOR.

SAYS PEOPLE WOULD BE GLAD GLAD TO SEE THE IRISH TREATY RATIFIED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 4. — William Lyon Mackenzie King, Premier of Canada, gave Chicago the glad hand today for a couple of hours.

"The people of Canada would be glad to see the treaty of peace between Ireland and England ratified for the sake of good government," he said as he stepped aboard a train for Denver.

Asked to extend his comments on the Irish question, the Premier declared that he was not going to be interviewed if he could help it.

"I have escaped newspaper interviewers in my country," he said, "and I hope to escape them during my trip. I am going to visit my brother, Dr. McDougall King, in Denver, for a few days. He has been very sick, and this is the first chance I have had to get a vacation."

"Is your family traveling with you?" he was asked.

"My family!" he ejaculated. "I am a bachelor. I have no family. That is something that must come later."

IMPERSONATION OF CHRIST PERMITTED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Jan. 4.—An impersonation of Christ has been permitted for the first time on an English stage in the production here of Strindberg's symbolic play "Advent." A 14-year-old girl appeared as the Redeemer. Dramatic critics are inclined to take the view that the English stage censorship is broadening in regard to religious plays, probably owing to the fact that representations of Christ have appeared often in the films.

Man With $10,000 Check Held by Long Beach Police—Other News Notes.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 4.—After attempting to cash a fictitious $10,- check at a local hardware store by a man claiming to be a grandson of John D. Rockefeller was taken into custody by the police early today. The man, who refuses to give his true name, offered the check in payment for a $50 shotgun at the Jones hardware store, 1200 American avenue.

The check was drawn on the Long Beach Trust and Savings bank, a branch of which is just across the street from the hardware store. The clerk in the hardware store turned the check over to the stranger went to a grocery store next door and after purchasing about $500 worth of goods tendered the check. Then the police arrived. They are holding the man for investigation as to his sanity.

EXCUSE NO GOOD.

A. R. Ragsdale, an ex-service man, today gave Police Judge Craig the most novel excuse of being late for intoxication. He failed to move the judge. Ragsdale told the judge that he had a silver plate in the top of his head which caused a peculiar feeling and condition not unlike intoxication even when he took but one little drink. He said he was wounded overseas and that the plate was inserted by surgeons who removed a piece of shrapnel from his skull. The defendant said he had just one drunk when his automobile collided with a Pacific Electric car at Broadway and Pacific avenue.

"I can't help myself. I take just one drink and it knocks me out," he told the judge.

He was given thirty days in the City Jail.

Tucker and Charles A. Wiley.

Many Ministers Attend Trial of Fresno Divine.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Jan. 4.—Many Fresno visitors augmented a crowd which filled the courtroom here today, on the second day of the divorce trial brought by Eva Westfall Wallace against Rev. Duncan Wallace, a former Fresno minister, charging extreme cruelty to herself and their five children. Detectives already said that counter charges would probably be brought against.

In opposition to testimony introduced when Mrs. Wallace was on the stand yesterday and told of alleged acts of cruelty of her husband, Rev. Harvey Bailey, Calwa minister, said today that he considered it an honor to be considered as one of Rev. Wallace's friends.

FIND CHARRED BODY.

Remains Taken From Burning Home at Imperial Beach.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 4. — The charred body of Thomas H. Dunlap, 58, a retired business man and bachelor, was found in a burning room in the house which he occupied alone at Imperial Beach, near here, this morning. Investigation showed that he had ended his life by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. Two letters, one addressed to a brother-in-law, Charles H. Phillips of Providence, R. I., and containing checks for $685 and $50, and another addressed to a neighbor, were found in the room. In the letters Dunlap stated he had decided to end his life.

It is believed Dunlap, in a fit of despondency, set fire to his bed after shot himself. When the body was discovered the bed was a mass of flames and the body itself badly burned. Dunlap formerly lived in Providence and came here twelve years ago. He was reputed to be a man of some means.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Jan. 4.—Practically all of the 184 students registered at Whittier College for the first semester, returned after the Christmas vacation and resumed their studies at the Quaker school yesterday. The first semester, however, does not end until the latter part of January.

The remainder of the school year will see more student body activities and social affairs than during the first half. The two glee clubs, under the direction of Prof. Edward L. Hockett, are preparing for their annual concert tours during the Easter vacation. George Hudson is president of the Men's Glee Club and Miss Ida Cowan is president of the Girls' Glee Club of the College.

MAY MAKE PICTURE IN SOUTHERN CITY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 4.—San Diego may become a factor in motion picture production in competition with Los Angeles and San Mateo, if plans that are now under way for the building of a large studio here, by a syndicate of local capitalists are carried through.

Negotiations for the financing of independent productions have been conducted by wire between local bankers and Laurence A. Lambert, president of the recently organized million dollar company, known as the National Motion Picture Finance Corporation, whose function it will be to lend aid to stars and directors of recognized standing who are assured of releasing contracts with reputable distributors.

Lambert is expected here later this week for a conference and if satisfactory arrangements can be made for the financing of independent productions, plans for the building of the studio will be consummated.

TWO TIRE OF LIFE.

Residents of Redlands Put End To Earthly Existence.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 4. — Two cases of self-destruction in one day, at about the same time, set a new record for Redlands. R. W. Palmer of Alta street was the first. He had been in poor health for some time and when neighbors did not see him about his home all day yesterday they investigated and found him sitting in a chair with a bullet hole through his head. He had been dead for several hours.

Mrs. Edward Warden, whose husband is the proprietor of a garage at Bryn Mawr, shot himself through the head with a revolver at her home on West Lugonia. Her mother died a few months ago and brooding over this is believed to have caused the act. Her husband found her also sitting in a chair with the revolver lying in the folds of her dress.

Coroner J. B. Hanna held inquests today and the jury returned verdicts of suicide.

CARELESSNESS IS CAUSE OF DEATH.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGA, Jan. 4.—William Brines of Los Angeles and Andrew Millward of Cleveland, O., who were killed in an automobile accident near here Sunday night, came to their death as a result of their own carelessness and recklessness, according to the verdict of the Coroner's jury at the inquest this morning.

Testimony of Harry Fletcher of Los Angeles, who was badly injured in the crash, presented at the inquest, contained an admission that the men had been drinking prior to leaving Tijuana. Fletcher is still in a critical condition.

A. M. Rubinson, also of Los Angeles, the fourth member of the party, who suffered broken legs, is out of danger.

The body of Brines will be shipped to Philadelphia tonight for burial and that of Millward will be sent to Cleveland.

These meetings are being held every evening in Plymouth Congregational Church, corner Bright avenue and College street, and are in charge of the prominent church workers of the city. Monday evening Rev. C. E. Hanna of the United Presbyterian Church was leader and the address was given by Dr. Charles E. Tebbetts of the Friends Church, who used as the subject of his address "Prayer and the Universal Church." Frank E. Gates, Y.M.C.A. secretary, was leader Tuesday evening and Rev. George Cliff of the First Methodist Episcopal Church spoke on "Thanksgiving and Confession."

The meetings are being well attended and are interdenominational.

POUTING DOG IS CAUSE OF ALARM.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Jan. 4.—Frank Gray, son of J. P. Gray, well-known rancher of the Ojai, went into the Sespe country some weeks ago trapping. He took with him a devoted dog.

Two days ago the dog came back to the ranch, footsore and gaunt. Owing to the bad rains the trails into the Sespe are almost impassable, but the services of Bob Clark, well known as a woodsman, were secured.

A horse was outfitted and Clark took the perilous trip over the range to find Gray's body. He did not find it. Instead he found Gray alive and having a prosperous season. Gray had scolded the dog and ordered him back to camp some days before. The dog was insulted and hiked out across the hills for the home ranch, where he was used to more consideration.

Oil Operator is Second Victim of Fatal Accident.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 4.—As he lost his balance and stepped from the running board of his stalled machine, Arthur C. Thomas, San Jose oil operator, was struck and killed by a heavy truck driven by F. D. Showalter, 4427 Lima street, Los Angeles, last night on the State Highway, nineteen miles south of Bakersfield.

The Thomas accident occurred four miles from the spot where Principal Arthur J. Lidden of Kern county Union High School sustained injuries Sunday, which proved fatal here yesterday. The circumstances surrounding both tragedies were similar. Thomas stepped directly in the path of the big truck bound for Los Angeles and the left rear wheel of the heavy vehicle passed over the upper part of his prostrate body, crushing the chest and head. He died after several minutes of intense suffering.

A verdict of accidental death was reached by Coroner Leslie G. Helm at an inquest held at the Payne O'Meara chapel this morning at 9 o'clock. Showalter, the driver, testified. He had been detained here overnight, having left his truck at a road construction camp, returning to Bakersfield with the Coroner. He was grief-stricken over the accident.

That turkey dinner, Merritt Jones Hotel, Ocean Park, Sundays, is becoming very popular; $1.50 plate.—[Advertisement.

SEARCHERS QUIT HUNT FOR BODY.

BOAT IN WHICH HUNTER LOST HIS LIFE DRIFTS ASHORE ON LAKE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 4.—Searchers today found the boat in which Roland Romell of Los Angeles was hunting ducks on Baldwin Lake Monday when he is believed to have lost his life by drowning. No other trace of the missing man was found.

The boat came ashore near the Edgerton Ranch on the east side of the lake; the oars were missing.

Owing to the cold weather in Bear Valley and the probability that the body will not rise for some time, the search has been abandoned. Bear Lake is frozen over and Baldwin Lake is expected to be completely covered with ice soon.

BOUGHT HER CLOTHES.

Oxnard Woman Objects to Mail-Order Wardrobe.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Jan. 4.—Charging that her husband, who is worth $100,000, insisted on buying her clothes for her from a mail-order house, Mrs. Ada Bostleman of Oxnard has brought suit against Charles Bostleman, a rancher there.

The couple were married in Johannesburg, South Africa, on Feb. 16, 1903, and have three children. Mrs. Bostleman charges that her husband would not provide her with the common necessities of life and told her he would break her neck if she bought anything without his permission.

She says the property is all community property, having been acquired since their marriage.

POPULAR STUDENT CALLED BY DEATH.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 4. — Claude Roth, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Roth of West Citrus avenue, popular student at the University of Redlands and member of the football team there this past season, died at the hospital at Loma Linda this morning. Death was caused by rheumatic fever after an illness of about two weeks.

He was taken sick the day after school closed. His condition became serious within a few days and he was taken to the hospital. Yesterday he seemed to be improved and his parents were greatly encouraged but during the night he suffered a relapse from which he did not recover. He was graduated from Redlands High School last year, where he was one of the star athletes.

Miller said that the bandit was alone. He said he had run out of gasoline and desired to buy a gallon to take to his car ,stalled down the street. As Miller bent over to pour the gasoline into a measure, the bandit fell upon him.

FRIGHTFUL CRIME.

Aged Chinaman Meets Death at Hands of Yeggmen.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Jan. 4.—Soo Hoo Lot, aged 66 years, was found at 9:30 o'clock today in his bed in the rear of his store at Saticoy, half lying, half sitting, a double hemp rope taut about his throat and a dozen knife stabs in his neck and breast.

His hands, clawlike, were held before his face and between his fingers were strands of gray hair, showing how he had torn at his beard and hair as the torture was inflicted upon him.

Whether he was the victim of a tong war or was murdered by a pair of Mexicans for his money the officers have not determined.

He was a pioneer merchant of Saticoy, but apparently was doing prosperous business in the manufacture of intoxicants as a large still and great quantities of mash were in the place. He is known to have had a large sum of money, but none of this was found.

The body was discovered by Dan E. Smith, who owns a building adjoining Soo Hoo Let's store.

The request for the resignation named February 1 as the date on which it should become effective. Hoy has not yet tendered his resignation and states that he will not do so until after he has presented a report of work to the Board of Trustees tonight. Which Is Your Period In Life?

(1 Year) At life's dawn with the future ahead.

(10 Years) This boy is in his care-free, mischievous period—likes to spend his money for candy, etc. He should be taught the value of money—he is old enough to know how to save it. "As the twig is bent the tree will grow."

(20 Years) This is the egotistical period, when the son thinks he knows more than his father, and it is the "wild oats" period. The young man who begins to save at this age is almost sure to amass wealth.

(30 Years) The boy is now changing to a man. His business career is usually being shaped into form. Frugality and savings habit now lay the foundation upon which may be built big opportunities.

(40 Years) The man is now in his prime. Most of the world's greatest work is done by men during this period. It is the "Harvest Time" of life. If no surplus has been accumulated it is now or never.

(50 Years) Ninety per cent of men here meet with business reverses or decrease in earning capacity, and unless a savings account is held as a protection against the necessities of old age the man is without funds.

(60 Years) Statistics show that ninety-five per cent of all men of this age have lost all they ever had and are now dependent upon their daily labor for a living. At sixty work is hard to find.

(70 Years) Statistics show that at this age only one man out of 5,000 can "come back." The others are either paupers or dependent upon friends or relations for support.

The Law of Average makes this estimate a safe one to follow. Select your period and give your case careful thought.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Banker on Branch Banking; Stabilization Is Advanced; Day in Review.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

The controversy regarding branch banks which provided about the only fireworks of the convention of the American Bankers' Association when the national organization met here last October is still smoldering to flare up in occasional group meetings. It is likely to be a paramount issue at the New York convention next fall.

National banks continue to view with alarm the comprehensive spreading movement of State banks. This is more pronounced in some sections than it is in others, and the unsympathetic manner in which the demands for assistance from these centers has been met by the association rankles.

One financial paper published in Chicago has gone so far as to assert that unless the necessary aid is forthcoming there may be a split in the ranks of the powerful parent organization. Pacific Coast members, however, are not ready to concede this alternative as a probability and representative affiliations here believe that the differences will be satisfactorily adjusted during the year.

The whole question of branch banking was handled recently by Henry R. McKee, vice-president of the Merchants' National Bank, in and address delivered at a meeting of group four, held in Riverside, during the course of which Mr. McKee said:

"I believe that the time will probably come when branch banking will become the banking system of America, as it is practically the banking system of the rest of the world. It will probably be attempted in the characteristic tempestuous manner. Perhaps, really, that is the proper way to go about it. That is the American way of going about everything, but it seems perfectly certain that that method will result in consequences which appear to be very little realized and foreseen, and which are of so serious a nature in the effect they will produce upon not only the banks, but the business life of America as to cause very grave concern.

"This is by no means a mere matter of buying bonds and changing names. Neither is it entirely a matter of private enterprise for the benefit and convenience of bankers. The business of banking is at least as much a matter of public interest and concern as is the business of transportation.

"The problems of branch banking call for a vision, a degree of intellectual development, a judgment of men, a tolerance of opinion, and a mastery of the principles of organization that American banking has probably not produced in this generation, because the provincial type of bank we have been conducting in the past has not so necessarily demanded these qualifications.

"The banking problem of America," in Mr. McKee's conclusion, "is not primarily rivalry of private enterprise in the development of big banks. It is more importantly a problem in the utilization of our vast banking power in order so to apply it as best to advance the business welfare of the American people whom it is our office to serve.

"Their interests must not be sacrificed or crippled, nor the development of a locality retarded to glorify mere size in banking institutions; nor even to gratify the taste or choice of bankers in a selection of loans which take into account only the desirability of the paper for the banker and wholly exclude the legitimate aspirations, and even necessities, of the locality."

STABILIZATION.

As the first of the year reports begin to come in there is apparent good reason to believe that business has proceeded farther towards stabilization than many had supposed.

There was much of encouragement in the banking situation as revealed by the statements of condition as of the last day of the year, while in the industries there is evidence of excellent and in some cases fairly complete readjustment to the new conditions.

There was a marked price reduction in raw materials, and in many lines a permanent basis appears to have been reached. This, according to one reviewer, has been accompanied by at least a reasonable readjustment of wages, thereby rendering a larger volume of trade practicable.

In all probability we will see a higher range of commodity prices in 1922. Many farm products are selling below the cost of production, notably corn and live stock. The price of wheat will be governed by world conditions. Most other commodities have been thoroughly liquidated.

The outlook for copper and the copper industry is improving, although the present market is quiet. Stocks of copper for domestic sale are quite low so that many producers are dependent mainly upon current refinings for filling any orders they may take from now on. Some first quarter copper is available at 13 3-4 cents delivered, but most producers are asking from 13 7-8 to 14 cents.

From Arizona word comes of preparations for a resumption of mining operations, and by April 1 several of the big producers are expected to be turning out ore in quantity.

DAY IN REVIEW.

Among the interesting semi-news developments of the day was a rumor repeated from sundry sources to the effect that Standard Oil of California is said to be considering new financing to the extent of $40,000,000.

Southern Pacific officials assert that they attach no great importance to the decision handed down Tuesday by the Supreme Court in which action it sought to have the Secretary of the Interior and the Federal Land Office accept the company's selection of indemnity lands along its line from the eastern boundary of California to the city of San Francisco. It is deemed probable that the company will be permitted to make lieu selections and that the decision means little if any financial loss. The suit was one of several actions involving land grants of the Southern Pacific now pending.

Relief of the Fort Dearborn banks in Chicago through merger with the Continental and Commercial institutions is characterized by banking interests as emphasizing the ability of the system as at present constituted to take care of such situations, and the view is general that the Fort Dearborn complications represent an isolated incident rather than a significant development.

Mail order houses continue to report the hoeing of a hard row. Montgomery Ward's December sales were $7,425,126 against $10,050,279 a year ago and the total for the year $75,956,649 against $112,333,535.

A development in the wage readjustment question was manifested yesterday in the final hearing of eleven large paper manufacturing companies in the United States and Canada on their application to the arbitration board for a wage reduction averaging 25 per cent.

The stock market was weak, the average price of twenty industrials being off 2.19 per cent and a like number of rails .79.

January clearance sales filled the retail stores with shoppers, and snappy weather accounted for great activity in seasonable wearing apparel.

CALL MONEY RATE DROPS.

Quotation of 4½ Per Cent Lowest Since Nov. 15; Further Cuts Expected.

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The most significant change in today's markets was one which should have been expected. It was the abrupt decline in call money rates to 4 per cent, the lowest since November 15 and, except for one day's quotation of 3 1-2 at the end of last July, the lowest rate reached last year.

In many respects the rate for demand loans is a less important measure of the situation than it was before the days of the Federal Reserve. But its larger movements have nevertheless pretty accurately foreshadowed the trend of the general money market ever since the war. The fact that, at no time since 1919 has the rate gone below 4 per cent in the early days of January, lends some special interest to the present movement.

EXPECT LOWER MONEY.

Ordinarily the decline is progressive during the first month of the year. As yet, the rates for longer term loans hardly have changed from December's closing figures. That, however, was the lowest end-of-the-year-rate since 1916. It is possible the course of the discount market, will be governed by the action of the Federal Reserve and that, in turn, will be indicated beforehand by the movement of the system's ratio of reserve to liability. That normally goes to considerably higher figures in January and February. If that happens on this occasion, we presently may have a 4 per cent rediscount rate and a further general reduction in the cost of money.

Today's markets for securities and commodities not only responded to the lower money rate but indicated the disappearance of the acute misgiving which arose with the first news of the Chicago bank affair. Chicago itself, whose market is highly impulsive on such occasions, showed signs of returning equanimity today. It was expressed characteristically by bidding up wheat prices 3½ cents after the 7-cent fall Tuesday.

The recovery on the stock exchange was irregular but advances of 1 to 4 points were fairly numerous. Nearly one-tenth of the day's transactions were in General Motors stock, whose directors passed the quarterly dividend after the close of business. It is again difficult to take seriously a market which distributes its activities thus.

Prices of investment bonds, although steadier on the whole than the day before, gave no evidence of any definite trend. Foreign exchange went lower; most of the declines were slight, but sterling went nearly 2 cents below Tuesday's closing, reaching at $4.13 5-8, the lowest rate since December 17, when the first sharp reaction had occurred from the $4.34 1-3 rate of the 12th.

Whatever may have been the seeming discouragements of the steel and iron trade last month—and the small steel output was generally recognized as a familiar incident of the season—today's returns of the country's iron production point to continued recovery in the trade. December's average daily production was greater by 13 per cent than in November and by 90 per cent than the year's low average in July.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—Uncertain tendencies prevailed in the stock market today, although prices strengthened in the afternoon in response to easy money and the support accorded selected issues, such as sugars, textiles, tobaccos and chain store and mail order specialties.

Dealings approximated 850,000 shares, but a large proportion of the business converted around less than a score of leaders comprising the oil, motor, rubber, steel and equipment divisions.

Sentiment continued to be swayed by the Chicago banking episode and the aspects of the situation as affecting the automobile and allied trades.

General Motors were offered in single lots ranging up to 10,000 shares at the low record of 8 3-4, but allied with the general list in the short covering of the final hour. Directors of General Motors were in session long after the close of the market to consider action on dividends.

Motor accessories, especially rubbers, were under increased pressure. Shippings, chemicals and numerous miscellaneous shares denoted little more than casual support, and rails, coalers excepted, were relegated to obscurity.

Call loans dropped from 5½ per cent to 4 per cent at the last.

Dealings in foreign exchange were light, the London rate easing only slightly. All other continental bills except Belgian francs were lower by 2 to 20 points.

Liberty issues showed trifling gains and losses and a similar tone marked the trading in rails. Total sales, par value, aggregated $16,250,000.

In which is your money invested?

This The business of some corporations for years has fluctuated with times of prosperity and depression. During the war abnormal demand for goods caused such concerns to expand beyond expectations. Their stocks paid unheard of dividends and they seemed to possess financial soundness. But with changed conditions, those concerns lost their apparent financial strength and have either paid very small returns or failed to pay dividends at all.

This On the other hand there are business concerns which because of the richness and steady expansion of the field of industry in which they are engaged, and the part they have played in this expansion, have surely and steadily grown. These concerns having followed a safe and consistent policy have returned attractive incomes on their stocks yearly. In addition they have set aside an annual reserve fund as a margin of safety.

Such an industry of the latter dependable type is the hospital supply business and such a concern is REID BROS., Inc.

The richness of the field and the steady expansion of REID BROS., Inc. in that field have made this company the world's foremost hospital supply house. REID BROS., Inc. offers unusual opportunity for sound and profitable investment. Its common stock has never paid less than 8%, going as high as 12, 14 and even 18%. Shares may be bought for cash or on the installment plan.

No Car Is Quite Itself without a Concrete Road

What makes a "crack" train? The roadbed as much as the rolling stock.

So with your automobile. Any car is a better car on a good road.

The car with the highest gas mileage has a higher mileage on Concrete.

The car with the quickest "pick-up" picks up quicker on firm, unyielding Concrete.

The best non-skid tire holds better on the gritty Concrete surface.

The car with the lowest depreciation has a lower depreciation on Concrete.

Motorists know these are facts—and motorists, if they insist, can get the kind of roads they want.

Our Booklet R-5 tells other interesting things about Concrete roads. Write for your copy.

YESTERDAY ON THE HOME EXCHANGE.

The local stock exchange seems to have definitely shaken off its holiday lethargy and yesterday's active session helps bear out the conclusion that the revival of trading has come at last. Industrial issues were strong, but otherwise the market displayed a general irregularity. Southern California Edison, common, was firm at its new high figure of 94¼. In the oil group General Petroleum was unchanged at 90½ and United Oil advance ½ cent to 74. Midway Northern reacted slightly from Tuesday's boom and sold down 3¼ cents to 85. Oatman United displayed a sudden weakness and fell off 4½ cents, to 16½. Adams Mining, on the other hand, made a notable recovery from its recent slump and sold at 6 cents, a 1½-cent advance. Yesterday's dividend declaration was the cause of an advance of 2¼ cents in United Eastern, which closed at $2.37½.

Following are the closing prices and sales as posted yesterday in the Stock Exchange Building:

...Rapid Development of Wire Houses Last Year.

...Lend Investors in Close Touch With Wall Street.

...ter of Financial Empire is Moving This Way Fast.

BY WM. E. O'BRIEN.
Special Statistician for A. W. Costa.

One of the most important developments in local financing history for the past year has been the rapid growth of the "wire house" in Los Angeles. Not so long ago the little investing element paid little attention to daily fluctuations on the New York Exchange, the only real interest manifested in this market being on the part of the Eastern vacationer, who spent a weather eye on his securities holdings while he basked in our sunshine during the winter months. Now, however, we find the situation vastly changed.

Although the financial education of the public received through the efforts of Liberty Bonds during the war is largely responsible for the rising popularity of the Eastern exchanges among local investors, probably no one single factor has had as great an effect in broadening public interest along these lines as the "private wire." Our local investor has discovered that with the net work of fast moving wires, reaching out from Wall street across the continent to every small corner of the United States, he is provided with as quick execution in the New York Stock Exchange as if he were seated in one of the board rooms in the heart of New York's financial district. Orders (were sent from this city over private wires, handled on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange and reported back in the traders in two or three minutes are so commonplace now as to be taken for granted. The New York business man who reads the tape from the ticker beside his desk, and then hurriedly discusses his order to his broker on the floor of the New York Exchange, cannot receive any faster service than the trader in Los Angeles thousands of miles away, who places an order with a wire house.

GROWTH OF WIRE HOUSE.

Despite strenuous objections on the part of many members of the New York exchange who at first viewed the lack of dignity in soliciting business by use of the private wire, this branch of the business has grown so rapidly that today more than 30 per cent of the New York Stock Exchange business comes from outside the city. The telegraph has endowed the exchange with a country-wide field, against which great corporations would derive their existence from investments of capital on a large scale would be impossible.

Although the majority of the securities traded in on the New York Stock Exchange are of eastern origin, the East has come West for one of its most popular issues, probably the most active stock listed on the New York Exchange today is Mexican Petroleum, a Los Angeles company. Panamerican, another extremely popular issue, is also a Los Angeles company. The same with California Petroleum.

What California has lacked in interest in its contributions to the New York Exchange it has made up for in quality and action. While the Southern Pacific, a leader among the rails, Pacific Oil, a new issue that bids fair to lead the oil group before long, California Packing, a very popular industrial; Pacific Gas and Electric, a public utility issue with a mighty following, and there are others.

However, our local trader has not confined his transactions strictly to stocks and bonds. The growth in grain and cotton trading during the past year has been heavy, and here again the private wire is responsible. The increase in local interest in the cotton markets is but a natural result of the recent entry of this section of the country into the raising of cotton. And inasmuch as a large percentage of our most substantial residents is made up of retired farmers, and other familiar with agricultural activities, a genuine interest in the grain markets is to be expected.

Another important development which has been a stimulant to the business of the wire house is the ever-increasing interest in foreign exchange and foreign securities.

With Los Angeles expanding by leaps and bounds, and the local trader becoming more and more interested in the activities of the leading Eastern exchanges, facilities which were adequate a year ago to handle this business would by no means meet the demand today.

Where one duplex trunk line was sufficient to take care of the business of one of the leading local wire houses a year ago, today this firm has two transcontinental lines that are taxed to the limit, and arrangements are said to be under way for a third wire system.

Recognition of the future possibilities of the city of Los Angeles as an important financial center is seen in the entry into the local field of several substantial Eastern financial houses.

ADMITS PAYING SEMENOFF.

Baron Kato of Japan Explains Why Anti-Bolshevik General Was Aided.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Lifting a ban which he had requested newspaper men to observe in connection with a statement he made yesterday that the Japanese government had given financial support to Gen. Semenoff, anti-Bolshevik leader in Siberia, Admiral Baron Kato, senior Japanese arms delegate, tonight made a statement in which he explained why Japan had given this assistance.

"I told you yesterday," he said, "that a former Japanese Cabinet had given support to Seminoff in Siberia. I should like now to tell you something more about that matter so that there will be a clear understanding of the case.

"About the time the Allied contingents were dispatched to Siberia in 1918, there had developed an anamolous situation in Siberia, owing to the conjunction effected by German and Austro-Hungarian prisoners of war with Bolshevik forces, the former assuming practical command.

CHECK BOLSHEVIKI.

"To check the Bolsheviki from permeating the Far East, it was thought to be as urgent as it was expedient to utilize Russian forces under Russian command. Gen. Semenoff was reported in those days to intend waging war against Bolsheviste and Japan decided to give him material support in his attempt. Japan was by no means actuated by any aggressive designs, but was only following the line of policy adopted by some Allied powers, notably Great Britain and France, to intrust to Russian forces the task of resisting the Bolsheviki menace.

"Subsequently the Teutonic influence was swept away and the general situation in Siberia was transformed. The German menace ceased and the factional feuds in Siberia began to attain a purely domestic character.

"Semenoff, Kolchak and leaders of the social revolutionaries were in turn at loggerheads. In such circumstances the Japanese government decided to discontinue its support of Semenoff and to observe strict neutrality in the Siberian situation. Japan has since given no assistance to Gen. Semenoff, either when he was driven away from Trans-Baikal in 1921, or at any other time.

"However, it must be made clear that in the circumstances existing, the giving of aid to Semenoff seemed at that time a wise act, and was consonant with the Allied purpose, though subsequent developments transformed the situation."

He explained that he had requested his statement of yesterday be not published because he wished further time to make clear why his government in the past had given material support to Semenoff. He explained, after reading his formal statement tonight, that by material support he meant clothing, provisions and munitions, as well as a certain amount of cash, which he said he could not remember.

MORE DOCUMENTS.

Five additional documents were made public tonight by the delegation of the Far Eastern Republic of Chita to show "that the Japanese created their own 'Russian governments' that are in reality puppets in the hands of the Japanese."

Through these governments, it was added, "the Japanese are able to control economically and politically the Russian Far East."

Photostats of the originals of the documents are in the archives of the Chita government, it was said. Publication of the five tonight followed the disclosure by the Chita delegation Sunday of an alleged agreement between France and Japan for a protectorate by the latter over Siberia and of an alleged treaty, given out last night, to show that Gen. Semenoff, anti-Bolshevik leader in Siberia, was, among other things, in the pay of the Japanese.

The documents detailed alleged communication between Gen. Semenoff and officials of the Herkulov government with the Japanese as well as instructions to the troops in such a way, the Chita delegation contends, as to show a close connection between them in their opposition to the Far Eastern Republic.

TREATY ENTENTE'S SAVIOR?

Despite Premiers' Reticence Cannes Air Full of Talk on French-English Alliance.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CANNES, Jan. 4.—With the air full of talk of an alliance between France and Great Britain as the only means of keeping the Entente intact, Premiers Briand and Lloyd George today resumed their conversations begun in London.

"The conversations are continuing" was the only comment the French Premier would make.

Reticence is being observed by the principals of the British delegation on the eve of the opening of the Allied Supreme Council meeting regarding such an alliance.

STRENTHEN TIES.

Premier Briand said before going to the British Premier's villa today that it might be putting it rather strongly to talk of a formal alliance. Yet, he said, the policy of France had been to strengthen her ties with her war allies, since this seemed essential to a settlement of European problems.

Members of both the French and British delegations are agreed that the situation is grave and that the Entente powers must come closer together or they will drift more widely apart.

The difference of opinion appears to center around the question of who ought to make the concessions necessary to bring about closer accord. The atmosphere today was generally pessimistic.

Premier Bonomi of Italy, arrived late today.

LAST MEETING.

Mr. Lloyd George intends that this shall be the last meeting of the Supreme Council if there is any way of bringing pending questions to a point where they can thereafter be dealt with by the ambassadors of the Allied powers.

M. Briand is understood also to favor adoption of a broad understanding.

Experts regard as an encouraging situation the progress made by the British project for organization of an international financial corporation to deal with credits and exchange and possibly currency. This question, as well as that of reparations, will be discussed by Mr. Lloyd George, and M. Briand in their private talks. There is a strong expectation that approval of the draft project adopted at Paris will be one of the earliest results of the conference.

The two premiers were well guarded from interruptions as they began their conversations.

The train that brought M. Briand also carried copies of the newspapers containing the French Premier's declaration regarding an alliance solution of the European problem.

Fear was expressed, however, in unofficial British circles, that the prospects of such an alliance had been compromised by the effect on British public opinion of France's position on the submarine question.

The arrival of Lord Curzon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, was generally believed to mean that contrary to expectations, the British objections to the Angora treaty between France and the Turkish Nationalists would be discussed here.

VEGETABLES LIGHT AT PRODUCE MART.

CARROTS, BEETS, SPINACH AND STRING BEANS BRING PREMIUM PRICES.

Several vegetable lines were very light at the local produce market yesterday. Carrots, beets and spinach were all at a premium, and sold at an advance of 10 to 15 cents per dozen bunches. There are practically no good tomatoes coming in now, and the market is not enough sales of first-class stock are being made to establish a standard price. Cucumbers and tomatoes are scarce and the quality is generally poor. Cauliflower, cabbage and celery (Evrings were comparatively light and the good demand made a firm market.

Fruits: The local arrivals were slightly yesterday, the decline in price averaging about 1 cent a pound. On the other hand, fancy 4-tier Navels brought by the pack 4 per lb. JOHNSON OPPOSES FOUR-POWER TREATY.

SAYS UNITED STATES BOUND BY PACT TO PROTECT JAP TERRITORY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—In a statement issued here today Senator Johnson declared against the four-power Pacific treaty which has come out of the Disarmament Conference. He said that by the treaty the United States is bound to protect the territorial integrity of Japan, and that such an agreement might involve this country in war. He said the Japanese Premier regards the treaty as superseding the British-Japanese alliance, although of much greater benefit to Japan.

Unless the new treaty provides for the employment of force "the instrument is a useless and futile fulmination," stated the Senator. He said that the objection to Article X of the League of Nations was that it mandated the United States to go to war, if necessary, to protect the territory of any member of the League, and that Article X of the League and Article II, of the four-power treaty are on a parity. Senator Lodge, who opposed Article X of the League of Nations is one of the representatives of the United States who aided in drafting the four-power treaty.

Senator Johnson said that there is general sympathy with the Disarmament idea, but that "out of the secrecy of the conference has come first an unexpected treaty, unrelated to the original purpose of the gathering and unconnected in reality with the limitation of armaments."

HAS PLAN TO AID EUROPE.

Senator Owen Proposes a Federal Reserve Bank.

Institution Owned in America, Branches Abroad.

Could Supply Currency Secured by Gold Goods.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. — The establishment of a European Federal reserve bank, providing a gold secured currency and linked inseparably with the American reserve system from which it would draw its resources and reserves, was advocated today by Senator Owen, Democrat, of Oklahoma, as a basic move towards restoration of stable economic conditions throughout the world.

In an extensive speech in the Senate, the Oklahoma Senator suggested in connection with the proposed reserve bank the following proposals for American aid in world rehabilitation:

PROPOSALS FOR BANK.

"(1.) That we should postpone the final payment of the World War debt in the United States by extending the payment over fifty years; that we should not for ten years collect any amount under the sinking fund.

"(2.) That in arranging the payment of Europe's debt to the United States we should extend time to Europe necessary for them to readjust their affairs and regain their productive power and that we should not for ten years demand of them the payment of interest due, but allow it to merge with the principal.

"(3.) That we should put the interest rate at 3 per cent on Europe's debt to the United States."

Owen at the same time submitted to the Senate a bill to amend the Federal Reserve Act so that establishment of the foreign bank would be possible.

OWNED BY AMERICA.

He proposed that the European bank should be owned by the reserve system of the United States and that from the twelve banks here it should draw a total of $500,000,000 in gold as a reserve. This, he claimed, would in no way impair the reserves or resources of the American institutions, yet it would enable the foreign banks to issue $2,500,000,000 in notes, backed up by gold as well as 100 per cent commodity bills.

"The one great outstanding factor breaking down confidence and destroying the validity and desirability of contracts in Europe," the Senator declared, "is the violent inflation of currency through the printing press.

"The outstanding factor that retards restoration of European industry and commerce then is the lack of gold secured currency. This the United States is able to provide the means for supplying, a currency secured by gold, redeemable in gold and secured at the same time by merchantable commodities that in themselves open and renew the ways of trade."

BRITTEN WOULD AID BERLIN PAY DEBT.

INTRODUCES RESOLUTION TO HAVE PRESIDENT WITHDRAW RHINE TROOPS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Representative Britten today introduced a resolution requesting the President to lay before the Armament Conference a proposal to withdraw all Allied troops from the Rhineland as a means of aiding Germany to pay her reparations.

He stated that approximately 134,000 Allied troops are being maintained on the Rhine at an annual expense of $125,000,000 to Germany.

"The World War has destroyed Prussian militarism and has set up in its place a less efficient, but much more expansive French military machine which hopes to dominate Europe," said Britten. "Under the pretense of guarding a sleeping lion, the French are now maintaining an army of 8½ 593 white men and 12,000 black and brown men in the Rhineland at the expense of a crushed, humiliated, unarmed, financially insolvent nation. To tax hungry, underfed Germany 20,000,000,000, marks a year for a foreign army whose sole duty is the patrol of the Rhine, is a travesty on the civilization which Premier Briand is so anxious to perpetuate.

"To tax bankrupt Germany $125,000,000 a year for a nonproductive army of occupation can but assist in making further reparations payments impossible. Militarism, whether it be French, German or Japanese, is a constant menace to world peace. The payment of reparations is one thing, but the unmerciful taxing of tubercular, undernourished women and children for army support is another."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

Aviation Instruction to be Given Thirty Bay City Nipponese.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4. A school of aviation for Japanese is to be opened in this city soon, it was announced today by M. Mori, who said he is representing Japanese capitalists. It is planned to obtain a field later. Approximately thirty Japanese have been signed up as students, with a San Francisco flyer as one of the instructors, Mori said.

ARCHBISHOP HANNA TELLS TODAY'S NEEDS.

CHURCHMAN, IN SPEECH HERE, ASSAILS WORLD'S SPIRIT OF MATERIALISM.

Inaugurating a course of lectures to be given under the auspices of the Catholic Truth Society, Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco spoke last night at the Knights of Columbus Auditorium on "The Needs of Today to Save a World That is Fast Going to the Devil."

He attributed conditions to the failure of the "promised scientific rule toward which Christianity was to have been but a stepping stone," and said the "aftermath of the World War is worse than the war itself."

"The world today needs not only good men, but men who can stem the tide of materialism and luxury that has got hold of the hearts of men and is destroying us," he said. "Work is the greatest prize in life.

"We hear a lot about democracy, but my observation is that the only real democrats in the world are aristocrats, aristocrats of intellect and will power. The men who talk democracy and who want to reduce everything to an equality are in my observation a class of men who give nothing to the world and only take."

Bishop Cantwell introduced the speaker and music was given by James Burroughs, composer and singer, assisted by Miss Agnes Real, pianiste.

HIGH SALARIES PAID TEACHERS.

AVERAGE IN CALIFORNIA IS GOOD; EASTERNERS NOW SEEKING PLACES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4.—California high school teachers receive with a few exceptions a minimum salary of $1800 a year and a maximum of $3600, according to figures compiled by A. C. Olney, commissioner of secondary schools of the State Board of Education, and made public today. The greatest number receive from $2000 to $2500, the figures show. Heads of departments receive from $2200 to $3000 and night school teachers from $2.50 to $6 per evening.

The credentials department is being swamped with applications from eastern teachers for positions, because of the salaries paid in California, Olney said.

MARE ISLAND MEN GIVEN RISE IN PAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VALLEJO, Jan. 4.—Mare Island officials today were notified of a rise in pay, ranging from 40 to 80 cents a day for quarters of the drafting force. This is the first general rise granted since reductions in pay were made September 16, last.

The new rate will place pay at about 10 per cent lower than before the September reductions, but in no case will draftsmen receive as much as they were previously paid. The rise is said to apply to approximately 80 per cent of the entire drafting force. No action has been taken as to clerical employees.

BROKER'S LICENSE REVOKED BY STATE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—The stock broker's license of H. T. Severin of Oakland was revoked today by the State Corporation Commissioner on the ground that he fraudulently represented himself to be a fiscal representative of the Severin Motor Car Company of Kansas City, and that he failed to produce a promised collateral of $45,000 to cover his sales. Severin's activities are to be brought to the attention of the Alameda county District Attorney, the commissioner announced.

Severin could not be located today, it was announced from the commissioner's office.

WOOLWINE IS CRITICISED BY COUNTY GRAND JURY

But "Minority," Files Dissenting Report; Traeger, Supervisors, Others Given Praise.

Directing severe criticism at Dist.-Atty. Woolwine for the conduct of his office and at the same time strongly praising Sheriff Traeger for his record during the nine months of his term, the county grand jury filed its annual report yesterday and was discharged by Judge Reeve. The court commended the jury's work.

An unusual feature of the annual summary of county activities was the presentation of a "minority" report regarding criticisms of Mr. Woolwine's office.

This "minority" report shows that the jury was evenly divided on this subject. Nine jurors signed it, leaving only nine who approved the criticism, as one juror died during the year.

The "minority" report follows:

"Honorable Judge Sidney N. Reeve, Superior Court Judge, Los Angeles, Cal.:

"We, the undersigned grand jurors, do not concur in the report this day filed by a majority of our body wherein Dist.-Atty. Woolwine is criticised or condemned for his official conduct.

"Inasmuch as there was no evidence presented to the grand jury, we wish to record our dissent and disapproval thereto.

"Respectfully submitted,

[Signed]

"GEORGE R. FRAMPTON,
"JOHN PERKINS,
"A. B. AVIS,
"MRS. MARTIN G. CARTER,
"B. F. CLARK,
"C. W. KELLER,
"CHARLES MARTZ,
"PARLEY M. JOHNSON,
"H. W. HUNTZINGER."

MINORITY REPORT.

Charles L. Elmendorf, foreman of the jury, said last night that the majority report was presented in a regular manner to the jury and was adopted by a majority of the members then present. It was then submitted to Judge Reeve and the jury was discharged.

The "minority" report was submitted to Judge Reeve after the jury was discharged, he asserted. It was never presented to the jury as a whole and contained names of persons not present at the time the majority report was read before the jury, he said.

ON PUBLIC OFFICES.

The report of the public offices committee, which was made a part of the general report, states, in part, as follows:

"We are firmly of the opinion that the office of the District Attorney should be thoroughly investigated by the grand jury. We believe that it is just as important that this office be investigated from time to time by the grand jury as any other office of the county, and we are of the opinion that it is not necessary to reach a hypothetical conclusion at the outset that conditions are bad before such an investigation is made."

This section of the report mentions the efforts to have Atty.-Gen. Webb appoint a deputy to handle an inquiry into the conduct of the District-Attorney's office.

BLOCKED BY WOOLWINE.

The report says regarding this:

"The District Attorney, instead of co-operating in making this investigation, did everything in his power to prevent it, one of his deputies being sent to San Francisco to take the matter up with the Attorney-General personally. The request for assistance in making this investigation was denied by the Attorney-General, apparently upon the ground that sufficient data was not supplied. This denial defeated the very purpose for which the request was made. The grand jury wished unbiased legal guidance in making the investigation, and was met with the astounding proposal that it must first collect sufficient data to justify legal action against the District Attorney before assistance could be provided in the making of the investigation."

SHERIFF COMMENDED.

It was pointed out by the body's report that since Sheriff Traeger took office, nine months ago, when John C. Cline was ousted from office, the county was saved by the new official $9779.01 in the feeding of prisoners in the County Jail.

Regarding the conduct of the Sheriff's office, the report states:

"The change in this office for the better since the advent of Mr. W. I. Traeger is so apparent that we cannot say enough in praise of the good work he has thus far accomplished. A great deal has been done to improve and facilitate the work in all departments. His chief deputy, Mr. Biscailuz, Mr. Larimer, in charge of the constables, Mr. Murrieta, in charge of the civil work, and Mr. Manning, in charge of the criminal work, all deserve the highest praise for their zeal and good work.

MORALE HELD GOOD.

"The loyalty and morale is gratifying and reflects greatly upon the Sheriff and his department. Thousands of dollars have been saved to the taxpayers by the change in the feeding of prisoners by the Sheriff.

"The honor camp established by Mr. Traeger is one of the greatest pieces of humanitarian efforts ever undertaken in connection with the jail and deserves the praise and commendation of all good citizens. Many of the prisoners in this camp have their health, both mentally and physically, and, we hope, morally, improved, and the number of violations of the honor is extremely small. The camp is building roads absolutely on its own resources and we hope same will soon be self-sustaining. We recommend that Mr. Traeger be given all the assistance, financially and otherwise, necessary to carry on this wonderful work."

CLEAN BILLS GIVEN.

The report of Mr. Elmendorf, countersigned by H. W. Huntzinger, as secretary pro tem, summarizing the entire grand jury report, gives all county offices a more or less clean bill of health, with the exception of the District Attorney's office.

A paragraph says: "I wish to say that we found all of the county offices in good order and handled in a businesslike manner, except the District Attorney's office, which lacks efficiency."

The report states that the county is "very fortunate in having a Board of Supervisors, whose paramount object is the welfare of the taxpayers."

PRAISE FOR HILL.

"We have nothing but good to say of the work of the County Counsel's office. County Counsel Hill has a staff of able assistants, working harmoniously and efficiently, to the satisfaction of the many county and township offices, whose legal advisers they are," says the report.

"The able and aggressive manner in which Mr. Hill and his deputies have conducted the litigation, which culminated in the ousting of Sheriff John C. Cline has not only saved the taxpayers of Los Angeles county thousands upon thousands of dollars annually, but has removed from Los Angeles county the last holder of the old fee system of county government, and this jury most heartily commends him for his efforts in this regard."

Administration of the Juvenile Hall and the progress being made in adding to the hall's buildings came in for the jury's commendation.

INTEREST TO PUBLIC.

In speaking of the Sheriff's office, the report states there are "three points of vital interest to the public which should be mentioned, and in which Sheriff William I. Traeger deserved the commendation of the grand jury."

First, it pointed out that in the civil department trust moneys handled by the Sheriff are deposited at once with the County

MANY BOOTLEG ARRESTS PEND.

Dry Chief Here Incognito for Several Weeks.

Mitchell Says He Obtained Much Evidence.

Whole Southland Covered in Search, He States.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—For several weeks State Prohibition Director Mitchell has been living in a hotel in Los Angeles under a fictitious name, has been circulating freely among the best cafes, secretly directing a corps of agents, making journeys throughout Southern California, always incognito and gathering a mass of evidence that is to be used in the near future when a series of wholesale arrests for violation of the Volstead Act are to be made, according to a statement made by him today.

This statement was given out when Mr. Mitchell returned to his office in San Francisco, still showing signs of the slight injuries he received in an automobile accident at Wasco, Kern county, last Saturday.

EVIDENCE GATHERED.

Mr. Mitchell says his activities have been devoted entirely, during his absence, to the "laying" of asserted bootleg establishments and the systematic assembling of evidence that will be used as fast as arrests are made. Virtually every section of Southern California was covered by Mr. Mitchell and his agents, he says, and because of his success in keeping dark his identity, he asserts, evidence of the most damaging sort was obtained against resorts that heretofore have circumvented Federal agents.

One of the asserted tangible results of Mr. Mitchell's trip is stated to have been the cleaning up of Bakersfield and the breaking up of a gang of systematic prohibition law violators. Acting in conjunction with the Chief of Police of that city, Mr. Mitchell and his men operated secretly and with the aid of their fictitious identities, rounded up a gang of bell boys in a hotel, who were said to have been carrying on a gigantic traffic in liquor, it is stated.

The results of the campaign are not yet in evidence, says Mr. Mitchell, but as soon as the "clean up" drive begins it will show in amazing proportions.

Coincident with his return to his office today Mr. Mitchell answered charges that have been made against him that he was padding his expense account and indulging in automobile joy rides at the expense of the government.

Mr. Mitchell pointed to the fact that these so-called joy rides were too hazardous to provide much real entertainment. On his first trip, he said, the machine in which he was riding had three bullet holes drilled through it by bootleggers. On his second trip he experienced a head-on collision and on his trip from which he has just returned he is still carrying the marks of his injuries.

Concerning the fact that his wife travels with him, Mr. Mitchell declares that she always has accompanied him on his trips and intends to do so in the future. All her expenses, he says, are paid from his personal funds and not charged to the government.

Fines and Bail Forfeited Total Large Amount.

Fines imposed in police courts and bail forfeited during December amounted to $66,117, according to the monthly report of Bail Clerk David Martin, which was filed yesterday. The total amount collected by the bail clerk for the last month in 1921 sets a new record by several thousand dollars.

WON'T NOTICE JURY ATTACK.

Woolwine Doesn't Believe He Has Been Injured; Says No Testimony Taken.

Regarding the grand jury attacks, Dist.-Atty. Woolwine yesterday declared that no witness had ever been called before the jury to swear anything against him, nor had any testimony been taken by the jury against him. He added that he did not believe he had been injured by the attacks and would take no further notice of them.

Tells of Talk With Death Suspect

Mrs. Grace Warren.

STATE DRY HEADS ACCUSED.

Avery Says Mitchell and Doyle Told Him to "Lay Off" on Raids Here During Holidays.

Responsibility for the failure of local prohibition enforcement to function here during holiday week was yesterday laid squarely at the doors of State Prohibition Director E. F. Mitchell and Chief of State Prohibition Field Forces James Doyle in a formal statement issued over his signature by Robert C. Avery, Federal prohibition agent in charge of this district.

In a verbal statement supplementing his written declaration Mr. Avery stated that he received specific instructions from the State officers to "lay off" of an extensive program of raids, arrests and seizures of contraband liquor for which everything was ready. The reasons given him for these instructions, Mr. Avery said, did not appear to him to be adequate. They had to do with other operations elsewhere of the prohibition enforcement officers. They also told him, he says, that certain politicians were gunning for him.

Among the specific plans for the local prohibition squad thus called off, Mr. Avery said, was the largest single seizure of bootleg liquor ever made in Southern California, possibly in the West. Extensive raids at a near-by beach city and enough work in Los Angeles to populate an ordinary jail were likewise nullified. In his statement Mr. Avery characterizes the attitude of Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Doyle as "child's play, folly, pretense in a mistaken policy if not deliberate obstruction, peanut politics," etc.

AVERY'S STATEMENT.

Here is Mr. Avery's signed statement:

The visitation to Los Angeles of State Prohibition Director E. F. Mitchell and Chief of Field Forces James Doyle availed nothing but confusion and in effect was obstructive to prohibition enforcement here. It may as well go to the public that important cases were taken out of our hands, agents working with Los Angeles as their post of duty told to lay off of important cases in hand, my men ordered to far-distant points in the State without my knowledge and taken away from witness duties and the control of physical evidence in cases before the United States Commissioner for prosecution. It was a combination of child's play, folly and pretense in a mistaken policy, if not deliberate obstruction. For the public bent on defending government it was tragedy.

With the Los Angeles Times outspoken in defense of the American Constitution, with the constabulary of southern counties and the police officers of southern cities cooperating earnestly in large percentage, with public sentiment responding and sustaining the drive in behalf of government, we blush that any authority should be able to confuse the situation as did the forces from San Francisco during the holiday week.

It is to laugh that I was informed by them that politicians were gunning for me. Well, they are gunning also for President Harding and Lloyd George, gunning for our honorable representatives at Washington — would-be politicians are always gunning and more or less obstructing. Child methods, lack of policy and peanut politics of Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Doyle, while in Los Angeles during the holidays, are a joke on any political party they claim to represent. They cannot represent the broad policies of great political leaders of the Republican party.

Any would-be politician who does not sense the driving force of public sentiment, the onward rush of constructive thought and see the wide-open door of opportunity will get knocked off the track in his political run if he doesn't watch out. The enforcement office of Los Angeles district will be run for enforcement from now on while I am in charge.

[Signed] ROBERT C. AVERY,
Federal Prohibition Agent in Charge.

SHOWERS END CHILLINESS.

With temperatures ranging between 27 and 32 degrees in many districts, Southern California experienced a real touch of near-winter Tuesday night, but the weather took a sudden turn yesterday and in the early evening a trace of rain fell here. The forecast for today is cloudy weather.

The chilliness of Tuesday night extended all over the State according to Weather Bureau reports, but did no damage, it is stated. Orange belt cities such as San Bernardino, Riverside, Redlands, Pomona, Corona and Santa Ana experienced temperatures ranging between 30 and 32 degrees for brief periods.

At San Fernando the official report showed a low mark of 32 degrees. At Calexico, a "low" of 34 degrees was reported.

Earl S. Dezell, assistant general manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, stated last night that recent rains had done an immense amount of good in the citrus belt, and that continued showers would keep the ground wet and ward off frost, but that the growers are unable to pick oranges in wet weather and that the markets are bare.

"Since the rain let up the growers have been able to hurry a small amount of fruit into the packing houses, and this is going out promptly," said Mr. Dezell, "but we need to get more picking done, even as we need good rains. The market is ready for virtually all the fruit we can ship."

San Francisco at 5 p.m. yesterday reported the sky as partly cloudy, wind light, precipitation for twenty-four hours ending at 5 p.m. at San Francisco was .07 of an inch; San Jose, trace; Chico .51; Stockton, .01; Eureka, .16; Sacramento, .04; Fresno, .01.

HEART BROKEN BY MISTAKE.

Mrs. Marie Davenport, repentant, wrote her husband, Charles R. Davenport:

"I have suffered enough to make a good woman out of me for all time."

She said her heart was breaking, "all on the ground of a hideous mistake." She asked her husband for another chance, for the sake of her little son whom she dearly loved.

Mr. Davenport sued for divorce and yesterday he was granted a decree. He stipulated that his wife should have the custody of the boy. The court allowed her $30 a month for the support of the child.

The wife's letter was introduced in evidence, and read:

"Charlie: My last appeal to you for the only happiness that is in the world for me. I am in the depot now and my heart is breaking, all on the ground of a hideous mistake. Charlie, I have the nerve to ask you for another chance and I have suffered enough to make a good woman out of me for all time to come, if you can possibly trust me once more. I am sure I will prove worthy.

"I am still your wife in the eyes of God and as far as that is concerned, I always will be. And can you believe me when I say that outside of those letters and Walter making love to me, I have not dishonored your name, and it only turned my head for a while? And dear, I love my little son, and oh, dear, you too. Can you, oh, will you in the name of God take me into your heart again for the little baby's sake? But if you feel that you can't love me again, don't do it, but I believe you can.

"Remember that my life depends on your answer and I won't eat or sleep till I hear."

BURCH WITNESS GRILLED WITH TONGUE TWISTERS.

Murder Trial is Battle of Long Words Dealing With Insanity; Madalynne May Testify.

Arthur C. Burch's murder trial yesterday developed into a psychiatric holiday for Chief Defense Counsel Paul W. Schenck, as he put Dr. Thomas J. Orbison, prosecution alienist, on the defensive during a cross-examination that consumed virtually the entire afternoon in Judge Reeve's court. More of the same was forecast for today.

Burch's counsel last night said they are considering calling Madalynne Obenchain, co-defendant of Burch, to testify in regard to a minor point brought out by Dr. Orbison. Despite this, however, it was admitted the probability that she will be summoned to the stand is not great. If called, her testimony will be limited to a message Burch said she sent him, according to Dr. Orbison, not to discuss his whereabouts on the day of the slaying.

Carrying the fight into the forts of the witness, Mr. Schenck grilled him in detail about his knowledge of the subject of insanity and his qualifications as an expert. Far afield of the murder accusation against Burch went the two verbal multisyllabled words at each other. After a long session that apparently was "over the heads" of the jury and spectators, Mr. Schenck said, "Now, we'll go back to Burch."

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine seemed pleased for the first time in an hour. "What? Get back to Burch?" he asked. The jury appeared relieved. The court resumed a smile. Burch rocked on his swivel chair.

But it was a false alarm because in another minute Dr. Orbison and Mr. Schenck were twisting their tongues around such words as dementia praecox of the schizophrenia group, echolalia, schanzkrampf, echopraxia, Jellife and White. When the light began to break and schanzkrampf was taken to be nothing more harmful than the name of some noted psychiatric authority, it developed that the term means wriggling of the nose.

WOMAN TESTIFIES.

Only once during the afternoon did the real issue of whether Burch killed J. Belton Kennedy last August 5 in Beverly Glen occupy the foreground. This was when Mrs. Grace Warren of Santa Barbara, passenger on the train that brought Burch to Los Angeles, took the witness stand.

She said Burch told her on the train that he was coming here to help a friend who was in trouble and who had sent for him. This friend was a woman, the witness said Burch told her.

"Mr. Burch told me she was a very good friend whom he had known in school; that she had been good to him when he was in trouble and he was glad to do anything he could for her," Mrs. Warren continued. "He said she was in trouble with the man whom she was in love with. He also said it would be hard for him, but he was willing to stand up and see her marry the man she wanted to marry."

ABOUT REVOLVER.

Burch was further quoted by the witness as saying he thought of putting a pistol in his suit case when he started to Los Angeles, but decided that would be foolish. He seemed happy at what he regarded as an adventure, Mrs. Warren declared. After her direct examination by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Keyes, Mr. Schenck waived any questioning.

As if making up for lost time, however, he plunged anew into the cross-examination of Dr. Orbison, whose testimony had been interrupted in order that Mrs. Warren might take the stand.

A few of the members of the jury that is composed of ten women and two men continued conscientiously for a time to take notes on the questioning of the physician. This soon was abandoned when huge volumes of standard writers on matters of psychiatry were produced and Mr. Schenck started comparing the witness's opinion with those of acknowledged authorities.

After some two hours of the cross-examination, Dr. Orbison declared, "I realize these questions are asked to make it appear I am ignorant on the subject of neurology." He then proceded to reply to the question as to what standard authors he had read on the subject.

THINKS BURCH SANE.

Under direct examination, Dr. Orbison told the jury he believes Burch is sane, that he is egotistical and admits it, but is not insane, that he is emotional and normal in emotional reactions, that he frequently is serious instead of being always flippant as he was described by defense alienists; and that Burch did not seem very well pleased when Dr. Orbison told him he thinks he is sane.

Another interesting phase of the note Mrs. Obenchain is declared to have written to Burch in the County Jail was adduced in the doctor's testimony. This note was shown to Burch by Dr. Ross Moore, alienist who believes Burch crazy. It asked Burch to tell Dr. Moore everything concerning his actions on the afternoon and night of the murder. Burch declined to do so.

Dr. Orbison said Burch told him Mrs. Obenchain had sent word to him in a secret manner not to comply with the note's re-

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

The Human Triangle.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

Isn't life the contrary thing? Always stuffing us on the bread and meat we have no appetite for, and holding back the sugar plum for which our mouths are watering!

Here's a pathetic example for it. A young man writes me that he is in love with a girl who doesn't love him, and that a girl he doesn't love is in love with him, and he wants to know how to make the girl who doesn't love him fall in love with him, and the girl who does love him, fall out of love with him.

Alas, poor youth, I am afraid that there is no reliable recipe of the follow-these-directions-and-you-cannot-fail kind for winning a woman's heart, as there is for making sponge cake. A girl falls in love with a man for a million different reasons, or for no reason at all, and why she prefers one man to another she generally doesn't know herself.

Sometimes a girl falls in love with a man because he is a carpet knight whose step matches here in the dance, and who is full of gallantries and delicate attentions. Again, a brute who hands her out caveman stuff sweeps her off of her feet. She may fall in love with a man because of his saintliness and spiritual outlook, as witness the havoc preachers make among the fair sex, but she is equally liable to become enamoured of a profligate with a lurid past, and consider that she has a sacred mission to reform him, and lead him up to the higher life.

And there you are, and nobody can tell you what is the winning way with a woman. For it depends, not alone on the woman, but on the particular mood she happens to be in.

Once upon a time I interviewed a bigamist on this vital subject. He had wooed and won twenty-seven different women, so was entitled to qualify as an expert guide to the feminine heart, and he said, "Aw, any woman will fall for you if you will just talk to her about herself."

I am inclined to think that the whole of the law and the prophets on how to make a woman fall in love with you is contained in these words of wisdom and that practically any woman will fall in love with any man if he will keep the spotlight turned on her, without wearying, or growing tired.

There are many reasons why this should be true. One is, that we just naturally admire those who admire us. For a man to show a woman that he has singled her out of the whole herd of women as the most beautiful, the most charming, and fascinating, and desirable of her sex, proves to her, beyond all questioning, that he is a man of great discernment, of rare taste, and sound judgment, all of which are qualities that must appeal to any woman.

Secondly, the man who talks to a woman continually about herself, immediately becomes to her the most fascinating conversationalist in the world. She could listen to him forever, and then beg for a few more words on the same subject. The things that concern ourselves are the most important and interesting things on earth to us, and we never weary of hearing them discussed.

The most learned scholar who ever lived, the wittiest man, the adventurer who has had the most hair-raising experiences and tells of them in the most dramatic manner, cannot enchain a woman's attention as can the man who talks to her for hours upon hours about how beautifully the hair grows on the nape of her neck, and tells her how ravishing she looked in her new evening gown at the ball last night.

Boredom is the great enemy of love, both before and after marriage. When a woman begins to yawn, and look at the clock, a man had as well grab his candy box and go home, but no woman's interest ever flags while she is the thrilling topic of discussion, and that is why the man who talks to a woman about herself is pretty sure to win out. She marries him in order to get a spell binder for a life companion.

Of course, there are other aids that a man may bring to his assault upon a woman's heart. Discreet gifts that show that he has remembered some whim or wish of hers, delicate attentions that prove his desire to make her happy, an indulgent, and yet an independent attitude towards her, for every woman tries to henpeck a man, and despises or respects him according as he yields or resists. Above all, making a girl feel that he is going to marry her, whether she wants him or not, all these break down the wall of a girl's resistance, and make her run up the white flag of surrender.

But most potent of all is just making her feel that she is it, the one and only woman in the world. To be all and all to some man is a mania, an obsession with the entire female sex, and any woman will fall in love with any man who can convince her that she is the whole shooting match to him.

As for making a girl fall out of love with a man, that is a still easier proposition. A little criticism will do the trick. As a woman's love is born of admiration, so it is slain by fault finding.

Women will endure neglect, they will forgive unfaithfulness, they will bear with every fault and weakness of a man, and love him still, but let him criticise the way they dress, and do their hair, or tell them that they are getting too fat, or too thin, or correct their grammar and pronunciation, and Cupid turns up his toes and it's all over but the obsequies. The man who knocks a woman kills her love with a bludgeon. It is a brutal way to do it, but effective.

After all, there is only one thing easier than winning a woman's love, and that is losing it.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Should Honor Sims.

NEWPORT (R. I.) Dec. 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The American people love a square deal. If they allow a great injustice to persist it must be because their attention has been occupied by great problems and great events, and because they do not know the facts. It is only fair therefore to make the facts public; will you help?

The brilliant and successful leader of the mightiest naval armada that ever fought under the Stars and Stripes in the greatest war in our history is rewarded for his courage by humiliation. All other great leaders are recognized and honored: he alone is neglected.

In France her great leaders are now marshals of France; many are made members of the French academy. Great Britain has bestowed estates, titles and Governor-Generalships on her generals and admirals. Moreover, we have, to our humiliation, allowed these nations to show Admiral Sims marked honors, while we have treated him as they have treated their failures. Worst of all we have showered generously our most effusive honors to the French, British and Italian military and naval heroes, and even given fulsome receptions to foreign Kings, Princes and Potentates. But the man who rescued our Navy from a dangerous rut, who made it an efficient modern fighting force and who led it to victory against an elusive enemy, is forgotten, and obscure men are elevated to higher honors over his devoted head.

When other navies were developing miracles in gunnery and our ships could not shoot, Lieut. Sims fought all his conservative superiors and, gaining the confidence of the then President Roosevelt, made naval marksmanship our pride and glory. When our battleships were so badly designed as to menace the lives of the crew even in peace, the same courageous young officer boldly told the truth about ships, which were the pride of our Navy, stuck to his guns and won the day against those who preferred a comfortable complacency to naval efficiency. Roosevelt gave him unmeasured confidence and paid him unique honors.

During the World War, with the same devoted courage he fought for the convoy system until he got it; he insisted upon antisubmarine craft until they were sent. These victories made it possible for us to send our Army overseas and to shorten the war.

The writer stands ready to supply official documents to substantiate every statement made in this letter.

But, by opposing red-tape, Admiral Sims alienated his conservative superiors; by combating political demagoguery he antagonized the unscrupulous amongst the politicians.

But these great services to America are forgotten.

It was a mere accident—the untimely adjourning of the Senate—that prevented us paying to Admiral Sims the same honor as we paid Gen. Pershing. Meanwhile our people forgot, and the timid politicians dared not reopen the matter.

Can we not let them know that the American people dare to honor those who have served them faithfully and well despite the clamors of a spiteful minority? If he was good enough for T. R., he is good enough for me.

J. M. SCAMMELL.

Must Be Married.

CLINTON (Ind.) Dec. 26.—[To the Editor of The Times:] America is making a mistake by letting vast hordes of wifeless men emigrate to this country. There are too many indictments against these unmarried males. We must adopt a policy of married men only and they must bring the wife with them. We have too many unmarried drifters here now. Some of these men never pay any taxes. Some of them don't register to vote. Some shun being counted in the census. It is the unmarried men who commit the robberies, hold-ups and most every other crime against society. Single men congest in various boarding-houses. Here those with a tendency to be crooked get acquainted with each other, and here is the starting point of much unlawfulness. The vast majority of crimes are committed by unmarried men. Among the unmarried men we find the greatest number of dissensionists and extremists. The future of this country is in the home—not the boarding-house. The responsibility of married life has a taming influence on men. Moral society can find no argument in favor of the single man. Single men roam over the country but not for the good of the country. The hope of civilization is not in a bunch of unmarried drifters. Married men are more stable and more reliable. Married men not only produce and put on the market, but buy back off the market, thus facilitating trade both ways. This cannot be said of single men who often send their earnings back to the old country. To suppose that these men can marry here is absurd. There are not enough foreign girls to go round. These foreign men regard the American girl as independent and impudent. The American girl regards the foreign man as despotic. And marriages between them are few. The melting-pot is not melting up these men. Nor is it possible so long as the men so greatly outnumber the women as is the case in all North America. These are a bunch of hopelessly single men. Subtract the influence of woman from men and they become a restless bunch. Unsatisfied and restless men are not good for this country. An investigation of robbery, murder, hold-ups and other crimes will show that these depredations are done mostly by single men, and this criminality is participated in by several of the unmarried foreign males. This situation cannot be completely eliminated now, but future trouble can be avoided by us refusing to accept any more unmarried male emigrants. He must be married and he must bring the wife with him.

HOMER HAYES.

A Little Irony.

LONG BEACH, Dec. 27. — [To the Editor of The Times:] Outside of money, the greatest thing that I missed overseas was the Los Angeles Times. To me breakfast without The Times is a failure. Lately I have had quite a bit of fun reading some of the articles relating to the "soldier bonus." It seems we have been "boning" Congress for some little time with very little effect. Candidly, however, I believe the soldier would be better off without it. In the first place he'd probably spend this money and more than likely spend it foolishly. So many of the "over there" fellows are out of employment and if Congress would give them a few dollars now they could buy clothes and a few steaks with it and look so respectable that in all probability they'd be given work.

Again some of them might have nerve enough to go into a little business of some kind, but as statistics show that over 90 per cent of people who go into business are failures, it would be money wasted.

Some of these fellows are married, too, and have children. And I am sure that a lot of these children have not had any new clothes in a long time, but if they were given clothes they would wear them out and the granting of a pension to a wealthy Congressman certainly would be the better investment.

And suppose some "doughboy" had taken unto himself a wife and the government gave him a princely "bonus" and the wife in common with I think it was three other women who filed divorce suits in December in Los Angeles county—I am exceptionally poor at figures—brought suit for separate maintenance, divorce and alimony and hubby to pay all costs. I say the government would have solved a domestic problem by withholding the bonus from such "doughboy."

I have cited four examples and I hope everyone who reads will see plainly that the bonus is not a good thing for the ex-soldier.

ARTHUR QUIRT.

To Stop Thefts.

MONROVIA, Jan. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As a remedy for the automobile stealings that are becoming so frequent in Los Angeles, I beg to offer a suggestion, which with a more comprehensive plan or additions, may have the effect desired.

In a nutshell, compel all buyers of auto parts, and used autos, before taking a delivery in any manner, to register the intention of purchase, giving a full description of article offered for sale, together with name of seller.

Make the auto theft bureau or an equally efficient one, the ones to whom such reports must be made prior to purchase, and I think many of the joints would go out of business that are now buying machines and parts, and who are the real promoters of the stealing game.

It is said to be a fact, that at least two-thirds of the stolen cars are dismantled, disfigured, changed in appearance, so that the owners themselves are unable to identify their cars in a few hours after being taken, and when repainted find ready buyers, and I want to ask, how could such be possible but for the ease in changing parts through such agencies as handle them.

I realize the objections that would be raised to any such system, owing to some delays in completing sales, yet it does seem that somehow ways can be provided in which, not only each county could adopt the plan, but adjoining States as well, and then I would like to see the color of the hair of the auto crook daring to offer a stolen car or parts anywhere.

Put the buyers on the defensive, and the battle is more than half won for without willing buyers stolen cars would be scarce.

Question: Why aren't Chinese allowed to be buried in this country?

A. L.

Answer: There is no law prohibiting the burial of Chinese in the United States. Some are buried here, but the Chinese prefer being buried in their own country.

Q.: Can a cow's milk be made richer?

A. E. R.

A.: The richness of a cow's milk does not depend upon her food, but is determined chiefly by heredity and cannot be changed permanently by any means. It is true, however, that a cow in a high state of flesh at the time of calving gives richer milk for a short time than one thin in flesh.

Q.: Does the discharging of a rifle cause one noise or two?

I. A.

A.: There are two separate noises when a gun is discharged, the report noise and the bullet-flight noise.

Q.: How did Governor's Island get its name?

M. E. R.

A.: The Dutch called the island "Nooten," and the English translated it Nut Island. The Indians sold it to Governor Wouter Van Twiller in 1684. In 1689 the island was set aside by the Assembly for "His Majesties Governors." In 1784, the name was changed to Governor's Island in recognition of its long tenacy by the Dutch and English Colonial Governors.

Q.: If the present rate of use, how long will hickory in this country last?

R. H. Q.

A.: The Forest Service says that at the present rate of usage of hickory there is a possibility of exhausting the supply within twenty years.

Q.: Late last summer my red raspberry bushes reached over and the ends have taken root. Kindly in form me what course to take in treatment of same?

J. C. A.

A.: The Department of Agricultural says there is nothing to worry about in a case of this kind. You can either leave the plant as it is or else cut off the rooting tips for propagating purposes.

Many ambitious men and women live only half a life—and don't know it

No person whose nerves are continually irritated, who's appetite and digestion are disturbed, or who doesn't sleep well has more than half his normal chance for success in life. For weakness, debility, anemia and general lack of tone are a serious handicap to anybody.

Those who drink tea or coffee are often sufferers from these conditions. Tea and coffee contain caffeine, a substance which has a decided stimulant action on the nerves.

Each cup of strong coffee contains about as large a dose of caffeine as your doctor would ordinarily give to a very sick person.

You can readily see that the effect of giving this stimulant regularly to a well person might finally have a tendency to make him sick.

If you want to avoid a very common cause of irritation and enjoy restful sleep, good digestion, and the feeling of vigor and robust endurance that comes to healthy, normal people, quit tea and coffee, and drink Postum instead. It is a rich, coffee-like cereal beverage—delicious!

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this fragrant, aromatic beverage and see how much better you'll feel—able to do more without becoming fatigued—as thousands have discovered for themselves.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of regular bulk, for those who prefer to boil the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold everywhere!

STORM DAMAGE LIGHT IN CITY.

Engineer's Report Covering Details is Submitted.

Protective Work Helped to Control Floods.

Twelve Thousand Dollars is Total Given.

Asserting that the city suffered less than $12,000 damage from storm waters during the recent rains, the City Engineer's office yesterday submitted to the Board of Public Works a detailed report of damages and asked that $11,500 be appropriated to handle the work of repairs. Forty laborers to carry on repair work were asked for.

Following is the detailed report:

"Carlota Boulevard wall at Avenue 42 undermined so that it will have to be underpinned for a distance of about 200 feet as soon as the flow of water in the Arroyo Seco can be stopped. Protective work with trees and sandbags was done here during the storm.

"The arroyo channel also lowered near Avenue 28 so as to expose the top of this same wall for about 250 feet so that it will have to be underpinned.

WALL IS UNDERMINED.

"At Marmion Way and Loreto street, the wall along the west bank of the arroyo was undermined and slid out of place so that it will have to be underpinned. Above this wall the bank was cut so as to endanger the street and protective work was done during the storm.

"On Los Feliz Road near the site of the old Pigeon Farm a landslide occurred which is difficult to repair on account of the height of the bank which slid.

"Tropico-avenue bridge filled up with trees. Eight of the piles were broken and a washout seventy-eight feet wide occurred around the westerly end of the bridge.

"Three bents supporting the bridge over the westerly channel of the Tujunga wash at Sherman Way in the San Fernando Valley washed out.

"The city's gravel plant at Avenue 31 and the Arroyo Seco was closed down because of flooding of the pit, and work cannot be resumed until the flow of water stops. This deprives the department of its principal source of supply of rock, sand and gravel for street work.

"The Vineland-avenue bridge was completely wrecked."

SILT IN STREETS.

The report does not provide for work which will have to be done removing silt from streets in Van Nuys. It is believed that at Van Nuys it will be advisable to confine the work at present to cleaning roadways in the important streets with the San Fernando forces and to postpone removing the bulk of the silt until after the rainy season, for if the streets were thoroughly cleaned now they would become basins to catch a fresh supply of silt with the next storm.

The City Engineer also submitted to the Board of Public Works a recommendation outlining his ideas as to how Chief Engineer Reagan of the county flood control district should proceed in handling the Devil's Gate dam, which is located in the city of Pasadena, after each heavy rain.

The Board of Public Works sent a communication to the City Council, requesting it to urge the county Supervisors to adopt the City Engineer's recommendations concerning the operation of the Devil's Gate dam.

CITY RULE ON PAVING ATTACKED.

Plan for Lyon-Street Work Brings Policy Question Again Before Council.

Councilman Sanborn yesterday successfully fought for and secured a continuance until the 18th inst. of action on the proposed paving of Lyon street. Lyon street is 500 feet long and has a "stub" ending at the plant of the Wilson Packing Company, which has not joined with the Los Angeles Gas & Electric Corporation, minority property owners on the street, in asking that the pavement, which will cost the property owners some $11,000, be laid.

The City Council established the policy in 1913 that no petitions for street improvement would be received unless the signers represented at least 50 per cent of the frontage affected. Interested persons desirous of changing the rule have long worked to force the Council to order public improvements under an act of 1911, which permits the Council by a four-fifths vote to force through public improvements, even after a majority property owners' protests have been filed. The act was originally intended to enable the Council to put through emergency improvements where sections of great public improvements, such as West Washington street, were being held up by majority protests.

If the Lyon-street paving plan is carried through over the majority protest filed by the Industrial Development & Land Company, it has been openly stated by the lobbyists that other streets in Los Angeles will be similarly ordered paved in spite of majority owners' objections.

BURKE COMMISSIONED.

Federal Attorney Gets Old Name Back on Authorization.

U. S. Attorney Burke yesterday received his commission dating for four years from Dec. 22, 1921, signed by President Harding and Atty.-Gen. Daugherty.

It is made out in the name of Joseph C. Burke, which is a new wrinkle in the given name of the Federal official. Originally christened Joseph C., Mr. Burke took the name of "Joe" at an early age, and is known by no other name by his friends. But with the official record against him, he will now be compelled to use the patronymic given him by his father. The commission will be framed and hung in the office of the U. S. Attorney.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.—[Advertisement.

THE BREAD LINE.

The nickel loaf of bread, weighing one pound, has made its appearance in this country once more. Things are getting back to normalcy here, but in Vienna they loaf.

LEAVING THE FARM.

There are 18,000 idle farms in Michigan and economists are worrying about it. Seems as if all the Michigan farmers were junking their plows and going to Detroit to help Henry make his peace disturbers.

WEATHER REPORTS.

They have already had some 30-below-zero weather in the North and East. Californians have been kicking on their climate in recent days—complaining of wet feet and all that, but really they had nothing to worry over.

LITTLE EVA.

Eastern cities are giving fresh verve and splendor to the cabaret and some places are giving lavish entertainments with the bill of fare. Even Eva Tanguay is in the game. At singing for her supper Eva should be all right.

THE SWEDISH MOVEMENT.

Emma Goldman has been able to get out of Russia and is about to land at Stockholm. Emma ought to join the Swedish movement. In that she might be of some benefit to the world. We could think more of her massage than her message.

AMONG NOBLEMEN.

A Woman wants a divorce from her husband because he snubs her. She says she wants $500 a month alimony, as the husband is able to earn $1000 a month. She says he is a French nobleman. Since when was the business of being a nobleman worth $1000 a month? One can get a well-broken nobleman most any time for $30 a week.

WORLD BUSINESS.

Germany wants an economic armistice. Of a certainty. She wants an opportunity to get raw materials on credit. That should not be so difficult. But she wants no American tariff that shall penalize her products. With a free-trade world Germany would be doing a wonderful business. If the League of Nations can stabilize exchange Germany can take care of herself.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

The professor of archaeology says that the earliest civilization in Mexico was Chibcha. It was before the cliff dwellers and the Aztecs. How did the Chinamen make the jump from Shanghai? They must have slipped back in their civilization. They have never been able to travel very far in their modern schooners. The Chinese civilization of nine thousands years ago consisted of a few words of wisdom and not much else.

SIR JAMES HIMSELF.

James Buchanan has been made a British peer. Nothing is said of his possible kinship with the one-time American President. This Buchanan gathers his name and fame from his whisky. He is one of the great distillers of the British empire. The brewers and distillers have furnished England with quite a string of her titled nobility. It seems strange. Imagine Congress pinning its medal on the King of the Bootleggers! Glory is won in bottle as well as battle.

TURN TO THE RIGHT.

British America is becoming civilized. The citizens are learning to turn to the right. New rules for the government of traffic in many cities of the provinces forever abandon the old English idea of the left-hand turn. The sign up is "Keep to the Right." The Britishers have been going to the wrong for so many centuries that they have grown to like it, and it is hard to change the established order. But the break has been made, and in a few years London itself may learn to be right-handed.

THE NIGHT AHEAD.

The problem of what to do with Bolshevik Russia will settle itself in due time. The soviets will run out of men in a century or so. The war cut heavily into the ranks of the Russians, but it was a body-builder compared with a soviet peace. The death rate in Russia prior to 1917 was 35 per thousand. Now it is virtually 75 for each 1000 inhabitants. The death rate in conglomerate New York is but 11.17 per thousand; so it may be seen what famine and Bolshevism are doing to Russia. The birth rate in Russia before the war was 40 per thousand. It is now less than 13. With the death percentages climbing at a frightful rate and the births decreasing in equally remarkable proportion any mathematician might easily compute the hour of the complete obliteration of Russia as a nation. Away back in 1897 Russia had 9,200,000 industrial workers—members of soviets. Now there are only 4,700,000. The soviets themselves are running dry. The commune promised a program of popular education. The government is spending less than 25,000,000 gold roubles this year for the schools. In the days of the Czar the expenditures for education were 275,000,000 rubles a year and at that the rest of the world sympathized with "darkest Russia." It is growing still darker and soon will be night.

THE SHAME AND PITY OF IT.

New York, enough of its inhabitants to bring disgrace upon a whole country, chose to enter upon the New Year with the vilest orgies in its history. But while New York stands out in its monumental shame, few cities in the country can afford to thank God they are not as these others, for in quality, if not in quantity, disgusting excesses could probably be recorded in every one of them. Here in Los Angeles, we, too, have our shameless, debased coteries, who by some perverted reasoning consider it smart, clever, entertaining, to drink themselves into befuddled loathsomeness, to give their vilest nature full rein, to prove how low human beings can sink in voluntary degradation in the name, forsooth, of "pleasure."

These are not the great masses, not the Americans who have raised our country to its proud status among nations. Nor are they any one class, any particular stratum of society. These disgusting excesses of drunkenness and lewdness crop in every walk of life, among the sons and daughters of the poor as well as among the offspring of the rich. But they are found less often among the home-makers, the great masses of our citizenry, who strive to maintain the standards of decency, personal honor, yes, and the nobility without which nations must fall.

But these others stand out in their vileness, and though they be but one-half of one per cent of us, they degrade us all, they pollute the whole fabric of our cherished principles, they taint and debase every community in which they exist.

And for what? Where is their gain? What are the rewards of these shameful, these utterly pitiful exhibitions of human degradation? Is it smart or pleasurable to fire the brain into distortion, to drag the dregs of human depravity to the surface, to stimulate and encourage the dirtiest part of their natures, to expose themselves at their meanest and lowest? If this is the legitimate "pursuit of happiness," then there is nothing good or decent or joyous left in life. But drunken lewdness and sodden rioting are not happiness, never have been happiness, never can be happiness.

Yet this is the way in which countless citizens have chosen to usher in the New Year, for no better reason than that they were defying the law of their country, defying the laws of respectability and decency, playing the part of stupid, sodden crooks and prostitutes, victimizing and punishing themselves most of all, and making rich the Satanic bootleggers who alone profit by such orgies.

And so many of them are people who consider themselves honorable and decent, people who in other departments of life are among the first to claim the protection of their laws and their country and reap the rewards and benefits created and supported by the more responsible citizens. If these things were exclusive to the outcasts of society, to the wastrels and prostitutes and feeble-minded, it would be more understandable. But to our shame these orgies can be discovered among our business men, our politicians, our lawyers, our public officials, and the sons and daughters of people who have a real stake in the country, to whom their country's honor should be sacred, too—people who consider themselves entitled to respect and consideration from their fellows, people often in positions of authority over others, people who would register most indignant protest if their citizenship was denied them under a Constitution they proclaim but never support.

Perhaps the best punishment that could be invoked against these people would be the public loss of their citizenship until such time as they have proven themselves worthy to exercise it. But in New York we are told the police proved either powerless or indifferent, the numbers of drunken rioters exceeding anything that that city had seen before. By which it is fairly obvious that New York has not created the fear and respect for the law which should have made such wholesale violations impossible. There was enough of this vulgarity in our own city to shame us.

The Times reiterates that it has no patience nor sympathy with these fools, who, in the name of "personal liberty," stand ready to flout the laws of their country, to make beasts of themselves, and to undermine everything that is best in human nature.

The Volstead Act is the law of the land—and these disgusting excesses are going far to prove that it was a necessary and just law. Those who do not approve of it are scarcely going to disprove its need by increasing and exaggerating the conditions which brought it about in the first place. They are doing nothing but proving the necessity for sterner enforcement, that those who want liquor can't be trusted with it, and winning thousands of hitherto neutral votes, moderate votes, to the side of the absolute prohibitionists. Any decent-minded person, witnessing such orgies, would scarcely be convinced thereby that "personal liberty" in this connection is any advantage to people under any sort of a constitutional government.

ALICE IN WONDERLAND.

Miss Alice Robertson, spinster Congresswoman from Oklahoma, anti-suffragist, solitary representative in Congress of the sex she doesn't consider needs representing, and a "Christian, an American and a Republican" by public declaration, has announced her intention of standing for re-election. And if she is re-elected it will be by the men or the other anti-suffragist ladies who once did not consider that any woman should ever be elected or have the privilege of helping elect anyone to that august body of the governing elect. The National Woman's party will oppose her virulently, chiefly because she has antagonized specific feminine legislation and has insisted upon voting like a staid dyed-in-the-wool Old Guard Republican who hasn't any use for "these meddling women."

The situation is decidedly entertaining. Alice, who professed to abhor the idea of women in politics, waged as an anti a good political fight against female political rights. She admits that the keenest disappointment of her career was the suffragist victory, when the men of Oklahoma gallantly admitted that "women were people" and as comparatively intelligent as themselves, and conferred the vote upon them. But she accepted the new "burden" with such fortitude that she decided if there had to be women legislators, she, an anti, would make about the best there was. She put this idea over so successfully that she was elected by a sizeable majority. But after this she was quite consistent. She acted as nearly like a man of the magnificently prejudiced old school as she possibly could. She has opposed every feminist measure that has come up, given out interviews upholding the general superiority of masculinity, blamed the women for most of the immorality of the day, their clothes, their habits, their tastes generally, and insisted that when a hubby went astray it was usually his wife's fault.

No wonder the women voters stand aghast at her effrontery! Here she is, hopelessly out of date, holding the up-to-datest job—Queen Victoria on the throne regretting that women should "seek power and sway," when they should crave nothing but to "love, serve, honor and obey." And, incidentally, Queen Victoria got away with it, too.

So Alice, by scorning, won her way into Wonderland; but, as far as Oklahoma is concerned, she means to hold the citadel against all yearnful feminine comers and see to it, as far as lies in her power, that no other pernicious member of her sex gets into a place to bring women into contumely. She has met the caterpillar and eaten of the mushroom, that, you will recall, so enlarged the other Alice's growth that she couldn't get out. It remains to be seen whether someone will pass her a new bite from the other side in the election, which will make her grow so small that her friends will have difficulty in finding her again, as also happened to the other Alice.

But after all, Miss Alice has been thoroughly, joyously feminine in her new masculine role—not feminist, but feminine. The only wonder is that she was not successfully snared to guard some masculine hearth—but she says she is sixty and never had a lover. So Miss Alice, like so many old-fashioned girls, has discovered that men approve of her, acclaim her, vote for her—but seek and love the modern and the voguish.

A KITCHENER FILM.

A reckless English film corporation recently produced a screen play purporting to show "How Kitchener was Betrayed," with one of Lord Kitchener's former secretaries (who has written a biography of his distinguished employer) in a leading role. Which ought to have meant good business.

But England has one kind of a film censorship if not another. So after the film was shown at a private parliamentary preview, it was branded untruthful, and will be barred from public exhibition. It was, however, founded upon one of the great myths of the war, which a great many people ardently believed—giving a certain German woman, Elsie Boecker, all the credit for "betraying" the Kitchener sailing plans to the Germans by vamping a young officer attached to Kitchener's staff, from whom she is supposed to have learned them. But unromatic British officialdom proves that the lady was in jail long before any plans were mooted, and incidentally shows that those plans were changed at the eleventh hour by Jellicoe on account of unforeseen weather conditions. The Hampshire, they declare, struck a stray mine, and sunk as the result of the merest accident. They positively decline to let any intriguing enemy female have a particle of the credit, or to permit any young officer's integrity to be so besmirched.

The film is banned because it is untruthful, because it reflects against the reputation of innocent persons, and because the influence and educational responsibility of the films is so great that they should not be permitted to mangle history for gain.

All of which impresses us as highly commendable and perfectly logical. A historical film should be strictly historical, especially when it deals with history sufficiently recent to be verified. Such a film could only be justified if true. Otherwise produce it as fiction without historical camouflage. But these producers made the mistake of insisting upon the absolute authenticity of their film story and using real names throughout. Hence it is both poor fiction and poor history. And it also reflects against the value of the "biography" of the young secretary, whose "facts" were accepted for the plot of the play, and which has already been published, with all its erroneous details.

The war has been responsible for a great deal of this "biographical" and "auto-biographical" literary slush, which, while not reaching quite so large a public as the films, does contribute false and foolish views and misconceptions to the confusion of history. And the stories are read so often by people who honestly wish to be truthfully informed, rather than merely entertained. There is plenty of scope for a literary censorship in this department is the cause of truth. The idea of censorship either in the films or in art and literature is abhorrent, but most of the censorship brigades to date have marched against too much realism, rarely against deliberate perversions and misrepresentations of the truth. And it is interesting to note that not a single defender has come forth for the "How Kitchener was Betrayed" film, excepting the perpetrators thereof—the authorities and the public being much more concerned about the betrayal of history, the unromantic, chilly facts in the case.

TOGAS FOR TWO.

Next November the voters of Pennsylvania will choose two United States Senators instead of one. The death of Boies Penrose followed unhappily fast upon that of Philander C. Knox. Physically Penrose was the bulkiest member of the Senate. Knox was possibly the smallest. Mentally both were giants, although their minds operated on variant lines. Senator Penrose was admittedly the Warwick of the Republican party. He might make Presidents, but he could never hope to be master of the White House in his own name. He was vigorous and sincere in his partisanship. He was a Republican first, last and all the time. Being regular was the thing that counted and the party organization was to him greater than any man or group. From a partisan standpoint the Republican organization has lost its most valuable asset. Yet it will survive and possibly climb to greater heights. As a Senator, Boies Penrose was a mighty force for his State and the cause he represented. He was a power of the first magnitude. He was a splendid and faithful product of Pennsylvania public life. After the death of Senator Knox the Governor of Pennsylvania gave the interim appointment to William E. Crowe. Next November the people will definitely decide the selection of two Senators.

MORE NOONANISMS.

A Baudette man claims to have caught a three-pound pike with a piece of yarn for a line. Some yarn.

A Northwest Angle girl got a good start on a musical career last week. She swallowed a phonograph needle.

We don't know who the next mayor of Baudette will be. All we know is that he won't have any sense. (Editor Noonan is the present mayor of the village.)

Congressman Tom Schall must have a lot of enemies. They're grooming him to run against Senator Kellogg.

HAVE YOUR EYES EXAMINED.

A committee of engineers headed by Herbert Hoover has prepared a report on the elimination of waste in American industry which contains startling facts about eyes.

The workman whose eyes are inefficient is doing inefficient work, no matter how conscientious he may be. That is a proper premise. On this is piled the fact, according to this survey, that 25,000,000 American workers have subnormal vision. This is estimated to be half of all the men and women engaged in gainful occupations.

This is a clear case of industrial waste through ignorance and neglect.

It can be corrected by proper co-operation between industrial managers and workers.

This national report says one thing clearly: Get your eyes examined.—[Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

The Stabilizer.

CHOP SUEY.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

Your tiny tad of from eighteen months to three years old comes toddling down the path with increasing momentum until he overreaches himself, the flying little feet double under him and he comes a cropper. He doesn't know it, of course, but his desire for an expanse of form at the expense of consistency has given him a fall. He had more speed than stride and nature called a halt. He isn't permanently discouraged, nor is he in the least cured. He is going right on with the false system of reaching for more than he can get for a long time to come. When he is four, he will blow up his toy balloon to a size that is greater than the strength of the rubber and an explosion is sure to follow. When he is five, his soap bubbles will hold the magic of the world for him until each in turn bursts, for the same reason that most things in this world of fragile illusions and unstable mechanism do break.

Your baby of eighteen months, who seeks to travel faster than its little feet can carry the over-reaching weight of the precious little body crowned with the rosy head of flying curls, is working on the same reverse principle as the man who robs the mails or holds up the bank. Each is seeking an expanse of form at the expense of consistency, and nature is not built to stand the strain. The desire of the baby and the thief is a legitimate impulse in both cases, but their method is sadly at fault.

If society only had to deal with the baby and the burglar, we would make this a fascinating world because of the baby and in spite of the burglar, but bless you, this thing of more speed than legs, more motive than power, more appetite than achievement, more want than method, more greed than purpose, more wish than will, breaks out on all of us, like a case of measles.

You may wonder why so many people who study metaphysics seem to go insane. They don't go insane from studying metaphysics. They have been living inconsistently at a thousand points for a long time and metaphysics happens to be the point at which we catch them at it. Metaphysics proved to be the sheriff or the policeman who took them in the act. Also they did not study metaphysics, for the steps of mastery are always of kind degree, kind and safe. They had day dreams about metaphysics, they had fancies and half knowledge, they mixed up the impersonal in principle with personal motives, they sighted a goal away ahead and lost sight of all the steps in between, they wallowed in the sophistries of personal affirmations and impractical negations, ignoring relative and conditional realities; in fact, they violated principles by seeking an expanse of form without maintaining consistency.

It may happen to the best prepared and the most sincere student who takes any path of thought, art, science or business in crossing over from common clear consciousness to the visions that must necessarily attend a working recognition of the full office of intuition that some bad moments will be experienced. These minutes will be bad merely in the sense that they are awesome and that their inspiration seems perilous. This happens because the sense of realities brings a multi-dimensional experience that seems to cut off a great many supposed conditions and facts which have been the chief support of the student's past life. Consistency is certainly the only safeguard here.

This vital law becomes more apparent if we take a concrete example in business. Moving pictures, for instance, require no apologies if their greatness and tremendous import shall carry them through many circumstances that look adverse. They have been true to a divine purpose; they are cyclic and epochal, both in their form and application, but they have almost wrecked themselves as a business institution by a violation of business law that is so plain it is rather astounding that producers and investors should not have made a discovery and correction long ago.

You will agree that it takes a rather nimble dollar to earn 5 cents in one year and still play safe. It requires a sharp hand at the investor's pen, a stout heart at a lot of vision, if a million dollars earns $30,000 in a year and takes no risks in doing it. In pictures a great many concerns with less than half a million of capital tried to pay interest on that amount to fifty or a hundred employees, provide a surplus for the producer, leave something for the stockholder and still keep their capital intact. They endeavored to pay the whole interest to about sixty different people and the most remarkable business in the world could not do that without performing more miracles than the Bible contains.

Please do not limit this example to pictures. They have been glaring offenders in this particular, but be frank enough with yourself to recognize where the shoe may fit the business of life that you yourself are at present about. Do not stop wanting to be rich or wise or great, for you are all of these and have a right to know it, but, for heaven's sake, be satisfied to get there one step at a time.

MEN AND CIGARS.

Men somehow remind me of five-cent cigars.

What a great number of five-cent cigars there are! How they are advertised as equal to ten-cent cigars! And how notoriously they are not!

There are millions of five-cent men trying to prove they are as good as the ten, twenty or three for a half kind, and cannot do it; the first evidence that a man is "getting along" is that he quits five-cent cigars and demands something better.—[R. W. Howe's Monthly.

BROOKLETS.

By Harry Ellington Brook.

You might not think so, from reading the papers, but good deeds are still done, every day.

Don't blame God or the Devil. Blame yourself. Both God and the devil are within you.

There is nothing mysterious about sickness. It is due to breaking the laws of Nature.

You cannot get well by "doing" something, or "taking" something, but only by ceasing to do and take that which makes you sick.

Here are three good suggestions for the New Year: Control your temper. Check your appetite. Strengthen your will.

It is easy to give up what you don't like.

Many men, who have long passed the "age of consent," have not yet reached the age of discretion.

No man will reach old age who overeats and under-sleeps. Oh, yes, I know, but Edison is not old yet, and Napoleon died comparatively young.

We hear much of unemployed working men, but little about the clerk, who must say, with the man in the Bible: "Dig I cannot; to beg, I am ashamed."

I avoid places where they mark things "and up." Be honest, and say "From 50c to $5," or whatever it may be.

It is well to ask a favor after lunch, unless the man has dyspepsia, when you are never safe.

Farming is hard work, but it beats toadying for a living.

Unhappy rich people remind me of a man with a pocket full of cigars and no match.

Some have a habit of differing merely for the sake of argument. I never take such bait. Life is too short.

We have dull times when people talk dull times, and prosperity when people talk prosperity. Mental suggestion.

Americans pity healthy European peasant women in the fields. Save your pity for pallid American women in factories.

Asthmatics, who sleep with closed windows, and inhale "dope," are unconscious humorists.

America needs fewer politicians and more patriots; fewer financiers and more farmers.

A country is truly prosperous only when the wealth is fairly distributed.

When men get wise they will refuse to be driven or cajoled to offensive wars, and will let statesmen fight it out.

Women are seldom happier than when spending money—because most of them seldom have much to spend.

Business is a confidence game. It is based on credit.

Burglars are not safe advisers regarding the construction of safes.

As between an aristocracy and a plutocracy, give me the former.

A good person, continually nagging to have things just so, is a thorn in the flesh.

No man understands a woman. She does not understand herself. And only one kind of a woman understands a man.

Some men are chiefly dress. Some magazines are mainly cover.

Money will buy many things, but it cannot buy the two greatest of all things, Health and Happiness.

Real industrial freedom must include freedom for small manufacturers from unfair competition by monopolies and trusts.

What the people need is the establishment of a school of statesmanship that will fix the country up, so that it will not need saving so often.

The man who sits at a desk cannot safely eat like a plowman.

For every drunkard, a hundred suffer from auto-intoxication, the result of habitual overeating.

The Pilgrims were protestants; the Puritans were religious bigots.

Better lend a man 50 cents while he is alive than pay $5 for a wreath on his coffin.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

LOOKING BETTER.

All around me men are building bungalows in which to dwell, and the painters brisk are gliding, graining, staining, wildly well; and I see the glaziers glazing and behold the brasiers brazing, and the carpenters are raising still more buildings with a yell. Everywhere I hear the hammer, everywhere I hear the saw, and the workmen's joyous clamor fills with happiness my craw; for the dead old days are ended when no sound of toil ascended, and my ample beard I rended, while I muttered "Pish!" and "Pshaw!" Oh, the dead old days are finished—may they never amble back!—when our wads were so diminished that we couldn't build a shack; and the landlords, profiteering, came like shearers to the shearing, truculent and domineering, to remove our little stack. Now we build our little shanties, build our neat, three-cornered shads, and our grandmas and our aunties will have roofs above their heads; and they'll plant sweet peas and lilies and materials for chilis, and the rent hogs have the willies as they curl up in their beds. Oh, the better days are coming when the building booms begin, and the plumbers they are plumbing, and the tinners gayly tin; every gent will have his cottage where the flies succumb to swattage, where he'll eat his humble pottage—and the rent hog's growing thin! WALT MASON.

A Running Start.

Maurine and Billy are rivals in their school work. But Billy had received much the higher grade on an examination paper. As he turned triumphantly toward the young lady after the results were announced, she gave him what is commonly referred to as "a nasty look."

"Huh," the little red-haired rascal boasted, "I can make an uglier face than you."

"Well, you ought to," she snapped, "look what you've got to start with."—[Indianapolis News.

THE BREAD LINE.

The nickel loaf of bread, weighing one pound, has made its appearance in this country once more. Things are getting back to normalcy here, but in Vienna they loaf.

LEAVING THE FARM.

There are 18,000 idle farms in Michigan and economists are worrying about it. Seems as if all the Michigan farmers were junking their plows and going to Detroit to help Henry make his peace disturbers.

WEATHER REPORTS.

They have already had some 30-below-zero weather in the North and East. Californians have been kicking on their climate in recent days—complaining of wet feet and all that, but really they had nothing to worry over.

LITTLE EVA.

Eastern cities are giving fresh verve and splendor to the cabaret and some places are giving lavish entertainments with the bill of fare. Even Eva Tanguay is in the game. At singing for her supper Eva should be all right.

THE SWEDISH MOVEMENT.

Emma Goldman has been able to get out of Russia and is about to land at Stockholm. Emma ought to join the Swedish movement. In that she might be of some benefit to the world. We could think more of her massage than her message.

AMONG NOBLEMEN.

A woman wants a divorce from her husband because he snubs her. She says she wants $500 a month alimony, as the husband is able to earn $1000 a month. She says he is a French nobleman. Since when was the business of being a nobleman worth $1000 a month? One can get a well-broken nobleman most any time for $30 a week.

WORLD BUSINESS.

Germany wants an economic armistice. Of a certainty. She wants an opportunity to get raw materials on credit. That should not be so difficult. But she wants no American tariff that shall penalize her products. With a free-trade world Germany would be doing a wonderful business. If the League of Nations can stabilize exchange Germany can take care of herself.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

The professor of archaeology says that the earliest civilization in Mexico was Chinese. It was before the cliff dwellers and the Aztecs. How did the Chinamen make the jump from Shanghai? They must have slipped back in their civilization. They have never been able to travel very far in their modern schooners. The Chinese civilization of nine thousands years ago consisted of a few words of wisdom and not much else.

SIR JAMES HIMSELF.

James Buchanan has been made a British peer. Nothing is said of his possible kinship with the one-time American President. This Buchanan gathers his name and fame from his whisky. He is one of the great distillers of the British empire. The brewers and distillers have furnished England with quite a string of her titled nobility. It seems strange. Imagine Congress pinning its medal on the King of the Bootleggers! Glory is won in bottle as well as battle.

TURN TO THE RIGHT.

British America is becoming civilized. The citizens are learning to turn to the right. New rules for the government of traffic in many cities of the provinces forever abandon the old English idea of the left-hand turn. The sign up is "Keep to the Right." The Britishers have been going to the wrong for so many centuries that they have grown to like it, and it is hard to change the established order. But the break has been made, and in a few years London itself may learn to be right-handed.

THE NIGHT AHEAD.

The problem of what to do with Bolshevik Russia will settle itself in due time. The soviets will run out of men in a century or so. The war cut heavily into the ranks of the Russians, but it was a body-builder compared with a soviet peace. The death rate in Russia prior to 1917 was 25 per thousand. Now it is virtually 75 for each 1000 inhabitants. The death rate in conglomerate New York is but 11.17 per thousand; so it may be seen what famine and Bolshevism are doing to Russia. The birth rate in Russia before the war was 40 per thousand. It is now less than 13. With the death percentages climbing at a frightful rate and the births decreasing in equally remarkable proportion any mathematician might easily compute the hour of the complete obliteration of Russia as a nation. Away back in 1897 Russia had 9,200,000 industrial workers—members of soviets. Now there are only 4,700,000. The soviets themselves are running dry. The commune promised a program of popular education. The government is spending less than 25,000,000 gold roubles this year for the schools. In the days of the Czar the expenditures for education were 275,000,000 rubles a year and at that the rest of the world sympathized with "darkest Russia." It is growing still darker and soon will be night.

THE SHAME AND PITY OF IT.

New York, enough of its inhabitants to bring disgrace upon a whole country, chose to enter upon the New Year with the vilest orgies in its history. But while New York stands out in its monumental shame, few cities in the country can afford to thank God they are not as these others, for in quality, if not in quantity, disgusting excesses could probably be recorded in every one of them. Here in Los Angeles, we, too, have our shameless, debased coteries, who by some perverted reasoning consider it smart, clever, entertaining, to drink themselves into befuddled loathsomeness, to give their vilest nature full rein, to prove how low human beings can sink in voluntary degradation in the name, forsooth, of "pleasure."

These are not the great masses, not the Americans who have raised our country to its proud status among nations. Nor are they any one class, any particular stratum of society. These disgusting excesses of drunkenness and lewdness crop in every walk of life, among the sons and daughters of the poor as well as among the offspring of the rich. But they are found less often among the home-makers, the great masses of our citizenry, who strive to maintain the standards of decency, personal honor, yes, and the nobility without which nations must fall.

But these others stand out in their vileness, and though they be but one-half of one per cent of us, they degrade us all, they pollute the whole fabric of our cherished principles, they taint and debase every community in which they exist.

And for what? Where is their gain? What are the rewards of these shameful, these utterly pitiful exhibitions of human degradation? Is it smart or pleasurable to fire the brain into distortion, to drag the dregs of human depravity to the surface, to stimulate and encourage the dirtiest part of their natures, to expose themselves at their meanest and lowest? If this is the legitimate "pursuit of happiness," then there is nothing good or decent or joyous left in life. But drunken lewdness and sodden rioting are not happiness, never have been happiness, never can be happiness.

Yet this is the way in which countless citizens have chosen to usher in the New Year, for no better reason than that they were defying the law of their country, defying the laws of respectability and decency, playing the part of stupid, sodden crooks and prostitutes, victimizing and punishing themselves most of all, and making rich the Satanic bootleggers who alone profit by such orgies.

And so many of them are people who consider themselves honorable and decent, people who in other departments of life are among the first to claim the protection of their laws and their country and reap the rewards and benefits created and supported by the more responsible citizens. If these things were exclusive to the outcasts of society, to the wastrels and prostitutes and feeble-minded, it would be more understandable. But to our shame these orgies can be discovered among our business men, our politicians, our lawyers, our public officials, and the sons and daughters of people who have a real stake in the country, to whom their country's honor should be sacred, too—people who consider themselves entitled to respect and consideration from their fellows, people often in positions of authority over others, people who would register most indignant protest if their citizenship was denied them under a Constitution they proclaim but never support.

Perhaps the best punishment that could be invoked against these people would be the public loss of their citizenship until such time as they have proven themselves worthy to exercise it. But in New York we are told the police proved either powerless or indifferent, the numbers of drunken rioters exceeding anything that that city had seen before. By which it is fairly obvious that New York has not created the fear and respect for the law which should have made such wholesale violations impossible. There was enough of this vulgarity in our own city to shame us.

The Times reiterates that it has no patience nor sympathy with these fools, who, in the name of "personal liberty," stand ready to flout the laws of their country, to make beasts of themselves, and to undermine everything that is best in human nature.

The Volstead Act is the law of the land—and these disgusting excesses are going far to prove that it was a necessary and just law. Those who do not approve of it are scarcely going to disprove its need by increasing and exaggerating the conditions which brought it about in the first place. They are doing nothing but proving the necessity for sterner enforcement, that those who want liquor can't be trusted with it, and winning thousands of hitherto neutral votes, moderate votes, to the side of the absolute prohibitionists. Any decent-minded person, witnessing such orgies, would scarcely be convinced thereby that "personal liberty" in this connection is any advantage to people under any sort of a constitutional government.

ALICE IN WONDERLAND.

Miss Alice Robertson, spinster Congresswoman from Oklahoma, anti-suffragist, solitary representative in Congress of the sex she doesn't consider needs representing, and a "Christian, an American and a Republican" by public declaration, has announced her intention of standing for re-election. And if she is re-elected it will be by the men or the other anti-suffragist ladies who once did not consider that any woman should ever be elected or have the privilege of helping elect anyone to that august body of the governing elect. The National Woman's party will oppose her virulently, chiefly because she has antagonized specific feminine legislation and has insisted upon voting like a staid dyed-in-the-wool Old Guard Republican who hasn't any use for "these meddling women."

The situation is decidedly entertaining. Alice, who professed to abhor the idea of women in politics, waged as an anti a good political fight against female political rights. She admits that the keenest disappointment of her career was the suffragist victory, when the men of Oklahoma gallantly admitted that "women were people" and as comparatively intelligent as themselves, and conferred the vote upon them. But she accepted the new "burden" with such fortitude that she decided if there had to be women legislators, she, an anti, would make about the best there was. She put this idea over so successfully that she was elected by a sizeable majority. But after this she was quite consistent. She acted as nearly like a man of the magnificently prejudiced old school as she possibly could. She has opposed every feminist measure that has come up, given out interviews upholding the general superiority of masculinity, blamed the women for most of the immorality of the day, their clothes, their habits, their tastes generally, and insisted that when a hubby went astray it was usually his wife's fault.

No wonder the women voters stand aghast at her effrontery! Here she is, hopelessly out of date, holding the up-to-datest job—Queen Victoria on the throne regretting that women should "seek power and sway," when they should crave nothing but to "love, serve, honor and obey." And, incidentally, Queen Victoria got away with it, too.

So Alice, by scorning, won her way into Wonderland; but, as far as Oklahoma is concerned, she means to hold the citadel against all yearnful feminine comers and see to it, as far as lies in her power, that no other pernicious member of her sex gets into a place to bring women into contumely. She has met the caterpillar and eaten of the mushroom, that, you will recall, so enlarged the other Alice's growth that she couldn't get out. It remains to be seen whether someone will pass her a new bite from the other side in the election, which will make her grow so small that her friends will have difficulty in finding her again, as also happened to the other Alice.

But after all, Miss Alice has been thoroughly, joyously feminine in her new masculine role—not feminist, but feminine. The only wonder is that she was not successfully snared to guard some masculine hearth—but she says she is sixty and never had a lover. So Miss Alice, like so many old-fashioned girls, has discovered that men approve of her, acclaim her, vote for her—but seek and love the modern and the voguish.

A KITCHENER FILM.

A reckless English film corporation recently produced a screen play purporting to show "How Kitchener was Betrayed," with one of Lord Kitchener's former secretaries (who has written a biography of his distinguished employer) in a leading role. Which ought to have meant good business.

But England has one kind of a film censorship if not another. So after the film was shown at a private parliamentary preview, it was branded untruthful, and will be barred from public exhibition. It was, however, founded upon one of the great myths of the war, which a great many people ardently believed—giving a certain German woman, Elbie Boecker, all the credit for "betraying" the Kitchener sailing plans to the Germans by vamping a young officer attached to Kitchener's staff, from whom she is supposed to have learned them. But unromatic British officialdom proves that the lady was in jail long before any plans were mooted, and incidentally shows that those plans were changed at the eleventh hour by Jellicoe on account of unforeseen weather conditions. The Hampshire, they declare, struck a stray mine, and sunk as the result of the merest accident. They positively decline to let any intriguing enemy female have a particle of the credit, or to permit any young officer's integrity to be so besmirched.

The film is banned because it is untruthful, because it reflects against the reputation of innocent persons, and because the influence and educational responsibility of the films is so great that they should not be permitted to mangle history for gain.

All of which impresses us as highly commendable and perfectly logical. A historical film should be strictly historical, especially when it deals with history sufficiently recent to be verified. Such a film could only be justified if true. Otherwise produce it as fiction without historical camouflage. But these producers made the mistake of insisting upon the absolute authenticity of their film story and using real names throughout. Hence it is both poor fiction and poor history. And it also reflects against the value of the "biography" of the young secretary, whose "facts" were accepted for the plot of the play, and which has already been published, with all its erroneous details.

The war has been responsible for a great deal of this "biographical" and "autobiographical" literary slush, which, while not reaching quite so large a public as the films, does contribute false and foolish views and misconceptions to the confusion of history. And the stories are read so often by people who honestly wish to be truthfully informed, rather than merely entertained. There is plenty of scope for a literary censorship in this department in the cause of truth. The idea of censorship either in the films or in art and literature is abhorrent, but most of the censorship brigades to date have marched against too much realism, rarely against deliberate perversions and misrepresentations of the truth. And it is interesting to note that not a single defender has come forth for the "How Kitchener was Betrayed" film, excepting the perpetrators thereof—the authorities and the public being much more concerned about the betrayal of history, the unromantic, chilly facts in the case.

TOGAS FOR TWO.

Next November the voters of Pennsylvania will choose two United States Senators instead of one. The death of Boies Penrose followed unhappily fast upon that of Philander C. Knox. Physically Penrose was the bulkiest member of the Senate. Knox was possibly the smallest. Mentally both were giants, although their minds operated on variant lines. Senator Penrose was admittedly the Warwick of the Republican party. He might make Presidents, but he could never hope to be master of the White House in his own name. He was vigorous and sincere in his partisanship. He was a Republican first, last and all the time. Being regular was the thing that counted and the party organization was to him greater than any man or group. From a partisan standpoint the Republican organization has lost its most valuable asset. Yet it will survive and possibly climb to greater heights. As a Senator, Boies Penrose was a mighty force for his State and the cause he represented. He was a power of the first magnitude. He was a splendid and faithful product of Pennsylvania public life. After the death of Senator Knox the Governor of Pennsylvania gave the interim appointment to William E. Crowe. Next November the people will definitely decide the selection of two Senators.

HAVE YOUR EYES EXAMINED.

A committee of engineers headed by Herbert Hoover has prepared a report on the elimination of waste in American industry which contains startling facts about eyes.

The workman whose eyes are inefficient is doing inefficient work, no matter how conscientious he may be. That is a proper premise. On this is piled the fact, according to this survey, that 25,000,000 American workers have subnormal vision. This is estimated to be half of all the men and women engaged in gainful occupations.

This is a clear case of industrial waste through ignorance and neglect.

It can be corrected by proper co-operation between industrial managers and workers.

This national report says one thing clearly: Get your eyes examined.—[Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

The Stabilizer.

CHOP SUEY.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

Your tiny tad of from eighteen months to three years old comes toddling down the path with increasing momentum until he overreaches himself, the flying little feet double under him and he comes a cropper. He doesn't know it, of course, but his desire for an expanse of form at the expense of consistency has given him a fall. He had more speed than stride and nature called a halt. He isn't permanently discouraged, nor is he in the least cured. He is going right on with the false system of reaching for more than he can get for a long time to come. When he is four, he will blow up his toy balloon to a size that is greater than the strength of the rubber and an explosion is sure to follow. When he is five, his soap bubbles will hold the magic of the world for him until each in turn bursts, for the same reason that most things in this world of fragile illusions and unstable mechanism do break.

Your baby of eighteen months, who seeks to travel faster than its little feet can carry the over-reaching weight of the precious little body crowned with the rosy head of flying curls, is working on the same reverse principle as the man who robs the mails or holds up the bank. Each is seeking an expanse of form at the expense of consistency, and nature is not built to stand the strain. The desire of the baby and the thief is a legitimate impulse in both cases, but their method is sadly at fault.

If society only had to deal with the baby and the burglar, we would make this a fascinating world because of the baby and in spite of the burglar, but bless you, this thing of more speed than legs, more motive than power, more appetite than achievement, more want than method, more greed than purpose, more wish than will, breaks out on all of us, like a case of measles.

You may wonder why so many people who study metaphysics seem to go insane. They don't go insane from studying metaphysics. They have been living inconsistently at a thousand points for a long time and metaphysics happens to be the point at which we catch them at it. Metaphysics proved to be the sheriff or the policeman who took them in the act. Also they did not study metaphysics, for the steps of mastery are always of kind degree, kind and safe. They had day dreams about metaphysics, they had fancies and half knowledge, they mixed up the impersonal in principle with personal motives, they sighted a goal away ahead and lost sight of all the steps in between, they wallowed in the sophistries of personal affirmations and impractical negations, ignoring relative and conditional realities; in fact, they violated principles by seeking an expanse of form without maintaining consistency.

It may happen to the best prepared and the most sincere student who takes any path of thought, art, science or business in crossing over from common clear consciousness to the visions that must necessarily attend a working recognition of the full office of intuition that some bad moments will be experienced. These minutes will be bad merely in the sense that they are awesome and that their inspiration seems perilous. This happens because the sense of realities brings a multi-dimensional experience that seems to cut off a great many supposed conditions and facts which have been the chief support of the student's past life. Consistency is certainly the only safeguard here.

This vital law becomes more apparent if we take a concrete example in business. Moving pictures, for instance, require no apologies if their greatness and tremendous import shall carry them through many circumstances that look adverse. They have been true to a divine purpose; they are cyclic and epochal, both in their form and application, but they have almost wrecked themselves as a business institution by a violation of business law that is so plain it is rather astounding that producers and investors should not have made a discovery and correction long ago.

You will agree that it takes a rather nimble dollar to earn 9 cents in one year and still play safe. It requires a sharp hand at the investor's pen, a stout heart at a lot of vision, if a million dollars earns $80,000 in a year and takes no risks in doing it. In pictures a great many concerns with less than half a million of capital tried to pay interest on that amount to fifty or a hundred employees, provide a surplus for the producer, leave something for the stockholder and still keep their capital intact. They endeavored to pay the whole interest to about sixty different people and the most remarkable business in the world could not do that without performing more miracles than the Bible contains.

Please do not limit this example to pictures. They have been glaring offenders in this particular, but be frank enough with yourself to recognize where the shoe may fit the business of life that you yourself are at present about. Do not stop wanting to be rich or wise or great, for you are all of these and have a right to know it, but, for heaven's sake, be satisfied to get there one step at a time.

MEN AND CIGARS.

Men somehow remind me of five-cent cigars.

What a great number of five-cent cigars there are! How they are advertised as equal to ten-cent cigars! And how notoriously they are not!

There are millions of five-cent men trying to prove they are as good as the ten, twenty or three for a half kind, and cannot do it; the first evidence that a man is "getting along" is that he quits five-cent cigars and demands something better.—[H. W. Howe's Monthly.

BROOKLETS.

By Harry Ellington Brook.

You might not think so, from reading the papers, but good deeds are still done, every day.

Don't blame God or the Devil. Blame yourself. Both God and the devil are within you.

There is nothing mysterious about sickness. It is due to breaking the laws of Nature.

You cannot get well by "doing" something, or "taking" something, but only by ceasing to do and take that which makes you sick.

Here are three good suggestions for the New Year: Control your temper. Check your appetite. Strengthen your will.

It is easy to give up what you don't like.

Many men, who have long passed the "age of consent," have not yet reached the age of discretion.

No man will reach old age who overeats and under-sleeps. Oh, yes, I know, but Edison is not old yet, and Napoleon died comparatively young.

We hear much of unemployed working men, but little about the clerk, who must say, with the man in the Bible: "Dig I cannot; to beg, I am ashamed."

I avoid places where they mark things "and up." Be honest, and say "From 50c to $5," or whatever it may be.

It is well to ask a favor after lunch, unless the man has dyspepsia, when you are never safe.

Farming is hard work, but it beats toadying for a living.

Unhappy rich people remind me of a man with a pocket full of cigars and no match.

Some have a habit of differing merely for the sake of argument. I never take such bait. Life is too short.

We have dull times when people talk dull times, and prosperity when people talk prosperity. Mental suggestion.

Americans pity healthy European peasant women in the fields. Save your pity for pallid American women in factories.

Asthmatics, who sleep with closed windows, and inhale "dope," are unconscious humorists.

America needs fewer politicians and more patriots; fewer financiers and more farmers.

A country is truly prosperous only when the wealth is fairly distributed.

When men get wise they will refuse to be driven or cajoled to offensive wars, and will let statesmen fight it out.

Women are seldom happier than when spending money—because most of them seldom have much to spend.

Business is a confidence game. It is based on credit.

Burglars are not safe advisers regarding the construction of safes.

As between an aristocracy and a plutocracy, give me the former.

A good person, continually nagging to have things just so, is a thorn in the flesh.

No man understands a woman. She does not understand herself. And only one kind of a woman understands a man.

Some men are chiefly dress. Some magazines are mainly cover.

Money will buy many things, but it cannot buy the two greatest of all things, Health and Happiness.

Real industrial freedom must include freedom for small manufacturers from unfair competition by monopolies and trusts.

What the people need is the establishment of a school of statesmanship that will fix the country up, so that it will not need saving so often.

The man who sits at a desk cannot safely eat like a plowman.

For every drunkard, a hundred suffer from auto-intoxication, the result of habitual overeating.

The Pilgrims were protestants; the Puritans were religious bigots.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

LOOKING BETTER.

All around me men are building bungalows in which to dwell, and the painters brisk are gliding, graining, staining, wildly well; and I see the glaziers glazing and behold the braziers brazing, and the carpenters are raising still more buildings with a yell. Everywhere
I hear the hammer, everywhere I hear the saw, and the workmen's joyous clamor fills with happiness my craw; for the dead old days are ended when no sound of toil ascended, and my ample beard I rended, while I muttered "Pish!" and
"Pshaw!" Oh, the dead old days are finished—may they never amble back!—when our wads were so diminished that we couldn't build a shack; and the landlords, prat-tleering, came like shearers to the shearing, truculent and domineering, to remove our little stack. Now we build our little shanties, build our neat, three-cornered sheds, and our grandmas and our aunties will have roofs above their heads; and they'll plant sweet peas and lilies and materials for chilis, and the rent hogs have the willies as they curl up in their beds. Oh, the better days are coming when the building booms begin, and the plumbers they are plumbing, and the tinners gayly tin; every gent will have his cottage where the flies succumb to swattage, where he'll eat his humble pottage—and the rent hog's growing thin! WALT MASON.

A Running Start.

Maurine and Billy are rivals in their school work. But Billy had received much the higher grade on an examination paper. As he turned triumphantly toward the young lady after the results were announced, she gave him what is commonly referred to as "a nasty look."

"Huh," the little red-haired rascal boasted, "I can make an uglier face than you."

"Well, you ought to," she snapped, "look what you've got to start with."—[Indianapolis News.

PEN POINTS
By the Staff

The new Pacific Electric Southern California Table rates are in effect. Now for argument.

Mrs. Jake L. Hamon, widow of the slain Oklahoma oil magnate has been married to a Chicago banker. Thank heaven, that's over.

The English government is lending money to foreign nations, on condition that the most, if not all, of the money, shall be spent for English products. Clever, John Bull.

The most of the howling that is being done just now by the profiteers who are no longer making a profit of 100 per cent. That they are not splitting the ground with their cries.

That Yap controversy is settled at last, and the United States has supreme control of the cable between Yap and the American island of Guam. Everybody is satisfied but the Democrats.

Diplomatic relations have been resumed between the United States and Germany. But President Harding did not present his check to be kissed when envoy Carl Langer presented his credentials.

Senator Tom Watson of Georgia is still foaming at the mouth. The upper branch of Congress, the people of Georgia made a mistake—they should have sent him to a sanatorium instead of Congress.

It is no longer good form for the automobilist to summon his wife to the door by a honk; the right thing is to get out and buzz the door bell. Is it possible that the honking keeps the neighbors awake.

It is all very well to predict prosperity during 1922, but among other things to contribute to the happy result are more watchful economy and enforcement of law and order. These are the prime essentials.

The four-power treaty is certain to be ratified by the Senate. Republicans will be for it, and if the Democrats bolt they will challenge the overwhelming sentiment which sustains the treaty, and go before the people with a mighty bad case.

Dr. Winifred S. Stoner, Jr., "the wonder child," is the master of twelve languages, and has been married. The husband is entitled to and should receive the sympathies of the world. Just imagine what a woman can do when she gets busy in each of the dead tongues.

The Marine Corps has done itself proud in guard duty aboard the mails. This service is one of the best possible illustrations of how the marines for nearly 150 years have been used effectively in civil affairs, entirely aside from the glorious record as combat organizations in every war, afloat and ashore.

It isn't a question whether one favor prohibition, but whether they are for the enforcement of the law. There ought to be no doubt where every good citizen will stand. This is a government of the people. The amendment has been adopted as provided by law. If it is not wanted, there is a way to repeal it.

In the list of champions for 1921 in the realm of sport, California furnishes the following: All-around athletics, S. Harrison Thompson, Los Angeles Athletic Club; 100-yard dash, Charles W. Paddock, Pasadena; amateur wrestling, 158 pounds, J. J. Humerick, 145 pounds, R. J. Vis, both of Los Angeles; clay court, doubles, lawn tennis, W. T. Hayes and Clifton B. Buck, Pasadena; national mixed doubles, W. M. Johnston and Mary K. Browne; national women's doubles, Mary K. Browne and Mrs. Leo R. Williams.

THE BORN OLD MAID.

I want a career, that's settled, my dear.
I don't want a husband for mine,
I won't take a man to muddle my plan,
Not even if labelled divine.

I want a career, you men, do you hear?
Take notice and let me alone.
To this resolution I'm bound to adhere,
My heart is as hard as a stone.

I won't change my mind, so tease now you'll find
I've enlisted in Gibson's stand-pat;
I'd rather be single, with cash to jingle,
And mother an army of cats.

COMMENT.

Alas, you poor maid, for you I'm afraid,
There's misery haunting the sky,
You'll be old ere you know it and unable to go it,
With no one your sorrows to share.

Remember I write of that poor old maid,
The born and intended old maid,
The men must have missed her, for none ever kissed her,
She's a ghost that has never been laid.

Far be it from me to declare that I see
In the woman that duty has bound
The unwanted blessing that she is distressing,
For she is the kind unassuming.

She's single today as the price she must pay
For service to others in need,
She's a Christian in fact, for that is the act
That gives a new meaning to creed.

WOOLWINE HIT BY GRAND JURY.

ment, the county gaining the most served. It was also found that the county had gained by the system of feeding city and Federal prisoners.

It is stated in this section of the report that it was the second time the jury had served on a county jury and that the women showed liability and effectively performed their duties.

Official complaints commit special praise to Dep. Sheriff Stafford, who has been before the body. The committee on highways reported that its members traveled all over county roads and that the work in this line being done is according to specifications in a workmanlike manner. It was suggested that sufficient money be appropriated to eliminate one railroad grade crossing each year.

The report of the public charities committee commends the work of Supt. Martin of the County Hospital, and of Supt. McLaughlin of the charities board.

The City Jail came in for its usual condemnation. It was declared unfit for any human being, though Capt. Murray and his assistants were praised for their work, as was Capt. Butler of Lincoln Heights station.

The Venice City Jail is the only one outside of Los Angeles that was not praised. New quarters are needed there, it was stated.

The Norwalk State Hospital, in charge of Dr. Applegate, and the Patton Asylum, in charge of Dr. Riley, are both declared ably handled in the report.

Dr. Victor Parkin, in charge of the psychopathic department of the County Hospital, and Dr. Norman Martin and Dr. Woods are praised.

Los Angeles water after an investigation is declared to be in the "best condition."

City Health Commissioner Powers and County Health Officer Pomeroy are commended.

Among the offices to come in for special commendation of the grand jury were those of County Clerk Lampton, Coroner Nance, Public Administrator Bryson, the County Horticultural Commissioner, Treasurer Hunt, Auditor Payne, Assessor Hopkins and Chief Deputy Weed, Recorder Dogan, Superintendent Davidson of the mechanical department, F. E. Doty, secretary of the Civil Service Commission; Registrar of Voters Lyons and Chief Deputy Kerr, Tax Collector Welch and County Counsel Hill.

FIVE INDICTMENTS, JURY'S LAST ACT.

Four secret indictments and one open document, charging Charles F. Degner, Los Angeles business man, with violation of the Corporate Securities Act, were returned by the county grand jury as its last official act yesterday before filing its annual report with Judge Reeve.

Degner is accused of making an asserted false statement relative to the financial condition of the Standard Carburetor Company. It was stated he asserted the company had machinery valued at $25,188, while the real value is said to be not over $1000.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND IS EXPECTED TODAY.

John Hays Hammond, noted mining engineer, with Mrs. Hammond, their daughter, Miss Hammond, and Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hammond, is expected to arrive in Los Angeles today and will stop at the Ambassador.

BURCH WITNESS GETS GRILLING.

quest when it was presented by Dr. Moore.

"Burch was pretending he did not want to be called insane," the witness said, "but underneath he showed he wanted to take a chance on insanity rather than a murder trial. When I told him he was not insane in my opinion he said, 'Dr. Heag thinks I'm insane and I think I can sell you on that idea before we're through.'"

It is in connection with the statement Dr. Orbison made that Burch declared Mrs. Obenchain sent him word concerning the note that the defense counsel considered calling her to the stand.

Other witnesses during the day were the following deputy sheriffs who are turnkeys in the County Jail:

Swan Wilson, Elmer Condon, John E. Wilmot and J. B. Loving. All testified they believe Burch is sane. J. E. Vaughan, shotgun expert, was called to testify regarding the nature of the "spread" of shot fired from a choke and a cylinder-bore barrel of a shotgun.

GAMUT CLUB DINNER IS POSTPONED WEEK.

The Gamut Club's monthly dinner and entertainment scheduled for last night was postponed until next Wednesday when a program will be provided through the efforts of President L. E. Behymer. Members of the club will be invited to see a presentation of Tony Sarg's marionettes. The customary dinner will held at 6:30 p.m. following which the marionettes will be seen in "Rip Van Winkle."

GRADUATES ENJOY DAY AT SCHOOL.

Baby Show is Feature at Manual Arts Alumni Home-Coming Gathering.

New Year's home-coming day for graduates of Manual Arts High School was celebrated yesterday by nearly 1000 members of the alumni association. Nearly 500 attended each "feast of reason and flow of soul" session that marked the day gatherings and about the same number assembled in the evening to dance.

The program opened with a concert by the school band. Motion pictures of former graduates were shown and seventy-five class and team flags of the school were presented.

At the luncheon Dr. A. E. Wilson, principal of the school, spoke and later, in the auditorium, Attorney Mortimer Kline, one of the alumni, and Martin Kells, president of the association, delivered addresses.

The feature of the afternoon was the baby show in the library. And it was some show, too—"they'll say it was," those proud alumni fathers and mothers. Fifty sunny-haired tots competed for honors. Every one of them received a toy balloon and those who were old enough to talk promised to come back later and be educated at Manual Arts.

The alumni association is eleven years old and numbers in membership nearly 2000.

SECRETARY TO MAYOR CRITICISED BY BOARD.

ACTIVITIES IN BEHALF OF DANCE HALL OWNERS ARE CONDEMNED.

The Board of Police Commissioners yesterday, after considering a report submitted by ex-Chief of Police Jones before he left office on Tuesday, concerning public dancing at 748 South Figueroa street, December 30 and 31, without a permit, declared that the activities of H. H. Kinney, private secretary to Mayor Cryer, in the matter were "deemed by the board unwarranted and without the authority of the board."

Former Chief Jones filed a written report on the case to which was attached a report from Capt. Adams, commanding Central Station, that Mr. Kinney had instructed the private secretary to the Chief of Police to authorize Capt. Adams to issue a permit to carry on dancing for the remainder of the year" at the Figueroa-street dance hall. The Board of Police Commissioners canceled the license for the dance hall on December 27 and denied H. L. Case, the new proprietor of the place, a new permit. Private Secretary Kinney stated that he had acted on the understanding that the old permit did not expire until midnight December 31, and he (Kinney) had been informed that Cane was within his rights in holding dances there until that time.

W. AND J. GRIDDERS EN ROUTE.

Eastern Football Demons Pack Up for the Homeward Journey.

Washington and Jefferson football players went to bed at the Vista del Arroyo Hotel last night with their alarm clocks set for 5:30 a.m. Early this morning they will tumble out of the hay, pack their tooth brushes, annihilate a few helpings of ham and eggs and leave Pasadena for the Southern Pacific station here.

At 8 o'clock sharp the squad leaves for San Francisco, where it will look over the town, take in an alumni banquet, and set out for points East Saturday morning.

Stops will be made en route at Colorado Springs and Chicago.

Already plans are under way at Washington, Pa., for a homecoming banquet in honor of the W. and J. heroes and 2000 reservations have already been made for an affair that will ring down through the ages. It looks like strenuous times ahead for the "Presidents" and it's a cinch they won't be able to play very much football after taking in the string of proposed banquets.

"We've had the time of our lives here in Southern California," said Graduate Manager R. M. Murphy last night. "I've managed the W. and J. team for a number of years and we've taken a number of trips, but we've never seen anything that could compare to our few days in Pasadena and Los Angeles. It's simply been great and everybody has shown us every courtesy on the calendar. People who live in Southern California are sure lucky."

And what W. and J. thinks of Southern California has nothing on what Southern California thinks of W. and J.

COLLEGE MATMEN MEET IN SPOKANE.

PULLMAN (Wash.) HUTCHISON AND BARNES TO PLAY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TO BUILD NEW BALL GROUNDS.

Angels to Have Modern Concrete Plant — Percy Patrick After a Site.

William Wrigley, Jr., is planning a new field and a strictly modern concrete plant for his Los Angeles baseball team. He has instructed President Patrick to cast about for a suitable location for such an improvement.

This probably will not be an immediate development, as the present lease has four years to run, but Los Angeles is growing with such strides that the acquisition of a fairly close-in site within a reasonable time is important.

Such an improvement would run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, but would be permanent and justified by the city's future. A plant of this sort, especially if patterned after Forbes Field in Pittsburg, which is the most ornate in the big leagues, would be a pleasing feature in any part of the city. In fact, one viewing the Forbes Field stadium from the outside might think it an annex to the Carnegie Art Institute, which stands only a short distance away in Shenley Park.

TIJUANA RESULTS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 4.—Midia, ringing up her second victory in as many days, was the big surprise at Tijuana today. Neglected by the crowd which favored Jake Schas and Omond, Midia came, under the wire an easy winner and at long odds in the fifth race at one mile and seventy yards. Shenandoah was another easy winner, taking the fourth, also a long race, from Clover Junia, while the favorite Rhymer, came in third.

Little Romper, paying a long price, won ...d third, a five-eighths sprint. Crispie was second and Josie Gorman third. Plantagenet, heavily backed at no time figured. Harry D. came back after a long rest and proved an easy victor over a band of sprinters in the second race. Results:

First race, six furlongs—Figaro won, Sapgan second, Miss Milda third. Time 1:08.

Second race, five furlongs—Harry D. won, Purfect Day second, Ella Waldo third. Time 1:00 2-5.

Third race, five furlongs—Little Romper won, Crispie second, Josie Gorman third. Time 1:04.

Fourth race, one mile and seventy yards—Shenandoah won, Clover Junia second, Rhymer third. Time 1:54 4-5.

Fifth race, one mile and seventy yards—Midia won, Jake Schas second, Omond third. Time 1:52 2-5.

Sixth race, five and one-half furlongs—Aunt Maid won, Harper, Valley second, Jack Lait third. Time 1:19 1-5.

Seventh race, six furlongs—Safety won, Flying Blossom second, Mabel Rule third. Time 1:20.

BEARS BOW TO MERCURY FIVE.

Club Quintet Wins Lively Game, 18 to 14.

California Men Are Unable to Locate Hoop.

Eggleston is the Individual Star of Doings.

Our Sunny Southland doesn't seem to agree with California as an athletic playground. The Bears were taken down another notch last night in the L.A.A.C. gym, when the Mercury basketball wizards hopped on them 18 to 14 in a rapid-fire, roughhouse that had the fans delirious with joy. Charlie Keppen has rematched the two quintets for Friday night, which means another young Battle of the Marne.

Both teams were adepts at taking the ball down the court, but the Berkeleyites could not locate the hoop. It was the ability of Red Wilson and Olney to flick the ball into the basket when they had the opportunity that won for the club, while if the Californians had made good half their chances they would undoubtedly have emerged on top.

RED AGAIN.

Diminutive Red Wilson was the club's high man with 6 points. He played a slashing game at forward, and when he wasn't scrapping with one of the California players was a dangerous man. But Eggleston of the university takes all the honors. He was everywhere at once, passed with deadly accuracy, guarded his man closely, and although he performed at guard, made more points than any other man on the floor. He was easily the star of the game.

Considering the fact that this was California's first appearance of the season the Bears played a good game. They should be a much harder crowd to beat when they take the floor against the club Friday night.

The Mercury men took the lead at the start when Moe found the basket. A period of hard fighting followed in which field goals were as scarce as dandruff on a Mexican hairless, and when the half was called the locals led by one lonely goal, 7 to 5.

The club had a slight edge in the concluding period and a string of substitutes sent in by the northerners failed to change matters. Max Gold finished things with a free throw just as the gun popped.

Line-ups:

L.A.A.C. (18)		California (14)
Moe (5)	F.	Tait (1)
Schaumer (2)	F.	Dentzel
Olney (4)	C.	Lackey (2)
Slaughter	G.	Eggleston (7)
Tyrell	G.	Kincaid (2)

Substitutions—Wilson (6) for Moe, Odd (2) for Schaumer, Leavell (2) for Olney, Ross (2) for Dentzel.

Referee—Glenn.

BEARS MEET CUBS IN CASABA GAME.

The two sections of the University of California will face each other on the basketball court tonight when the Berkeley five takes on the crack S.B.U.C. casaba experts in the Cubs' gym. As the Branchers trounced the L.A.A.C. quintet a short time ago, they are favored to win over their northern rivals, who fell before the speedy Mercury men last night. Scott, Woodard, Jones, Gibbs and Butler will line up for the locals.

VERDICT TO WAUGH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BEAUMONT (Tex.) Jan. 4.—Bobby Waugh of Ft. Worth was an easy winner over Louis Leonard of Seattle in their ten-round bout here last night, according to newspaper men.

LADS LOOSEN UP LIMBS.

In spite of the frigid atmosphere, quite a batch of hardy athletes answered Coach Pipal's call for Occidental's first track practice of the year yesterday, and more are expected to brave the wintry winds in their B.V.D.'s today. The rather mushy condition of the track prevented any very extensive practice, but Pipal put his men through a short workout which enabled them to get their legs loosened up.

A number of the Tiger speed merchants have been doing cross-country work for the last month, and are consequently in good condition to start the season. Buster Sloan, Art Martin, Louis Chandler, Wagner, McClellan and Ellsworth—all men who specialize in the distance jogs—have been trotting all over the landscape of late, but will confine their tours to Patterson Field hereafter.

Pipal is well stocked up with long-winded gentlemen, and is expecting to collect a nice large share of points in the mile, half mile and two-mile events. Sloan is a sure blue-ribbener in the double-mile run, and stands an excellent chance of taking points in the mile. Wagner and Chandler, both of whom startled the athletic world on Oxy's freshman team last season, will be among those present when the mile is called, while McClellan, a veteran in this event, is expected to count for a few digits.

Ellsworth and Chandler will do the honors in the half-mile. Both can travel the distance in close to two minutes and now that Mormon of Pomona has graduated Oxy should take two places in any meet in the South in this race.

Spangler, Argue, Angell, Buckman and Boice will perform in the sprints, and Baker, Powers, Spangler and Condit are slated to do the 440. The pole vault will be handled by Goodenough, who clears 12 feet, and Art Martin, while Ridderhoff will perform in the barrier events. Argue is expected to win both the high jump and broad jump against any college competition in the South.

From which it may be seen that Pipal is pretty well fixed for the track season, and the Tiger supporters are hoping for an invasion of Stanford and Berkeley before the season ends.

REDLANDS RELAY RACE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 4.—The A.A.U. relay carnival is to be held on the University of Redlands track this year, according to an announcement made today by Lloyd Yount, athletic manager at the university. The carnival will be on February 18 and will attract all the college and high school running stars south of the Tehachepi.

Last year the University of Redlands track was the scene of the annual A.A.U. track meet in which Charles Paddock set up four or five new records. The track is even faster this year for a concrete curb has been built since then and work done on the straightway, it being widened to ten lanes.

The relay carnival is the most spectacular event of the track season for there are only running races and hurdle races in the carnival.

PENCILERS ARRESTED AT TRACK.

Bookmakers and Cashiers Nabbed at New Orleans After Six Days' Racing.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Jan. 4.—Forty-seven bookmakers, together with their forty-seven cashiers, operating at the fair grounds race track were technically arrested at the conclusion of today's racing card by being directed to report to the Sheriff's office on warrants issued on information furnished by Dist.-Atty. Marr, charging violation of the Locke antigambling law. Bond was fixed in each case at $250.

Action of the District Attorney in causing the arrest of all the bookmakers marks the resumption of the fight he started against alleged race track gambling at last winter's meet. Many suits then instituted by the District Attorney are still pending.

HITCH IN TRADE OF PLAYERS.

Three-Cornered Deal Between Griffith and Frazee Hanging Fire.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—A hitch in the proposed three-cornered trade of baseball players involving the Washington, Boston and Philadelphia teams of the American League, by which Roger Peckinpaugh, former captain of Yankees, would become manager of the Senators, developed today at a conference between Clark Griffith, owner of the Capital club, and Harry Frazee, head of the Red Sox.

Griffith returned to Washington without any definite understanding having been reached. Frazee stated that there was nothing he could say other than that the proposition had not gone through and that it remained for Griffith to make the next move.

The trade was said to include sending Joe Dugan to the Red Sox and Joe Judge and Outfielder Bing Miller to the Athletics. Other players also were reported to be involved.

Later Mr. Frazee said that Mr. Griffith advised him that he could obtain Dugan from the Philadelphia club and trade him to Boston for Peckinpaugh. The Boston magnate declared he wanted additional players and that Mr. Griffith's refusal to make the trade other than on even terms caused the hitch.

ROWE TO HAVE A FINE HOCKEY TEAM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Jan. 4.—With a majority of last year's team Coach Bobby Rowe appears to have plenty of material for a strong aggregation with which to make a bid for first honors in the Seattle Amateur Hockey Association race this season. Don and Jack MacKenzie, Wright, Pacey, Crawford, Allen, Rowlands, McPhee, Freeman and Murray are among the capable players who are battling for berths on the team.

HEINIE GROH IS A FULL-FLEDGED GIANT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. — Heinie Groh today became a full-fledged member of the New York National League Baseball Club, which gave the Cincinnati Reds George Burns and Mike Gonzales and a cash bonus of from $50,000 to $100,000 for him. Groh signed a two-year contract at the Giants' office this afternoon. Manager McGraw refused to state the salary.

MASSACHUSETTS TO SUSPEND WILSON.

UNIQUE BASEBALL SEASON.

Only One Manager Let Go in Big Leagues—Same Holds Good in the Football World.

BY ROBERT W. (TINY) MAXWELL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—This off-season in baseball is remarkable and unique because only one manager in the big leagues had the tinware attached. George McBride was ushered to the official gate at Washington and told to go away from there. His resignation was announced at the minor league powwow in Buffalo. His successor is not named as yet, but there are numerous men under consideration. There were rumors that others would be canned, most prominent among the reports being one concerning Miller Huggins, but he has signed, and Roger Peckinpaugh, his rival for the job, has been sent to Boston as punishment for being ambitious.

SAME IS TRUE.

What has been true in baseball also holds for football. According to the chin festivities, Jack Heisman, Glenn Warner, Jock Sutherland and a few others would get a change of scenery next year. However, the reports are being quieted, and it now begins to look as if virtually every coach of big college teams in the East would be back at his old post in the fall. To date, Jim Baldwin, at Lehigh, is the only new coach announced.

Yale had an excellent season and the New Haven undergraduates and alumni naturally are pleased. The Harvard defeat was the only reverse of the season, there are a number of good men back for next year and prospects, with Tad Jones as coach, are bright. Bob Fisher, despite the Centre and Princeton downfalls, came back strong and the Crimson triumphed over Yale. Fisher will be among those present and voting at the Harvard practice next season. The same goes for Bill Roper at Princeton.

ARE COMING BACK.

Heisman and Warner had been given the air by every one except the students and officials at Penn and Pitt, but both are going ahead making arrangements for 1922. Karl E. Davis, the graduate man-

CHESS HONORS GO TO GRUER.

Merry Tilt is on for the Second Trophy.

Both Los Angeles Players Out of Running.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—E. W. Gruer of Oakland today won the first California State chess championship at the conclusion of his ninth victorious game in the matches which have been in progress here for the last week. His ninth victory was in a game with S. Swanson of San Francisco. Gruer won in thirty-one moves on a queen's gambit opening.

The standing of other contestants in the tournament, who are now fighting for prize-winning places, follows:

E. J. Clarke of San Francisco, five won and two lost; S. Mietkowski, of Los Angeles, seven won and three lost, eliminated today at the conclusion of his tenth game; H. Borochow of Los Angeles, six won and four lost, also out of the tournament today.

Other games will be played tomorrow, while the finals will be played Friday. Although the second place is in doubt, games played in the remainder of the tournament will not affect the standing of Gruer.

In today's games, Mietkowski defeated W. H. Lovegrove of San Francisco, twenty-five moves, queen's gambit declined; O. Hallwegen of San Francisco defeated C. Woskoff of San Francisco, thirty-four moves; Rui Lopes, and William Metzke of Fresno won over Mietkowski in fifty-eight moves, Evans Gambit opening.

MARKS AND RUBIDOUX FURNISH MAIN EVENT.

Matchmaker Frank Crowley has lined up Georgie Marks and Ad Rubidoux for the main course at the Hollywood Legion Stadium Friday night, and from all reports the go should be about the niftiest thing that has ever been staged in the movie city's arena. In the first place Rubidoux has an old score to settle. Marks won a decision over the Riverside flash some time ago, and Rubidoux will be out for blood Friday.

The biggest prize for the winner, however, will be a trip to New York and a headlining bout in Madison Square Garden. The winner has been offered this opportunity and both are eager for a chance to show their wares in Gotham.

Battling Kid Mende and Sailor Walters have been secured for a return match in the semi-wind-up, while Ted Silva and Frankie Novey will clash in the opener.

CALPACO CLASHES WITH ALL STARS.

Baseball fans are counting on getting out to the old park this week-end after three Sundays under cover. Calpaco and White's colored All-Stars are scheduled to clash in a three-game series, with a single game Saturday and a double-header Sunday.

Some of the stars lined up to play with Calpaco are "Rea" Oldham, Chet Thomas, "Rowdy" Elliott, Ray Bates, Pete Schneider, Connolly, Jacobs, Wolfer, Brown, Butler and Smith.

"Red" Oldham of Detroit and Jonathan Taylor of the Chicago Giants are scheduled to meet up in another pitcher's battle Sunday.

YOUNG FARRELL IS BACK FROM CHICAGO.

Young Farrell, one of the best bantam boxers ever developed in Southern California, has returned from Chicago for the holidays. While in the East, especially around the Windy City, Farrell met some of the best bantams in the country, and had a successful season. He will be seen here in a bout or two at Doyle's or Hollywood, before returning to the East. Farrell is in fine trim and ready to take on the best at a moment's notice.

MEN NOW WEARING HAND-TAILORED COLLARS

Tremendous Demand for Pique Soft Collars Tailored By Experts.

Western haberdashers claim that hand-tailored soft collars made from handsomely designed white pique cloth, are rapidly superseding the crude, ill-fitting collars made entirely by machinery. It is also claimed that the neck-torturing, stiff, starched collars are "on the toboggan" and will soon be as obsolete as tallow dips and red flannel underwear.

Men's collars have undergone a marked evolution in the past 10 years. Haberdashers are now urging their patrons to wear hand-tailored pique soft collars of the Grayco type—in patterns adaptable to their necks. The Grayco collars are made in a dozen fashionable styles—for fat necks, thin necks, high necks and short necks. To appear properly collared it is only necessary to select a becoming shape of correct height. Dealers claim that the collar should be ¼ to ½ size larger than the shirt.—[Advertisement.

BRITTON IS TO BOX PERRY.

Welterweights Are Matched to Meet in Fifteen-Round Setto—Title Is to Be Involved.

BY HARRY NEWMAN.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. — Jack Britton, welterweight champion, was matched this afternoon by Tex Rickard to meet Jack Perry of Pittsburg for fifteen rounds on January 27, with the title involved. Britton has not fought in New York since his clash here last year with Ted (Kid) Lewis.

Rickard has been anxious to put on as many titular bouts in the garden as can be arranged for and has been in negotiation with the welterweight holder for some time. Late today Britton and his manager, Dan Morgan, agreed to the terms offered for the battle with Perry.

FLOORS MAN.

Perry in the early part of last winter floored Britton during a ten-round bout in Pittsburg. In his only appearance in the garden last season, during a welterweight tournament, Perry showed aggressiveness, plenty of speed and hitting ability.

Another bout practically clinched by Rickard today was a return match between Midget Smith, Harlem bantam, and Joe Lynch, former champion of the bantam division, for January 20. These two had an interesting scrimmage in the garden several weeks ago which the judges called a draw, although many at that time thought Smith who outlived to the verdict. It is expected the winner of this contest will be matched with Johnny Buff, if the latter can be coaxed away from his proposed trip to Europe. Buff is scheduled to sail on January 15, but it is just possible he will be induced to change his mind and remain here to take on the winner in the Smith-Lynch affair.

There was no definite developments today in the proposal to match Fred Fulton with another heavy contender here for January 13. There were indications that Bartley Madden, local heavyweight, will be the choice to oppose the tall plasterer. This will be the feature event of a heavyweight card on that date.

Battling Levinsky and Gene Tunney are practically signed to battle ten rounds.

Bob Roper of Chicago has been matched to meet Dan O'Dowd for twelve rounds at the National A. C., of Marieville, R. I., on January 11.

BALL SEASON VERY UNIQUE.

ager at Pittsburg, has denied emphatically that Warner's contract of two more years would be broken, and in the Penn football meetings Heisman has been very active in selecting his assistants for next fall. On could not say that these were signs of a new coach. No, one could not.

Everything was cut and dried for Jock Sutherland to become head coach of the Panthers, according to the reports, but now it appears as if Jock will be back at Easton. Lafayette had a most successful year, and although the ante probably will have to be raised before Sutherland affixes his John Hancock, it is believed that the former Pitt guard soon will come to terms. Sutherland also is insisting that two assistants be hired. He favors Beidel and Gougler, two of his former teammates under Warner.

Sutherland puts up the argument that it is too much for him to handle the whole squad. Beidel and Gougler would be two valuable assistants.

NOTHING TO IT.

Before the 1921 football season started Charlie Moran announced to the world that he was through coaching Centre College. Then a story came out of Danville that Bo McMillin would be the tutor of the Praying Colonels in 1922. Moran explained that his umpiring kept him in the big league circuit until October, so that he got a very late start in coaching. However, Charles has a habit of turning out champions in less time than it takes other tutors to develop losers. The great season enjoyed by the Colonels has enthused the populace and students, who insist that Moran sign for 1922. McMillin will be coach of a small southern college team at a high salary.

Greasy Neale, another young man who makes his living in the big leagues as well as in football, had such a brilliant campaign at Washington and Jefferson in his first season with the Presidents that the officials of the Washington (Pa.) institution signed him up for two more years.

It is a peculiar fact that the two teams coached by baseball men are the elevens that represented the East in the battles on the Coast.

MURPHYS TO PLAY COX-HAAS TEAM.

When play in the various divisions of the Managers' Association winter league is resumed next Sunday, the game between the class AA leading Cox-Haas nine and the Gene Murphy crew stands out as the feature tilt. The game will be played at Tournament Park, Pasadena.

Milt Unger, manager of the silk shirt crew, has signed Sam Lewis, San Francisco Coast League hurler, to pitch. Sam Leake will be at the receiving end. Lefty Russell and Ernie Haas will form the Cox-Haas battery.

CRACK HURDLER TO BE OPERATED UPON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—William Martin of Seattle, one of the hurdlers on the University of Pennsylvania track team, has developed a growth on his left leg and will be operated upon the latter part of this week, according to Coach Lawson Robertson. It is feared he will be lost to the team for the remainder of the indoor season.

RED OLDHAM TO TWIRL WITH CALPACO TEAM.

"Red" Oldham, famous Detroit pitcher, is scheduled to twirl Sunday when Calpaco and White's colored All-Stars clash in a double-header at the White Sox park. He will be opposed by Jonathan Taylor of the Chicago Giants. Connolly, a big league pitcher, and Jim Jeffries of the Indianapolis A.B.C.'s will work in the Saturday game.

BROWNS WILL NOT GO TO BOGALUSA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4.—Bob Quinn, manager of the St. Louis Americans, today intimated that the Browns would not do their spring training at Bogalusa, La., as he had previously announced because he said, the Bogalusa officials had failed to fulfill certain arrangements.

WILL O' WISP.

Just what went wrong with the Bear tackling nobody may ever know. At times it was little better than the prep brand. Of course, Erickson was a human will o' the wisp, and Brenkert as elusive as quicksilver, but that alone would not account for some of the wild misses. In the second quarter there was an astounding example of missing the mark. Erickson had caught a punt on the first bounce, and two California men were down on him. Erickson was standing stock still with the ball in his arms, apparently at a loss which way to start. He was a perfect stationary target. The front tackle dove for him, but missed completely, going three feet to one side. Possibly he couldn't imagine Erickson standing still, and simply made a blind dive, expecting him to dodge in that direction.

Erickson had hardly taken a step when the second tackle catapulted himself through the air and missed. By this time the viking was under way, and he eluded three more tacklers further down the field before being nailed. The Presidents, tackling under identical conditions, made few misses. In short, the Bears tackled like men who had worked out too lightly, and practiced without leaving their feet. They appeared to have forgotten how to play hard football as she is known.

IS UNFAIR.

Nothing, of course, could be more unfair than to judge Brick Muller on his showing in this game, and few things at this time could be more odious, than comparisons. Muller, his ankle broken early in the season, has been on the sidelines practically all year, and still is compelled to favor his injury. Here he was thrown into the year's most important game in no better shape that he would normally be for the opening practice game of the season. Brick was miles off form, yet toward the last he was showing flashes of his real skill and strength and football instinct. Recalling Muller as he played against Ohio, we have yet to see his equal.

Incidentally, Brick was a marked marked man and the target for a long line of loose talk.

Aside from Herb Kopf, himself a marvel and still coming, who shook hands with Brick when he went on the field, most of the easterners pretended not to realize his identity.

"I'd like to get a look at this bird Muller," mumbled a W. and J. player standing close to Brick.

"Guess he can't be such a helluva lot, or they would have him in," replied another.

"He's all-American," volunteered another.

"Funny, I never heard of that," replied the first speaker.

SHORT OR TALL.

"What's Muller really look like?" inquired still a fourth, edging over toward Brick, as the signals were being called on the next play. "Is he short and fat or a tall weedy guy like you?"

And all this time they were smashing plays at Brick. Neale, a baseball player, plainly had perfected his men in the science of goat-getting, which is one of the most potent weapons of the diamond. Apparently, they didn't manage to rope Brick's bah-bah, but they certainly were familiar with the art.

However, the most unkind thrust was reserved for the fourth quarter, and it savored strongly of big-league chatter.

"What do you think of the sky?" chirped Kopf, glimpsing the clouds overhead.

"Oh, I guess the sky is all right," replied Brick, half puzzled.

"I thought you must admire the sky, because about half the time you are down on your back looking up at it," Kopf shot across in incisive conclusion.

Brick himself got a kick out of this one, although it wasn't necessary, as Nisbet was providing plenty of them.

RENEW NATIONAL GAME AFTER LONG RECESS.

After three Sundays of rain, baseball fans are counting on getting a taste of the national pastime this week-end. White's crack colored All-Stars are scheduled to take on Calpaco in a three-game series at the White Sox park.

Some of the stars who will play with Calpaco are "Red" Oldham, Chet Thomas, "Rowdy" Elliott, Ray Bates, Pete Schneider, Connolly, Jacobs, Wolfer, Brown Butler and Smith. A double-header will be played Sunday, first game starting at 1 o'clock.

UNION MEMBERS GET PRISON SENTENCES.

TWENTY-FIVE LABORITES IN DENVER ARE JAILED FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER, Jan. 4.—Twenty-five members of the Amalgamated Butchers' and Meat Workers' Union, including one woman, late today were sentenced by District Judge C. J. Morley to terms in the County Jail ranging from one day to two months for contempt of court.

Those sentenced were found guilty of violating a court order issued December 6, ordering them to return to work pending the outcome of a wage dispute adjudication then pending before the State Industrial Commission.

T. A. McCreash, district president of the organization, received the heaviest sentence—sixty days in jail. Dan Mullen, local president; Gilbert Clary, local secretary, and William H. Hays, treasurer, received sentences of thirty days each. Miss Rose Tarvison and thirteen others received suspended sentences of one day each in the County Jail.

Counsel for the union men gave notice that he would take the case to the Supreme Court.

Manual Arts Honeydew Hurlers Indulge in Some Tall Practice.

WORKING HARD FOR L.A. GAME.

Manual Casaba Brigade is After Pioneers.

Dirt Court Will Give the Romans an Edge.

Coach Blaire is Inclined to be Pessimistic.

Motts Blaire, who is guiding the basketball destinies of Manual Arts, is putting his tribe of athletes through some vigorous training in preparation for their initial appearance January 13. The artisans are scheduled to hook up with L. A. High, and as the game is to be played on an outdoor court Blaire is losing considerable sleep from worry.

Manual's basketers have been working out on an indoor court ever since practice started, and due to the damp weather, have not been able to get used to playing on dirt. For that reason the Toiler's coach is inclined to be pessimistic, and is predicting all sorts of doleful things for his quintet unless the weather clears up.

Another cause of Blaire's despondency is the ineligibility ruling laid down by the City League officials. Several of his most brilliant casaba heavers will be forced to warm the bench until the second semester, most of them having succumbed to an epidemic of flunking. Johnny Moore, who has been showing up well as a forward, is one of those ineligibles, while Redfern will also be out of things for a while.

LOOKS GOOD.

But with all this trouble Blaire has a few things to be thankful for. One is Capt. Max Miller, who is one of the sweetest forwards in the business. Miller is a veteran having had two years' experience and is expected to be the mainstay of the Manual five. His cleverness in handling the ball and precision in shooting baskets mark him the Toilers' biggest star.

Loynd, who captained the Purple and Gray team last season, and Bill Blewett are again gracing the squad, although Blewett will be ineligible after the end of the present semester. Blewett is putting the finishing touches on a long and brilliant athletic career at the Vermont-avenue institution, and will play his last games as guard on the casaba brigade. Loynd will be Miller's running mate at forward.

For center Blaire will probably use Maxwell, a new man, but one who is developing into a whirlwind on the basketball court. Although Maxwell isn't a skyscraper, he gets a powerful spring on the toss-up, and will be a hard man to oppose at center.

CLEVER GUARD.

Harshberger, who subbed last year, has blossomed into a clever guard, and is expected to complete Manual's team.

In addition to this array, Manual has Laughlin and Redfern for substitute forwards, Hood for a utility man and Augustine and Riley for emergency guards. Augustine is a big hulk, who will undoubtedly be a terror if he can develop some speed.

Fred Featherstone, boss of the lightweights, is turning out some flashy players that will be useful to Blaire next season. Levy and Crowley as forwards will be star performers when they grow a little, while Jannssen and Johnson also show signs of class.

GAMBLERS ARE GIVEN WARNING.

LANSING (Mich.) Jan. 4. Horse racing is to be barred from the programs of the Michigan State fair and other fair associations, "unless just suspicion of the sport" is removed, according to H. H. Halladay, head of the State Department of Agriculture, who controls State funds for fairs.

"Horse racing is under just suspicion," Mr. Halladay said. "Supporters of the game are responsible. Unless they eliminate fixed races and betting the racing must be discontinued."

America is the graveyard of shattered billiard hopes for foreigners. Erick Hagenbacker, a German cueist, is in New York ready to take a crack at Champion Shaefer. Erick is credited with a run of 768 at the 18.2 balkline game. When Jake meets him, the first number of that run should be knocked galley west. It's simply a way we have in America.

We take to the risibles every time we hear about what a Pacific Coast League manager is going to do with his team this year. Now, boys, you can just sit on your haunches and rest serenely quiet about the flag contenders this season. Just paste it in your hat band that the milling toward the end of the season should dwindle down to a battle royal between William the Silent and Wade the Rubicund. Rather milksoppy language, but a lot of good old homespun truth behind it.

By the unerring touch of some magician's wand, it do appear as if the African jungles have been transported to a one-half of one per cent Milwaukee village near that burgh which Walter McCredie made famous. Standing in the offing waiting until either Wills or Tate hits the canvas tomorrow night, is the old Tar Baby, Sam Langford, just a-hurting to take on the winner. Verily it do look as if the Gold Dust Triplets are functioning in regular he-man fashion around the beer burgh of the Northwest.

PAPER MANUFACTURING WAGE ROW SETTLED.

EMPLOYERS OF SEVEN OUTFITS AGREE TO 25 PER CENT REDUCTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Settlement of the wage dispute between seven large independent paper manufacturing companies and their employees was announced late today by a board of arbitration named to pass on the company's proposals for a 25 per cent reduction.

F. L. Carlyle, president of St. Regis Paper Company and a member of the arbitration board, said that the agreement meant an 8-cent an hour decrease for about 10,000 unskilled workers, but there would be no changes in the wages of some 5000 skilled workmen.

The new scale of unskilled workers, he said, will be 32 cents an hour, while skilled men will continue to get 54 cents and upward.

The agreement is effective January 9, and will remain in force until May 1, he said.

SCORES SENATORS FOR THEIR ACTIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. — Protesting that there is a policy to prevent the Senate from doing business, Senator Wadsworth, Republican, of New York, today called attention of the Senate to what he termed "the ridiculous situation when this great body cannot or will not do business."

He attributed the situation to the practice of some Senators taking the floor "between 3 and 5 o'clock, emptying the chamber, and when his address is over there is not a quorum."

SOCCER STARS WILL PERFORM.

Many Local Experts to be in Action Sunday.

Double-Header is Scheduled for Maier Park.

Games also at Long Beach and at Pasadena.

Many of the local soccer stars who so well upheld the honor of Los Angeles in the interstate series played at San Francisco last Sunday and Monday will be seen in action at Maier Park, Vernon, Sunday afternoon with the resumption of play in the Southern California league. Rain or shine the games will be played.

At Maier Park, Vernon, a double-header is on the cards, the first game between the L. A. Uniteds, the league leaders, and the Long Beach Uniteds being called for 1 p.m., the second tilt which will bring together the L.A.A.C. and the Overseas being timed for 3:45 p.m.

Both games promise to be keenly contested. The beachmen will take the field with the odds slightly against them, but they are full of fight, and having in mind the fact they show to their best advantage against strong opposition the leaders will be called on to play hard to win.

ARE CONFIDENT.

The intense rivalry between the Athletic Club and the Overseas will find vent in Sunday's game. The veterans are in second place, but are being strongly pressed by the Mercury eleven and there are many who believe that the Overseas will fall before the forceful attack of the L.A.A.C. The latter are full of confidence as the result of their record of five straight wins, and are expected to set a merry pace.

At Tournament Park, Pasadena the Sons of St. George will give battle to the Pasadena squad, in what should be one of the most bitterly contested games of the week-end play. Both elevens are evenly matched, and from past performances, it would be hard to pick the winner.

EXPECT TO WIN.

The fourth game will be played at Hazard field, between the Rangers and the Crown City Club. The former have shown much improvement in form in recent starts and expect to enter the win column Sunday.

The following officials will handle the games:

At Vernon, Long Beach Uniteds vs. L. A. Uniteds, H. Jones; Overseas vs. L.A.A.C., H. Ratcliffe, at Tournament Park; F. Inganal, at Hazard Field, O. Korns.

AUGUST BELMONT INJURED BY FALL.

NEW YORK FINANCIER IS THROWN FROM HORSE; BACK STRAINED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—As a result of injuries sustained when thrown from a horse on his estate near Garnett, S. C., August Belmont, New York financier, was transferred to an ambulance and taken to his home when his private car arrived today. It was said tonight his injuries, which consisted of a strained back and severe bruises, were not serious and that he was expected to be at his office in a few days.

It was explained that Mr. Belmont was injured while shooting from the saddle. He was thrown when his mount came suddenly upon a blind ditch and instinctively leaped, throwing the rider, who is 65 years old, on his back.

Physicians are understood to be watching for any signs of a recurrence of a spinal trouble with which he suffered four years ago following a fall in a polo match.

DENY REDUCTION IN HOSPITAL RATIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. — Officials of the Public Health Service said today no orders had gone forward for the reduction from $1.10 to $0 cents a day of the daily ration allowance in the Fox Hills, Polyclinic and Hudson hospitals at New York.

General instructions, however, they added, had been sent at various time to many hospitals cautioning them to avoid unnecessary expense and to effect whatever economies were possible without reducing the quality or quantity of food served.

REX INGRAM'S PLANS.

WILL FILM HUGO'S "TOILERS OF SEA" SOON.

By Grace Kingsley.

The announcement of a projected opus by Rex Ingram has become a thing of moment in the film world. The director who made "The Four Horsemen" and who is just completing "The Prisoner of Zenda" has another great story in mind.

It became known yesterday that he is expecting some time in the film version of Balzac's "Eugenie of Victor Hugo's "Toilers of the Sea." Whether he will make this picture here or abroad is not yet determined.

Mr. Ingram has already made a film version of Balzac's "Eugenie Grandet," which has been voted one of the most artistic productions the screen has ever seen. Which makes it doubly interesting that he intends filming the French Hugo story.

Before embarking on this production, however, Mr. Ingram expects again to film "Black Orchids," a former version of which he made for Universal at the outset of his directorial career some five or six years ago. The picture was a great success at the time, but Mr. Ingram feels that with his added experience he will be able to make the story even more effective.

It is likely that that brilliant young actress, Barbara La Marr, who is playing one of the leading feminine roles in "The Prisoner of Zenda," will have the leading role in "Black Orchids," which was formerly played by Cleo Madison.

Research work for Hugo's "Toilers of the Sea" will occupy several months, as Ingram contemplates making the picture as atmospherically correct as was "The Four Horsemen."

Wally Reid's Next.

Following his next Paramount picture, "Across the Continent," Wallace Reid will next make Richard Harding Davis's play, "The Dictator," under the direction of James Cruze. This play is the one in which Willie Collier starred on the speaking stage so successfully, and is being adapted to the screen by Walter Woods.

Ince Bulletin.

A bulletin from the Thomas H. Ince studios is to the effect that the Culver City plant is busy these days.

"The Brotherhood of Hate," Thomas H. Ince's latest special, entered production this week, directed by Lambert Hillyer. Frank Keenan, Marguerite de la Motte, Lloyd Hughes and Edward Burns are in the all-star cast.

The J. Parker Reed, Jr., company, which is filming Frank L. Packard's story, "Pawned," has returned from San Francisco where, among other things, an automobile was run off the end of an Oakland ferry boat and sunk in the bay for scenes in the production. Mr. Reed, Irvin V. Willat, who is directing, Tom Moore, Edith Roberts, Josef Swickard, Charles Gerrard and James Barrows were in the party.

"The Hottentot," starring Douglas MacLean, was completed this week, with Madge Bellamy and Raymond Hatton in leading roles. It was directed by Del Andrews and James W. Horne.

Taking advantage of the unusual flood conditions at Devil's Gate Dam last week, John Griffith Wray shot a number of spectacular scenes there for "Jim."

New Film Units.

Whoever else is worrying about the picture business these days, Messrs. Irving M. Lesser and Michael Rosenberg do not seem to be. They announced yesterday that two new units have been added to those already at work furnishing product for distribution by the Western Pictures Exploitation Company of this city.

The much-sought-for James Oliver Curwood stories are to form the basis of one unit. Irving Cummings will be the star. This will be known as Irving Cummings-Ernest Smith Productions.

The first vehicle is "The Man From Hell's River," a Curwood story. It is an adaptation of "The Coyote."

The second unit added to the organization is that formed by Hugh B. Evans, Jr., and starring Roy Stewart. The first story is now in production. It is "Ridin' Wild," from a tale by H. H. Van Loan. The director is Robert Thornby. Marjorie Daw is cast in the principal feminine role.

Rupert Hughes's New One.

On his return to California from New York next week, Rupert Hughes will begin the direction of another of his own stories, probably "The Bitterness of Sweet."

Bennett Spoke Right Up.

Perhaps if all actors who are outraged and confused by discourtesy in the audience when patrons insist on talking, gave the call down to offenders that Richard Bennett recently gave some society buds at a matinee in Baltimore, patrons would be a little more thoughtful.

It was while Bennett was in a performance at the Ford Theater last week that some society buds annoyed the rest of the audience and the players with their loud chatter.

At the end of the first act, Bennet stepped to a prop telephone used in the play, and spoke in a loud clear voice through the transmitter: "I am going," he said, "to ask the young ladies to come on the stage, so they may be seen as well as heard."

The noise subsided, and there was no more disturbance during the progress of the play.

Kay Laurel in Vaudeville.

Its been some time since we heard from Kay Laurel, who used to be among us as a picture player. Now it turns out that she has been engaged to appear in a tabloid version of "Naughty Wives," which opened in vaudeville in New York Monday. The act is expected here at the Orpheum within a few months.

Texas Guinan, Too.

There's to be no wasting of Texas Guinan's sweetness on the professional desert air of western picture during the coming season, after all. Instead the two-gun Texas is getting ready to go into vaudeville.

Louise Lovely is Safe.

If you've been worrying about Louise Lovely's whereabouts, you may set your heart at rest. She is neither in trouble nor in mischief. Instead she is in Salt Lake City, where she has been appearing as guest of honor and hostess for the Elks' big New Year festivities. She will return to the picture colony here within a fortnight.

English Comedian With Fox.

Lupino Lane, the English comedian, who has been appearing in "Afgar," has arrived in California. He will at once commence work as a filmer with Fox.

Farnum's New Leading Lady.

William Farnum, Fox star, is to have a new leading lady. She is Rosalind Layte, an English actress. She will make her American debut with Farnum in "Man's Weakness."

Conny Talmadge a Farmerette.

Now Constance Talmadge knows that turnips don't grow on trees, and that squashes do not usually adorn trellises. She found it out during her latest picture, "The Divorcee," while making scenes on a big Southern California ranch.

So enthusiastic was Miss Talmadge concerning country lore that she declares she means to buy a ranch and vacation on it between pictures. She is already looking for such a property, and will build a Spanish house on the place.

University Does Russian Fantasy.

A Russian fantasy, known by the ineffable title, "Inexhaustible Loveliness," is to be given by students of the State university, Southern Branch, at their auditorium on Vermont avenue, this and tomorrow evenings and Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Louise Secoy is in charge of the production. William Wickersham produced the dances.

Hawaiians Like Him.

If Eugene O'Brien has been worrying about his popularity in Waiku, Hawaiian Islands, he can quit right this minute. He has just been informed that he is the most popular screen idol of that region, receiving eight-nine out of a total of ninety-four votes taken.

Maurice Tourneur Starts.

After being held up more than two weeks by wet weather, Maurice Tourneur yesterday filmed the first scene of "Lorna Doone." Doone Village, where much of the story takes place, was almost entirely destroyed by the floods which rushed through the creek bed in which it was constructed.

John Standing, Robert Chandler and Kathleen Lewis have been added to the cast, which already includes Frank Keenan, Madge Bellamy and John Bowers.

Hero's Homely Boy's Chance.

If you are a homely little boy without a bit of vanity, maybe you can get a job in pictures. Clarence Geldert, now directing "Carry on the Race," for the Mission Film Corporation, is looking for the homeliest boy in Los Angeles to complete his cast.

POPULAR AND PROFITABLE.

Evidently the music-loving public of the United States and Canada has indorsed the contention of Fortune Gallo, general director of the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, that a balanced cast, a live chorus, an efficient orchestra and adequate scenery make the presentation of grand opera at popular prices not only possible, but profitable. When the San Carlo comes to the Philharmonic Auditorium for two weeks beginning Monday, presenting a repertoire of sixteen operas, it will be in the course of its tenth annual tour of the principal cities of the United States and Canada, and with an unbroken record of success both artistic and financial.

STARS .. CAN'T .. CORNER .. STEPS.

For This One's Daddy Knows a Few Himself.

Viola Dana and Emil Flugarth.

Mr. Flugarth is the father of the clever picture actress who is featured in "There Are No Villains" this week at Loew's State. He and his daughter like to turn on the phonograph and dance the very latest steps whenever they have a chance.

BARITONE WAS ONCE SUCCESSFUL BROKER.

"You have sung the best duet with me," said Caruso to Renato Zanelli, who comes to the Philharmonic Auditorium this evening in recital program. The great tenor's praise was elicited by Zanelli having assumed the role of Don Carlos in "La Forza del Destino" at an hour's notice, the only rehearsal having been a very brief one in Caruso's dressing-room.

Zanelli has not always been a singer. After he completed his university studies, he became a stock broker in the office of his father in Valparaiso, Chile, and it seems a good stock broker.

But music called him, and at last, because work interfered with art, Zanelli decided to eliminate work. He reached this decision just before Caruso came to Valparaiso, and one night the great tenor heard him sing. He immediately advised Zanelli to come to New York, which Zanelli did.

Without suffering many of the usual hardships of the ambitious singer, Zanelli stepped almost direct from the studio to the stage of the Metropolitan Opera—a feat which can only be explained by the extraordinary lusciousness of his voice.

Despite his varied experience of life, Zanelli is still young—fourteen years younger than any baritone of equal repute with an established opera company. He has just turned 28, and is now in his third year with the Metropolitan.

BAUER'S MUSIC HAS WIDE HUMAN APPEAL.

A musician's pianist, yet one who has played with equal success before a room full of Arizona Indians and the most sophisticated of metropolitan audiences, Harold Bauer, who is the soloist for the sixth Philharmonic concert pair tomorrow afternoon and Saturday evening, should have a high place in the music world, if art may be measured by its breadth of appeal.

The pianist's human quality may be gauged by his saying that the most satisfying appreciation he has ever received came to him recently from a young lady of 9, whom he at once hailed as the Daisy Ashford of musical criticism.

BEAUTY CHOSEN.

Katherine MacDonald has just been selected by the directors of the Annual Photo Exhibit of the Most Beautiful Women of the World to represent the most beautiful woman in America at the exhibit which will be held in the Swarner Galleries, Kansas City, now in progress. The selection of Miss MacDonald was by the unanimous vote of the board of directors, although a number of other screen stars were mentioned for the honor. Miss MacDonald's portraits will be hung at the exhibit alongside of the noted beauties of the capitals of the old world and visitors to the Swarner Galleries will be able to appreciate, for themselves, her unusual charm.

FITZIU TWICE BILLED.

CHANGE OF REPERTOIRE FOR FIRST OPERA WEEK.

By Edwin Schallert.

Slight changes in the repertoire of the San Carlo Opera Company have eliminated "La Gioconda" from the program for the two weeks season at the Auditorium, and have made "La Forza del Destino" one of the features of the engagement of this troupe, as it has been for the past two years. "Otello" is to be sung during the first week instead of during the second.

The complete repertoire now includes "Aida," "Madame Butterfly," "Rigoletto," "Faust," "Otello," "Lucia," "La Boheme," "Il Trovatore," during the opening week beginning Monday, and "Tosca," "Love Tales of Hoffman," "Lohengrin," "La Forza del Destino," "Thais," "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci," and "Carmen" during the second week.

There will be only two repetitions—one "Madame Butterfly," which will be given the second time the Saturday matinee of the closing week.

Taking into account the previous repertoire of the San Carlo, "Otello" and "Lohengrin" will be the only novelties this season. Last year the company performed "Lohengrin" in the East, but failed to give it here. The work is to be sung in English.

Anna Fitziu is to make two appearances during the first week as a result of the change in program. She will be heard as Desdemona in "Otello" and Mimi in "La Boheme."

The principal singer of the opening opera will be Bianca Saroya in the title role of "Aida." Wednesday, the coloratura soprano, Josephine Lucchese, will be heard in "Rigoletto," while the prima donna in "Faust" will be the Californian, Sofia Charleboia.

Fortune Gallo is to introduce a new musical conductor to this city. He replaces Gaetano Merola, who has wielded the baton for the previous performances of the company locally, and his name is Ernesto Knoch.

His first connection with music in this country was as conductor of the Century Opera Company in New York. Previously he had achieved a degree of success as a leader of Wagnerian works in Europe. His musical education, it appears, was largely derived through the assistance of Felix Mottl, the noted Wagnerian conductor.

He did not confine his studies to the Wagnerian operas, however, but is also highly regarded for his interpretation of Puccini and other Italian composers.

In addition to the Century company, he has also been conductor for the Bracale Opera Company, which appeared in Cuba and Mexico, and has led concerts at Ravinia Park in Chicago.

Charley Ray in Flickers.

In view of the perennial interest in football, which is particularly acute just as present, it appears that Charles Ray's feature, "Two Minutes to Go," will be timely. The film is to open Saturday at the Kinema.

Would Shadow Playlets.

A new relationship has apparently been discovered between the one-act play and the short-reeler. Announcement is made, anyway, to the effect that several playlets are to be sent out on vaudeville circuits shortly, and if successful are to be put into picture form. The first sketch is now in rehearsal.

The leading role is played by Maryland Morne, who recently completed a part in R. A. Walsh's production, "Kindred of the Dust," and who took part last summer in outdoor Shakespearean presentations at the Hollywood Bowl.

"Wildfire" Previewed.

A studio preview of the picture version of Zane Grey's "Wildfire" was given this week. The feature was made by Benjamin B. Hampton and the principal roles were played by Claire Adams and Carl Gantvoort. Tod Sloan, the jockey, took part in some horse-racing scenes.

"Wildfire" is a modern western drama, the first release made by Hampton for Goldwyn.

Ade Story Next.

On completing "The Proxy Daddy," which is being made under the direction of Alfred Green, Thomas Meighan is to start work on the George Ade original, "Your Leading Citizens."

Busy with Stage.

Lorimer Johnston, who has been engaged in work in the pictures, is assisting Mrs. R. D. Shepherd in the staging of "The Flaming Moment," this week at the Harlequin Theater.

Stars Dorothy Dalton.

Starting of work on "The Cat that Walked Alone," which will star Dorothy Dalton, is scheduled for the 23rd inst. George Melford is to direct the production. He will return next week from New York.

UNION LEAGUE TO FETE EX-SOLDIERS.

The next entertainment by the Union League Club in honor of ex-service men will be given on the 14th inst., when the members of Los Angeles Post No. 5 of the American Legion will be guests. This will be the second of a series of boxing, wrestling and jazz entertainments put on by the club exclusively for ex-service men, and will be followed by more during the winter. It is the feeling among the members of the Union League that there is a lack of understanding between those who served with the colors and those who acted in civilian capacities during the war, and that by gathering large bodies of ex-service men at these entertainments there will develop a spirit of co-operation which is bound to be beneficial to the men themselves as well as to the community.

GRIEVANCE ASSERTED.

The grievance between the negro ... the slain man dates back two weeks, when a huge moonshine still was raided in La Crescenta by Federal officers upon information furnished them by Allen. The negro lives in a shack at La Crescenta. He is employed as caretaker for several mountain cabins and also as a watchman at the lodge.

Two weeks ago the negro watchman led the Federal officials to the mountain still and Joe Powell, its operator, was arrested and the still was destroyed. That same night, Allen found his home in flames. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burke, who resided near by, aided Allen in quenching the flames. Oil-soaked sacks were found in the debris.

Since the still was raided, Allen feared violence at the hands of the frequenters of the moonshine still. Several nights, fearing death, he slept on the floor of Dep. Dist.-Atty Burke's cabin. Mr. Burke secured a permit for the negro to carry a weapon.

BORROWS REVOLVER.

Early last Saturday night, Allen borrowed a flashlight and a revolver from the Deputy District Attorney. Mr. Burke was a guest at the lodge. After midnight Mr. Burke went outside and talked for two hours with the negro, who was caring for the guests' automobiles.

About 2 a.m. a Ford car arrived. Allen opened the car door. He recognized Ronsee in the car with Miss Silvia Smith of La Crescenta. According to Allen, he greeted Ronsee:

"Howdy, Mr. Jack!"

"'Don't you howdy me, you black stool-pigeon ——!' Mister Jack says to me," Allen declared yesterday.

Allen then stated that Ronsee continued to curse him and reached for his hip pocket. The negro pulled his own weapon and shot Ronsee five times. He was held until the arrival of Glendale officers, who turned him over to Sheriff Traeger.

SWEET LETTERS ARE READ.

The letters of Walter R. Haering, it developed yesterday in a breach-of-promise suit brought against him by Mrs. Leora Forman Hurt, began and ended in the sweetest of terms, but contained nothing in between but discussions of home brew, the weather and how lonesome it is for any man to have to do his own housework. The suit is now on trial in Judge Monroe's court.

Mrs. Hurt charges that Mr. Haering asked her to marry him and that she consented. He then kept postponing the day for their wedding and each time the prospective bride asked for a definite day, he would evade an answer, it is charged. Finally, she gave him thirty days to make up his mind. He did and now she is suing.

The most important witness at yesterday's proceeding was Blanche Brook, who testified that Mr. Haering told her he was going to marry Mrs. Hurt "sometime." He was very vague about the date, according to the witness, but she said he told her that he was going to marry Mrs. Hurt.

The wedding was delayed for a time, according to the testimony, because Mrs. Hurt did not have a final decree of divorce. When she did get a divorce, it was stated, Mr. Haering failed to carry out his part of the arrangement.

The complaint states that Mr. Haering was formerly a wholesale liquor dealer here and that he is worth about $200,000.

He declares that his wealth is not more than $60,000.

A number of letters of his were read. They all began "Honey dear," "Baby mine," and in similar form by the greater part of them was confined to discussion of more earthly things. Then he ended them in various ways, "Your loving hubby," being one.

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR NAVY OFFICER.

SAILORS ESCORT BODY OF SELF-SLAIN LIEUTENANT AT THE HARBOR.

Full military honors yesterday were accorded the body of Lieut. John Eberwine, naval officer, who killed himself Sunday night aboard the destroyer tender Melville at Los Angeles Harbor. Funeral services were conducted at the Cleveland undertaking parlors at 10 a.m. Chaplain T. C. Miller of the U.S.S. Camden officiated, with Rev. Thomas Grice of San Pedro assisting.

A military escort, composed of an entire battalion of sailors from the Submarine Base, commanded by Lieut. Henry W. Stratton, marched with the body from the funeral parlors to the express car at the Pacific Electric station. Six lieutenants, all commanders of submarines, were honorary pallbearers. They are: Lieuts. M. B. Stonestreet, Charles L. Hayden, Edward J. Krueger, Carl L. Hansen, Simon L. Shade and Clyde Lovelace. The band from the dreadnaught Idaho, led the funeral escort.

As the casket was placed in the express car a company of sailors fired three volleys and this was followed by "Taps" sounded by a bugler.

The body was sent to Los Angeles for transhipment to San Francisco, where it will be buried by direction of the widow.

NEW CHIEF MAKES TOUR OF STATION.

SAYS HE WILL ENFORCE NO CHANGES UNTIL HE HAS MADE FULL STUDY.

An official tour of all offices in the Central Police Station and a long conference with Police Inspector McDowell yesterday made up the first day's business of Col. James W. Everington, the new Chief of Police. Today Chief Everington will visit all substations.

In an official statement made yesterday at Central Police Station, Chief Everington said: "I am taking office as Chief of Police without much knowledge of police work. I will make no changes and will enforce no new rules until I have had a chance to make a careful study of the department."

Inspector McDowell, following his interview with Chief Everington, declared that for the present conditions and commands will not be shifted in any manner.

"Chief Everington," declared Inspector McDowell, "is going to look the whole local police field over with care before he makes any new rulings. Business will be taken care of in the usual manner and every officer is expected to do his best."

PIONEER RESIDENT OF CITY IS BURIED.

Funeral services for Julius Conrad, pioneer resident of Los Angeles, who at the time of his death last Monday was president of the Torrance Window Glass Company, were conducted at 2 p.m., yesterday at the Bresee chapel. Interment was in the Home of Peace Cemetery.

Mr. Conrad was 64 years old. Death was due to heart trouble. The funeral services were conducted by the B'nai B'rith Lodge. Mr. Conrad was a director of the Jewish Orphans' Home and a leader of the Jewish Charities Federation and other charitable organizations. He leaves a widow who resides at the family residence, 1134 South St. Andrews Place.

TRANSFER OIL SUITS TO THIS COUNTY.

The Canadian Pacific Oil Company of British Columbia and the Vancouver Midway Oil Company, which sued the county of Kern for a refund of taxes, will have the cases tried in Los Angeles county, to which the suits were transferred yesterday. The former asks for a refund of $4075.29 and the latter $516.96. It is asserted that the taxes were illegally assessed on the property, which is owned by the government.

AWAKENING OF ORIENT PERIL.

Ebell Club Speakers Warn of Coming Struggle.

Diplomatic Worker Explains Japanese Attitude.

Christabel Pankhurst Says Women Must Take Hand.

BY MYRA NYE.

Henry Dockweiler, who returned recently from three years' service as secretary in the American Legation in Tokio and Peking, and Miss Christabel Pankhurst of London, noted feminist, were the chief speakers at the luncheon for distinguished guests at the Ebell Club yesterday.

Mr. Dockweiler was introduced by Mrs. Clyde Emerson Gates, the toastmistress, to speak on "Political Impressions of the Orient," and Miss Pankhurst's announced subject was "The Result of Women's Enfranchisement in Great Britain." Both ended with "The Relation of the West to the East" and both of them spoke brilliantly.

The man, young, dispassionate, careful not to offend; the woman a little older, aflame with the passion of her message, quick of speech, with words flowing torrentially—each was imbued with the gigantic problem of the Orient in its relation to the West.

"It will be a bitter time for the world if ever Japan, India or China is the ruling power in the world. The whole drama of the future is to be played out in this struggle for supremacy between the East and the West," said Miss Pankhurst. "Anybody who was not stand for the unity of the English-speaking races here in your country or over there in mine is an enemy to society. World peace depends upon that unity. Some Americans rail against the power of Great Britain in India, but, make no mistake, if ever that power, full of mistakes as it may have been, is changed to the power of the East Indian over the white races the whole world will suffer. I proclaim with pride in my country that never was there greater purity of rule than the rule of the English in India. Stupidity may have prevailed, but never graft to any great extent.

NEED HELP OF WOMEN.

"This question of admitting the orientals to our countries is so gigantic that the men need us women to help them solve the problem. It is a good thing for the world, now that we have the franchise to help them. And the problem belongs to women. It is a social problem, not political.

"Do you mothers wish to have Japanese, Chinese and East Indians mingle and intermarry with your children? Men never deal with such perplexities for today and yesterday. We women deal with them for tomorrow and all the days to come. It will not do for you clubwomen to pass resolutions glibly in your sessions. You must get out and work. And there must be a new factor in the question, a spiritual factor," she concluded.

Miss Pankhurst had caught up her theme from Mr. Dockweiler, who preceded her. He spoke guardedly, from the viewpoint of a diplomat, but with marked intelligence and a keen insight into the oriental question as it affects the United States.

"I speak with reluctance," he said. "There are so many chances for misunderstanding. One needs to be near the oriental mind to conceive in any degree the manner of its working. The very genuine so-called 'yellow peril' that existed before the World War still exists. But if we have definite apprehensions of this peril, the Orient has more definite apprehensions of the peril the United States is to them. They have just foundation for this fear.

"Japan has two choices: to retain its nationhood within the present limits and become eventually and permanently a second-class nation or to expand to the East and to the West and become a first-class power. They express among themselves a need for an outlet for their population. Their resources are limited. Unless these two points are made easy for them a conflict is inevitable.

IMMEASURABLE COST.

"The conflict will be between the West and the East with the West the probable victor. But he conflict will seriously menace the white race. It will set back immeasurably the development of resources and social and political progress. This makes this question of relationship between the East and the West the paramount one in Washington today. Unless Japan is insured for economical development, Siam from further encroachments from the North and the integrity of China is in some measure greater than before, assured irritation will be constant and a flare-up in the next generation is certain. The delegates from Japan and China to the Washington conference concede to the naval reduction. They know their people, especially those of China, are not committed to any definite war program for the future. However, unless the white races are willing to accede the individual integrity of these two countries, the irritation may be covered but not healed."

Other distinguished guests and speakers at the luncheon were: Mrs. A. N. Williamson of England, who with her husband is the author of famous travel stories, such as "The Lightning Conductor;" Mrs. William Dockweiler and Mrs. William K. Young, mother and sister of Mr. Dockweiler and Mrs. Elliott Douglass, who has just joined the club after seventeen years residence in Paris. Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of the club, introduced the toastmistress and made the announcements of club activities at the beginning of the club year.

Today in the patio, the Spanish department will hold a Spanish picnic with exchange gifts similar to the custom of Madrid on New Year's Day. The picnic lunch will be at noon.

THE LAST WORD.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

"Sheiks" were frightfully prevalent at the New Year's marquerade balls. You know the costume, voluminous drapery, yards of it, furlongs of it, not only enveloping the fine manly physique, but hanging from the head and almost veiling the face as well.

And don't forget, "when a sheik sees a woman he wants, he takes her."

And half the men in town seemed to yearn to be sheiks, at least to see the New Year in. Costume firms report they couldn't make enough sheik robes for the demand.

All of which invokes the potent question—are draperies, lots of draperies, really an indication of modesty? Ahem! Seems to depend entirely on the sex.

The other costumes that found much favor with masculinity also ran to draperies. Chinese mandarin robes, dashing Spanish troubadours in capes, ruffled and bewigged courtiers or "female attire." And were they more modest and retiring, less pursuitive and he-vampish? They were not. Not so you'd notice it. Especially those sheiks.

On the other hand, the feminine masqueraders ran to legs and figures, backs, arms—all they dared show. When they weren't Chinese maidens in pants or Persian houris in baggy trousers, or fancy "youths" in tight, silk knickers, they were Spanish senoritas with short skirts and protruding hips, naked shoulders and backs, or Pierrettes in a whisp of tulle and a pompom, with a scattering of beauty spots to mark the barest places.

And the ones that flirted and behaved the naughtiest were the "colonial dames" in discreet, buffon draperies and white wigs. Nary a one without a come-hither look in her eye. They doubtless felt their costumes provided all the necessary modesty.

Whereas the sparsely draped damsels recognized the necessity for a certain decorous caution. The less they had on the "safer" they were.

Perhaps after all it is prohibition of draperies the wicked old world needs. You certainly can't trust 'em draped—either sex.

"Women," once said a cynic, "will be the last people to be civilized."

But when they finally get us civilized I wonder if they are going to like it?

In the meantime it is comforting to remember which sex was chosen for the devil. But then, of course, he is thoroughly civilized.

A reckless male has written an article asking "What women talk about"? It is a very short article considering the wide scope of its subject. But I gather that he finds us peculiarly piffling.

Of course, it does make a difference to whom we are talking. Women are so adaptable. Besides, what do the men encourage us to talk about? Do they ever encourage us to talk at all? Aren't we the most interesting as enthusiastic listeners?

It is far more to the point to know what men talk about! Especially when they are untrammeled by the presence of the wrong sex. We know what they talk about TO us. And when they begin by announcing that "now you are a woman of the world, so I can speak frankly to you," we know just what's coming, and according to our sophistication, we demur or encourage the dubious implication.

Exceptions? Oh, of course. But, then, there are also exceptional women.

In 1886 Louisa Wells, a working girl, left her life savings of $2000 to buy a burial lot and erect a marble monument to her memory. For thirty-six years her heirs have contested her will on an insanity plea, and her $2000 has become $8000. The courts have just decided in the working girl's favor—and she is going to get some haughty magnificent monument, finer and grander than the one for which she hoped.

They would have thought her so much saner if she had spent that $2000 on clothes and invested in a dubious husband, instead of buying herself a fine monument. But I am glad Louisa got her monument.

TO CHECK UP MAIL.

Government Loses Large Sum on Under-Stamped Packages.

The government loses more than $250,000 annually through the mailing of short-paid parcel-post packages, it was disclosed yesterday by an order received by Postmaster O'Brien, cautioning extreme care in handling such mail matter.

The order states that a recent check-up disclosed the fact that hundreds of packages are slipping by the postal employees with insufficient postage attached, and directs that at a certain period each month a sufficient number of parcels be weighed to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the inspectors that articles are not being mailed without the correct amount of postage.

It is believed that the majority of the parcels that got by with insufficient postage came from large firms which sent packages in bulk. It is also pointed out that in many cases packages are overstamped.

THE NEW.

IN STORES AND HOMES.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

By Olive Gray.

They Are Wearing:

Black satin slippers, all-covered in pin-point beads of steel. Sometimes a more elaborate design outlines the straps and the tops of vamps.

An advance model in felt hats is so softly pliable as to bring forth a glad welcome, by reason of its becomingness. Pastel tones and especially gray are the most popular development of this practical little hat. Sometimes a gay bird or feather ornament clings to one side of the upturned brim, or again it is some oddly constructed flower which lends a high light to this chapeau. The newly adopted combination in gray and red is sometimes poetically termed "Fire and Ashes."

Fashion Shocks.

Dame Fashion, ever sprightly, cannot resist administering a shock whenever possible. Now that the dear discriminating public has ceased to rave against abbreviated skirts, for the very good and simple reason that skirts have taken unto themselves some length, Mme. La Mode has found another way in which to shock. She slyly has slit the lengthened skirt, for evening wear and underneath has donned trousers! Not bloomers, mind you! Not Turkish affairs, either; but plain, square-legged trousers! To be sure the shock is somewhat softened by the fact that the material of these underlings are of silver tinsel cloth or cloth of gold; but that they are actually trousers, and that they show is enough to shock those ever on the lookout for something about which to protest.

In Sport's Name.

A taste for the ornate in dress may be indulged to an unlimited extent, under the guise of sports attire. From sweaters to handkerchiefs, high colors and broad designs may be chosen in the name of sports. Shoes, hosiery, hats, gloves—all may be marked by emphatic decorative and color effects, so that they are hallmarked for the links, the tennis court or motoring.

In footwear, especially, odd cutouts, loud strappings, queer combinations of color and of materials are permissible, if they be selected for outdoor wear. That these find their way to streets and boulevards, the clothes censor careth not. Particularly is this true in California, where, undisputedly, we have gained the right to "pick our own" in the matter of seasonable attire.

New Cottonry.

With a dawning favor for cotton lingerie, a cordial welcome is accorded to our old friend, nainsook, which has blossomed in such lovely, dainty colors, this spring. Exquisite Nile green, flesh and rose, cell and even a clear yellow are found in this soft, pliant cotton so delightful for working up.

Teddies or drawers in the new graceful patterns, camisoles, robes de nuit and petticoats can be fashioned charmingly from these new cottons, the trimming consisting of either woven or embroidered baskets filled with flowers, wreaths of gay buds and blossoms, or single groups to give a high light to the pastel-tinted garments.

The Ostrich Girdle.

The ostrich belt—surely it must have been extended from California to Timbuctoo, during the past years of the feather craze! But those feathers will not "down." The latest application of the long ostrich plume is in the form of a graceful girdle for the final touch upon evening gowns. The slenderfied length of the feather passes around the waist and the uncurled terminus falls gracefully at one side of the front. Probably this latest device in ostrich is, of all, the most exceptional in beauty. Usually the feather girdle forms a striking color note, also, in contrast to the all-black, the all-white, or the pastel-tinted dress.

For a Five.

Back to normal is the theme in shoes, for the time has arrived when a five, or thereabouts, will purchase almost any style of shoe, from the dressy black satin slipper, to the staunch Oxford in brown or tan. In fact a store recently opened has established the one-price rule and that price covers every mode, weight and color in shoedom. Quality seems to be as good as almost anyone would require and the range in lasts such as to suit any foot. This does not mean that one may not pay more for shoes—oh, no! For in shoes, quite as much as in any realm of attire, luxury is possible, nay almost irresistible.

More Oxfords.

And, by the way, Oxfords are gaining in popularity and it is predicted by the shoe wise, that they will have attained to their own and even more, by spring and early summer. Many of the smartly dressed set are wearing Oxfords with heavy woolen hose, for sports at present and as we know, in California, sports attire leads along paths certain to become well beaten soon after being marked out.

Again White Hats.

The incoming vogue for white in dress is bringing forth the white hat, usually in fabric. Some of the new interseason hats in white crepe, in duvetyne or in velvet are alluring, especially as they depend wholly for charm, upon shape and excellence of workmanship, two elements essential in high-class millinery. Trimming, as every discriminating woman knows, is only too likely to "cover a multitude of sins."

PORT BUSINESS AT HIGH MARK.

Fiscal Year Shows Large Growth of Commerce.

More Than Four Million Tons of Goods Handled.

O.K. on Contract for Bridge Across Channel Sought.

Los Angeles Harbor passed through the banner year of its history during the twelve months ended last June 30, according to the report of commerce passing through the port during the last fiscal year issued yesterday by the Board of Harbor Commissioners. Commerce of all kinds handled at the harbor amounted to 4,296,254 tons, compared with 3,538,380 tons during the fiscal year 1919-1920. The tonnage of the year 1920-1921 was nearly double that passing through the port during the fiscal years of 1917-1918 and 1918-1919. The total value of the freight shipments, both imports passing through the harbor during the last fiscal year amounted to $188,067,509, as compared with $253,919,010, the valuation of shipments handled during the fiscal year of 1919-1920.

The Board of Harbor Commissioners has voted to ask the City Council to approve of a contract between the city and the Strauss Bascule Bridge Company of Chicago under which the bridge company will for $35,000, furnish the city with plans and specifications for and including permits to use patented parts of the steel bascule or lift bridge to be built over Long Beach Channel connecting the mainland and Terminal Island. If the Council approves of the contract, bids will be asked for building the bridge, which is expected to cost at least $400,000.

The harbor board hereafter will meet Tuesdays at 2:30 p.m. and Fridays at 9 a.m. at the City Hall.

VENIZELOS LEAVES TODAY.

Former Premier Venizelos of Greece, who has been visiting Los Angeles and Santa Barbara for several weeks, will sail today on the Pacific Mail steamship Venezuela for New York City.

TO HOLD CONFERENCE HERE

Shipping interests from leading ports of the Pacific Coast will gather in Los Angeles on the 12th inst. for a conference, according to a telegraphic invitation sent yesterday by President Sylvester L. Weaver of the Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that acceptances will be received today, as it was intimated that Los Angeles would be agreeable as a meeting place to all.

The conference will be in keeping with the suggestion of Chairman Lasker of the United States Shipping Board that the shipping interests of the Coast discuss the Pacific situation and the matter of allocation of board vessels to the various ports. Recently long telegrams were sent by Mr. Lasker to President Weaver of the Los Angeles chamber, Wallace M. Alexander, president of the San Francisco chamber, and the heads of the Portland and Seattle chambers, outlining a plan for co-ordination of Pacific Coast overseas trade. It is expected that the coming conference will formulate a definite program for the consideration of the Shipping Board.

SCHEDULES OF COAST STEAMERS TO CHANGE.

NEW TIME OF SAILING FOR HARVARD AND YALE IN FORCE NEXT WEEK.

A change of sailing schedules, effective next week, is announced by Ralph J. Chandler, general manager of the Los Angeles Steamship Company, for the coastwise express steamships Yale and Harvard, in order to allow for the customary semi-annual lay-up of each of these vessels for the few days necessary for hull-cleaning and painting and for the thorough cleaning and redecorating of the passengers' quarters in preparation for the spring business.

Upon her arrival at Los Angeles from San Francisco next Sunday, the Yale will go onto the dry dock of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company after being in constant service for more than seven months. There will be no sailing to San Francisco on Tuesday of next week, but up to and including the 20th inst., the Harvard will sail from her Wilmington dock on Wednesdays, Fridays and Mondays, arriving in San Francisco the following days and sailing south on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

For the greater convenience of those desiring additional time for their business in Los Angeles on sailing days, the hours of departure from Wilmington is to be changed from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., effective next Wednesday, and the special boat-train will leave the Pacific Electric station in Los Angeles at 3 p.m., instead of 2 p.m.

On Sunday the 22nd inst., the Harvard, upon her arrival from San Francisco will go onto dry dock and the Yale will re-enter the service, sailing from Wilmington at 4 p.m., on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and from San Francisco at 4 p.m., on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, until the Harvard shall be cleaned and overhauled.

JAP TRAINING SHIP ARRIVES AT HARBOR.

ENCOUNTER WORST STORMS IN THEIR EXPERIENCE, OFFICERS ASSERT.

After encountering what officers described as the worst series of storms in all their experience, the Taisei Maru, training ship for cadets of the Japanese merchant marine, dropped anchor at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday afternoon. The voyage across the Pacific required fifty-five days, according to the commander, Capt. K. Asari. One of the lifeboats was carried away by the heavy seas but no lives were lost.

The Taisei Maru will remain at the local harbor for several days, Capt. Asari said, and plans for an elaborate program of entertainments for the visiting cadets are being worked out by the Japanese Association.

The training ship carries a staff of sixteen officers, headed by Capt. Asari and Chief Instructor K. Fujita; a crew of fifty-four men and ninety-three cadets. The cadets are on the first leg of a sea cruise to last one year, after which they will become apprenticed to the merchant marine.

Their English instructor, Bramwell Clarke, is on his third visit to Los Angeles Harbor. Mr. Clarke is deeply impressed, he said, by the remarkable progress the local port has made since he was here before.

SAIL ON HARVARD.

Well-known San Francisco Folk to Return Home Today.

A party of well-known San Francisco folks began the New Year with a trip to Los Angeles on the steamer Harvard, arriving yesterday and stopping at the Ambassador overnight. The return trip will be made on the same ship today.

In the party are Joseph J. Tynan of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Joseph J. Tynan, Jr., Miss M. Tynan, Miss May Smith, Mrs. James Costello, Miss E. Costello, Miss M. Costello, William Costello, A. S. Gunn, Edward Bowers and Maurice Asher.

DEATH TAKES PIONEER.

Wife of Man Who Built Notable Structures Dies Here.

Mrs. Christina Mackenzie, wife of Murdock Mackenzie, a pioneer contractor of this city, died yesterday at her home, 245 South Bunker Hill avenue, after an extended illness. She was 75 years old, and for thirty-nine years had resided at her Bunker Hill address. Mr. Mackenzie erected the first large buildings in Los Angeles, among them being the Nadeau Hotel and the Baker Block, two of the city's most conspicuous landmarks.

Besides the widower Mrs. Mackenzie leaves four children, a son, Kenneth, and three daughters, Belle M., Mary D. and Anna Mackenzie, all of this city. Funeral services will be announced later.

ORGANIZED RESERVE OFFICERS ASSIGNED.

Orders issued yesterday from the headquarters of the Ninth Army Corps Area, Presidio of San Francisco, made assignments of second lieutenants in the organized reserves, Ninety-first Division, as follows: To the Three Hundred and Forty-seventh Field Artillery: Karl Ferdinand Biehler, David Thompson Johns, Henry Knox Elder and Charles Allen Dickinson of Los Angeles; McKinley Douglas Tubbs, Long Beach; Neil Dow McClellan, Sawtelle; Charles William Paddock, Pasadena. To the quartermaster corps, Clarence Chester Culver, Los Angeles, and William Addison Wells, South Pasadena.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—[Advertisement.

PORT NOTES

The Matsonia Corinna, which will sail for Puget Sound on Saturday, will carry almost a full cargo of citrus fruits for the northern markets. Shipments of single carloads have been common for years past, but for the first known, this is the first vessel to load out of this port exclusively with oranges and lemons.

The British steamer Canadian Farmer, which arrived yesterday from British Columbia, has a full cargo for this port, the principal item being 1417 tons of print paper for Los Angeles Times, which is now discharged at the outer harbor dock. The vessel also has a considerable quantity of shingles and lath loaded at Vancouver, B. C.

The steamer Cohuna, of the W. R. Grace & Co. fleet, just in from Chilean ports, is discharging at the same dock. The principal shipment being 2400 tons of nitrate, which is particularly good in this section for the manufacture of fertilizer for Southern California orchards.

The steamer Texas H. Camp is also at the outer harbor dock, loading some 5000 boxes of oranges and lemons for the New York market.

The steamer Venezuela, of the Pacific Mail New York-San Francisco service, will arrive at this dock this morning with passengers and a shipment of 2000 cases of crude rubber, consigned to the Goodyear plant at Wingfoot. The consignment came from the Straits Settlements to San Francisco, and was transshipped there for deliver at this port.

CHOKED AND ROBBED.

Bandits Attack Man in Room and Get Cash and Watch.

Attacked from the rear while he was sitting reading in his room in a hotel at 230 West First street, Frank La Vine, aged 70 years, a roomer in the hotel for twenty years, was choked and robbed of $45 and a $100 watch by two youths, shortly after 8 p.m. yesterday.

Mr. La Vine had left the door to his room partially open and sat down in a rocking chair. He was suddenly gripped by the neck and as he neared unconsciousness, one of the thugs rifled his pockets. The youths then ran out of the hotel into the street half a block from the Central Police Station. Several roomers, who were attracted by a cry for help from Mr. La Vine, noticed the bandits as they fled through the hotel door. Detective Sergeants Hamilton and Smith began a search for the robbers.

BARS SKELETONS.

Court Refuses to Let Family Secrets Be Revealed.

"It is up to you to make a showing; so far you have not shown a good disposition," Judge Toland admonished Conrad Koehler, after making an order yesterday requiring him to pay his mother, Mary Marmon Koehler, 68 years of age, $30 a month for her support. The case was continued to enable the attorneys to bring into court another son and daughter to contribute their share, raising the amount to $50 a month.

Conrad Koehler, a street car conductor, declared in court that he is ill, has a sick wife and he is earning only $90 a month. His mother asserted that Conrad had inherited some $16,000 from a relative. Conrad admitted he had received some money, but stated that it is gone. He also wanted to reveal some family secrets, but the court declared he would have no family skeleton dragged into the case.
